Gray

Report Calls for Policing Of Foreign Investment

TORONTO (CP) — A cabinet study is reported to recommend creation of a government agency with broad policing powers to control foreign investment in Canada and allow domestic industries to compete effectively.

This proposal is contained in a Canadian Forum magazine article presented as an abridged version of a report to the federal cabinet prepared by Revenue Minister Herb Gray.

The report's approach to control of foreign investment would permit the proposed agency to tailor its actions to specific situations. Its powers might range from direct prohibition of foreign investment to negotiations for manufacturing rights for a Canadian firm.

The entire December issue of the magazine, a literary journal, is devoted to the foreign-ownership report. Managing Editor Abraham Rotstein says the editors believe it is the "definitive text" of the cabinet document, which has not yet been released by the government.

Rotstein said the 75,000-word article is an edited version of the minister's 200,000-word report presented to the cabinet in May. Technical passages and areas of duplication were eliminated, but Forum editors did not add to or paraphrase the report, he said.

Rotstein would not say how the magazine obtained the report, but he said it was not received from a cabinet minister or a civil servant.

Proposals in the report revolve around creation of a "screening agency," which could be an adjudicative tribunal or an administrative agency responsible to a cabinet minister.

"In light of the government's industrial strategy, the screening authorities would seek to secure the best possible deal from foreign investment, and to block its entry where it is not beneficial," the article quotes the report as saying.

The screening agency would be concerned with takeovers by foreign firms, direct investment, licensing and franchising, expansion of existing foreign-controlled firms, Canadian multi-national companies and foreign firms now operating in Canada.

The report recommends the screening-agency approach over other alternatives, such as a "key-sector program" or majority-Canadian-control rules.

The report in effect provides an alternative to the proposals for majority-control legislation made by a Commons committee and the key-sector approach which the

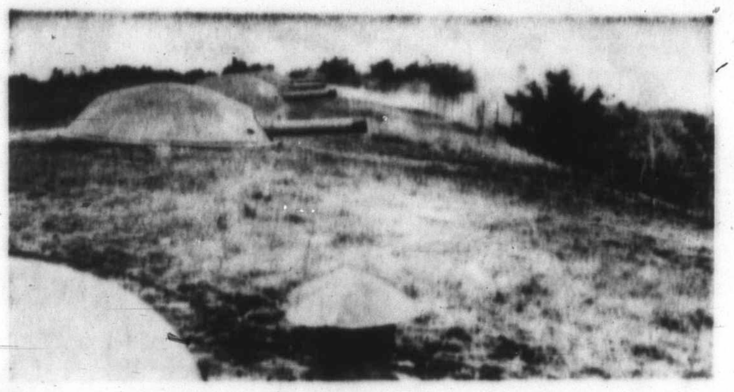
'Cabinet Pondering Policy Proposals'

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau's office said Friday night that the cabinet is still discussing policy proposals on the foreign ownership of Canadian industry.

A brief statement acknowledged that a report published earlier Friday by a magazine was based on "one draft" of a study prepared for the cabinet.



'Impregnable' bunkers of Maginot Line

French Ministry Looking For Concrete Proposals

METZ, France (Reuter) — For sale at auction: Impregnable 20th-century fortifications. Make good hunting lodges, second homes or atomic shelters. All with armored doors, six rooms, air conditioning. Need decorating.

Those are the details that defence ministry officials hope will lure Frenchmen into the bidding when the concrete bunkers of the Maginot Line are offered for sale next week.

The fortifications were named after the French defence minister who started construction along the Franco-German border in 1927. No one really knows whether they are really impregnable.

This is a second attempt to sell the bunkers. There were no takers when parts of the line were put up for auction several years ago.

Plane Back in Calgary

Tearful Reunion

Mother's tears of joy mark this reunion with son she hadn't seen for 16 years. Mrs. Norma Ryerson placed son David in Chicago orphanage when he was year old, and he was placed for adoption when he was four. Recently David learned names of real parents and asked Chicago newspaper for help in finding them. Private detective brought about reunion pictured here.—(AP)

CALGARY, Alta. (UPI) — A masked man armed with a sawed-off shotgun and dynamite hijacked an Air Canada jet with 127 persons aboard Friday night and ordered the plane back and forth between Canada and the United States before being knocked out by a crew member. The passengers were released earlier.

Just before landing the pilot of the big DC-8 four-engine jet radioed that the hijacker, who claimed he was a member of the Irish Republican Army, was unconscious, Air Canada officials said. The pilot, however, called for bomb disposal experts to stand by.

An Air Canada official said "one of the crew members reported that the hijacker had been knocked unconscious by a crew member."

The hijacker was captured when a crew member struck him with a fire axe as the man was bending over to put on a parachute he was carrying, Air Canada said. A local hospital reported the hijacker suffered lacerations on his head.

Earlier the man had extracted $50,000 ransom for the release of the passengers and most of the crew during the second time it landed at Great Falls, Mont.

"The guy was wearing a mask and holding what appeared to be dynamite and a sawed-off shotgun," an Air Canada spokesman said in Montreal.

The plane, on a flight from Vancouver to Montreal, landed in Great Falls under orders from the hijacker, who had demanded $1.5 million. He received $50,000 and the plane took off for Regina, but then turned back to discharge the passengers.

The plane took off again and according to an Air Cana-

'Virtual State Of War'

UNITED NATIONS (CP) A senior official of the Pakistan government said Friday a "virtual state of war" exists on the border between India and Pakistan.

Foreign Secretary S.M. Khan said people are being killed, tanks, artillery and mortars are firing into Pakistani territory, troops are making incursions into Pakistan, and Indian officials are talking of occupying border cities and holding them.

"It is a virtual state of war," Khan said, adding that the only reason it has not expanded is the restraint — preumably Pakistani restraint — being shown.

He also accused Indian of using the millions of Pakistan refugees in her territory for "political blackmail," of helping East Pakistani guerrillas, many of whom he said are criminals and anti-social elements, and of violating the UN charter.

But he did not say that Pakistan would ask the Security Council to meet to deal with the situation, saying only that this recourse is being considered.

Beware of Wrath Of Evangelisti

FIUGGI, Italy (UPI) — Nestore Evangelisti lined his "helicopter gunship" on target, squeezed the trigger and . . . SPLAT! It was a black day for the ladies of pleasure of Figuggi.

"If they come back," Evangelisti warned Friday, "I have something worse in store for them."

The construction magnate said he has ordered several boxes of ear-shattering cherry bombs from a nearby fireworks company.

Profit, as well as prudery, were the motives for Evangelisti's one-man war.

He said they are giving a bad name to a luxury apartment complex he has built nearby.

He said several serious traffic accidents were caused when motorists stopped or slowed down to ogle the girls.

"I went to speak to the women to try to persuade them to find another place," Evangelisti said. "They refused to move. Well, they wanted war and they got it."

Runaway Car Hits Pedestrians

YOUNGTOWN, Ohio (AP) Six persons were killed and nine injured Friday by an automobile that jumped a curb and plowed into a crowded sidewalk in the heart of Youngstown's business district. Police were holding the driver of the car, James Anderson, 30, for questioning.

Delicate Manoeuvres

Mariner Programmed To Circle Mars Today

By MARVIN MILES
Colonist-Los Angeles Times Service

PASADENA, Calif. — Mariner 9 is programmed to curl around Mars at 4:32 p.m. (PST) today and become history's first spacecraft to orbit another planet.

At the time of encounter, the probe will be about 75 million miles from Earth after coasting 248 million miles through space on a journey of almost a half a year.

But before Mariner can undertake its primary 90-day exploration of the red planet, the windmill-like spacecraft must first complete a tricky sequence of manoeuvres commanded by its electronic brain.

While earlier Mariners have accomplished similar manoeuvres in course corrections enroute to brief fly-bys of Mars, no other encounter has been so complicated. It involves, among other things, a record 15-minute burn of the probe's rocket engine to achieve orbit.

So great is the distance involved, that controllers at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here will not receive confirming signals — at the 186,000-mile-per-second speed of light — until almost seven minutes after encounter events occur.

With commands already loaded into the probe's computer brain, the first event will occur at 11:14 a.m. (PST) today when Mariner will be shifted to gyroscopic control of its roll axis which heretofore has been provided by a lock on the guide star Canopus.

This is to assure that Mariner's Canopus sensor is inoperable and cannot be lured off the star at a critical time in the encounter in the same manner it was distracted recently by reflection from a speck of dust, apparently off the spacecraft itself.

Pitch and yaw gyros will be turned on at 1:44 p.m. (PST) when the probe will no longer depend on the sun for a second stabilization lock, then Mariner will start a 43-degree roll turn about an hour later.

Powered by nitrogen jets in the spacecraft's solar panels, this roll will be one of two turns required to position

As Bennett Heads for Ottawa

Guaranteed Income Still Goal

By IAN STREET
Colonist Reporter

Premier Bennett, brandishing the senate committee report on poverty, flies to Ottawa this week to renew his demands for implementation of a guaranteed annual wage in Canada.

The premier said Friday he was "very pleased" with the over-all report, adding that while his government might argue with some of the details, "it really backs up the stand British Columbia has taken at federal-provincial conferences over the past three or four years."

Although protocol at federal-provincial meetings dictates the brief not be made public at this stage, Bennett said he plans to advocate once more the adoption of the negative income tax form of guaranteed annual wage and added he plans to use some new arguments to reinforce his stand.

Just what these new arguments are, Bennett told reporters, would have to wait until the brief is made public Monday morning.

However, his arguments will likely be simply that a guaranteed annual wage is needed now to assure a basic living standard "with dignity" for all Canadians and to attempt to refute federal arguments that Canada cannot afford to adopt any such program, desirable as it may be.

Dealing with the question of costs, Bennett said Friday that a guaranteed annual wage initially established at approximately $3,000 a year for a couple, with additional payments for further dependents, was definitely within Canada's means.

He disclosed no details of the amount which would be required to finance such a program, but said present equalization grants to have-not provinces plus federal and provincial social assistance payments would be sufficient.

But, the premier added, if more money is needed to finance the plan, it will have to come out of income taxes, which would mean Ottawa and the provinces sharing equally, "because it should come out of tax revenues before they are divided."

Senator David Croll, chairman of the committee which produced the poverty report, is to be congratulated for doing "a great service to the people of Canada," Bennett said.

The proposal of a guaranteed annual income would assure all Canadians a basic living standard with dignity and "do away with red tape and bureaucracy" under present welfare programs, he added.

Asked to comment on Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi's stated opposition to the senate poverty report recommendation, Bennett said there was no conflict. He added: "I heard him (Gaglardi) on the radio and he admitted the negative income tax form of guaranteed annual wage was official provincial government policy."

It's far better, Bennett said, to make it possible for people now moving to the cities and going on welfare when they can't find jobs, to stay on their small farms in rural Quebec or elsewhere.

"There they will be happier, and there it will cost them less to live," the premier said.

The negative income tax system, according to Bennett, would first of all involve establishment of a basic floor income, which he suggested might be $3,000 for a couple, rising to "$4,000 or $5,000 as we get benefits from our expanding prosperity."

Everyone would then file an da spokesman in Montreal, the pilot filed a flight plan for Phoenix, Ariz., but later made a midcourse correction and headed for Calgary.

The Air Canada spokesman said the pilot of the plane went back into the cabin where the hijacker was sitting while the aircraft was on the ground for the second time in Great Falls.

"The guy was wearing a mask and holding what appeared to be dynamite and a sawed-off shotgun," the Air Canada official said. Earlier, a Federal Aviation Agency official in the Great Falls International Airport tower said he understood the hijacker had six sticks of dynamite.

During the second stop in Great Falls, an unidentified FBI agent tried to talk with the hijacker.

Policewoman Midge Servoss brought the money to the hijacker. She said the money was provided by the First Westside National Bank of Great Falls. She refused to disclose who ordered the payment of the ransom.

Sean Kelly, an IRA spokesman touring Western Canada, told a Great Falls televison newsman that his organization abhorred hijackings and "disavowed" the current attempt.

An official in the Federal Aviation Administration control tower said the pilot reported "everything was fine" when he made his first takeoff from here.

An Air Canada spokesman said several of the passengers were airplane employees.

A spokesman for Air Canada said the four-engine jet was hijacked shortly after take-off from Calgary. The aircraft, Flight 812, was on a regularly scheduled run from Vancouver to Montreal. It had stopped in Calgary and was on its way to another stop in Toronto when it was hijacked.

The Air Canada spokesman said Capt. Vernon Ehman of Montreal radioed that the man was holding a stewardess captive.

He said the hijacker ordered the plane to fly to Great Falls, where he said the suspect planned to "ransom the plane and then order it to fly to Ireland."

"Flight 812, a DC8 that normally flies Vancouver-Calgary-Toronto-Montreal, was diverted 40 miles west of Winnipeg by an armed man claiming to be a member of the Irish Republican Army," an Air Canada official said.

The Air Canada pilot advised the Great Falls control tower the hijacker warned that under no circumstances were the local police or the FBI to interfere, the control tower spokesman added.

He said the man has assured the crew and passengers that no harm would come to them if they obeyed instructions.

He said the hijacker had ordered the $1.5 million ransom to be brought to the airport and passed into the plane by a rope lowered from the cockpit.

The hijacker said that once he had the money, the plane would fly to Regina, Sask., where the passengers would be permitted to disembark, the control tower spokesman said. The plane would then be ordered to fly to Ireland.

Ordeal by Tar Stops Wedding

BELFAST (AP) — A Roman Catholic girl who was tarred for her romance with a young English soldier postponed their wedding Friday in fear of reprisals against her family.

The love story of Marta Doherty, 19, and Pte. John Larter, 18, was to have culminated in their wedding today.

Marta was publicly humiliated by the Women's Revenge Group.

She and Larter, a Protestant who has been taking instruction in the Roman Catholic faith, reportedly agreed to hold off the marriage for the sake of her family in Londonderry's bitterly anti-British Bogside district.

The Commons committee called for 51-per-cent ownership of Canadian companies.

The report rejects schemes to "buy-back" control of companies now owned by foreign interests as being too costly and not necessarily effective. Both the majority-control and the key-sector proposals would involve purchasing firms now foreign-owned.

It says the book value of foreign investment in Canada was probably close to $30 billion in 1968 and the market value would be greater.

Concerning future foreign takeovers, the report said the economy would not need direct foreign investment for at least the next three or four years. Existing capital sources available to Canadians would be sufficient to bring the economy back to full employment.

The report says the present situation retards development of Canadian industry.

Top management decisions are often made outside Canada. A substantial portion of foreign trade is between affiliated companies, and subsidiaries are prohibited from competing in foreign markets where the parent company or an affiliated company operates.

The report said there have been cases of foreign laws affecting operations of subsidiaries in Canada. An example was the United States trading-with-the-enemy law which affected trade with Communist countries.

The growth of foreign ownership has left gaps in the Canadian capital markets, technology and management, it said.

"Canadian subsidiaries are generally marginal operations in the sense that they are part of a broader organization and seldom have the capacity to survive independently of the links to their foreign partners."

The report said the current mix of government policies is not meeting objectives of the Canadian economy.

The report presented several suggestions and methods of promoting Canadian development:

- Creation of regional banks which would be required to invest portions of their assets in designated regions.
- Tax advantages in return for certain kinds of industrial activity;
- Incentives for pension funds and life insurance companies to invest in Canadian enterprises;
- Programs to encourage development of merchant banks;
- A requirement that foreign firms obtain specific government approval for new stock or bond issues or for increases in bank credit;
- Direct government investment through loan programs.

Mariner at Mars

Mariner properly for the braking rocket burn.

The second turn will be a yaw manoeuvre, a 125-degree turn about the probe's vertical axis, again commanded by Mariner's brain known as the central computer and sequencer.

Once the spacecraft has been positioned properly, its tiny, 300-pound thrust rocket engine will burn at 4:17 p.m. (PST) at a point 1,730 miles above the sunlit face of the planet, 60-degrees south of its equator.

The braking thrust of the engine will slow Mariner's 10,917 m.p.h. speed and permit its capture by Martian gravity as it hooks under the planet and disappears from Earth view at 4:53 p.m. (PST).

Meanwhile the roll and yaw turns will have been reversed and the spacecraft hopefully will have regained its stabilizing lock on the sun just before it enters occultation — the 36-minute period when it will be hidden by the planet.

It will appear again off Mars' dark side, 60 degrees above the equator in an orbit that should have a low point of between 725 and 925 miles and swing out to a high point about 11,000 miles off the Martian surface.

This initial orbit will be adjusted Tuesday with a trim manoeuvre to pull the high point down to about 10,200 miles and assure two Mariner orbits per day for the 90-day basic exploration and any extended mission that may follow.

Guaranteed Income Still Goal

"In the case of a couple making $600 a year, they would make out a return just as if they were paying income tax, but they would also claim the amount they were short — which would be the negative income taxe — in this case $2,400, or $200 a month," Bennett said.

"If their basic income went above $3,000 they would pay income tax only upon that amount over the floor figure. This way there would be incentives for people to work — because it would pay every single person in the low income bracket to get a job if possible — as well as dealing with all in fairness."

Bennett said the system must be kept "very simple so everyone can understand it," and would have the effect of helping all areas of Canada while the poorest areas receive most money.

B.C. has strongly opposed continuation of equalization grants to have-not provinces on grounds that hundreds of millions of dollars annually are given to governments in seven provinces — B.C., Alberta and Ontario are the only exceptions — but never filter down to the people who need help most.

Soft Spots Common

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Dear Dr. Thosteaon: My son is 18½ months old and as yet his "soft spot" has not completely closed up.

When I asked our peditrician about it, all he said was that we'll have to watch it. I couldn't get a direct answer from him and this alarms me. Should we be concerned? — Mrs. P.T.

At birth there are four fontanelles, or "soft spots," in a baby's skull. The skull, to begin with, is not a solid piece of bone, but forms in segments which later fuse together. The places where the bones will fuse are the "soft spots."

There is one on each side of the head, one in back, and the largest one in front.

Those on the sides and back of the head close by about the second month, but the one in front, to which I am sure you refer, may not close until the 20th month.

So, no, I don't see any reason for you to be alarmed at this stage of the game.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When a person has leg cramps and has to get out of bed several times each night to walk them out, does it indicate faulty circulation? If so can something be done to improve the circulation and should that provide at least some relief? — L.W.M.

It MAY indicate faulty circulation — and may not. Lack of calcium in the diet is another possibility. Faulty foot structure is another. Also excessive use of the muscles by exercise.

When poor circulation is the essential cause, medication often helps. So can exercises that stimulate circulation in the legs. In a few specialized cases, surgery sometimes is possible. Sometimes a combination of exercises and medication is the best answer.

Famous Humorist, Social Reformer, A.P. Herbert Dies

LONDON — British author A. P. Herbert, writer, humorist and one of Britain's leading social reformers, died Friday at his London home. He was 81.

The satirist, knighted last year by the Queen and officially known as Sir Alan Herbert, had been ailing from a stroke for the last year.

Herbert wrote 62 books, 17 plays, numerous song lyrics and published letters, and was responsible for changing Britain's archaic divorce laws.

In between books, Herbert was elected to Parliament in 1935 and two years later, almost singlehandedly, he forced the government to alter divorce regulations. Cruelty, desertion and insanity were allowed as grounds for divorce. Previously only adultery was legal reason to end a marriage.

Sir Alan is survived by his wife, three daughters and a son.

LANSING, Mich. — When Sheri Menkveld graduated from Michigan State University last June she had an A-minus average in philosophy and psychology and was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the U.S. national scholastic fraternity. Today, unable to find work in any appropriate field, she's drawing beers in Tomie's Bar in Lansing.

□

WASHINGTON — Earl Butz, 62, dean of continuing education at Purdue University, has been named by President Nixon to succeed Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin, 56, who has resigned.

□

HOLLYWOOD — Comedian Red Skelton, 58, has filed for divorce from his wife Gloria, 50, claiming "irreconcilable differences." They have been married for 26 years.

□

MADRID — When Othello choked Desdemona in the last act of the Shakespeare play at Madrid's Teatro Espanol he slipped — and almost did in Desdemona for real. Actor Carlos Ballestreros said he slipped and his head hit the head of actress Lola Cardona, playing Desdemona. It took nearly an hour for Miss Cardona to regain consciousness.

TOKYO — Wataru Hiraizumi, director of an anti-landslide experiment which ended in a disaster that buried 15 persons alive, took full responsibility and handed in his resignation to Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

Premiers, Trudeau

Monday Meeting

Federal informants say they expect no substantial results from the three-day conference.

It is unlikely there will be new measures to meet unemployment, U.S. economic blows, soaring expenditures on shared-cost programs or subsidies to the poor provinces, the informants said.

The provinces are divided on some issues and have emphatically criticized federal policies on others. Finance Minister Edgar Benson had made it clear in Commons remarks that the federal government will announce no further plans for helping Canada's 447,000 unemployed this winter.

The $498-million federal program to create jobs this winter was announced Oct. 14 and is just getting under way.

Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney, among others, has said the program comes too late to have a major impact this winter.

The conference agenda calls for a general economic discussion followed by a review of federal-provincial finances, including possible means to dampen the rising costs of health and welfare programs.

Friday's publication by the Canadian Forum of what the magazine calls an abridged version of Revenue Minister Herb Gray's report on foreign ownership may have repercussions at the conference.

Several provincial spokesmen have asked the federal government to make the report public in some form, but the federal government has refused, saying the report is a confidential cabinet document.

The foreign-ownership issue is a sensitive one, with the federal government under conflicting pressure from nationalist groups and from poorer provinces whose governments want more investment, from whatever source.

Gray will not be at the conference, his office said Friday. He is to deliver a speech in Vancouver Tuesday.

An assistant to Benson said Friday the conference will also review the Oct. 14 employment program, which is being undertaken in co-operation with the provinces, and U.S.-Canada economic relations.

The Guaranteed Income Plan

WELFARE MINISTER John Munro's objection to the guaranteed income plan suggested by Senator David Croll as chairman of the Senate poverty committee, that it would be too costly, appears to ensure that it will be the subject of continued controversy, and certainly not of quick action.

Of course Mr. Munro's and Senator Croll's estimates of the cost are far apart. The poverty committee says that it would be an additional $800 million to $900 million over the income-support measures that would be abandoned, such as family and youth allowances and the old age pension. Mr. Munro said the extra cost would be between $1.5 billion and $2 billion annually.

This would be to bring incomes up to 70 per cent of "poverty lines" as determined by the committee, the lines being $2,140 for a single person (in 1969) and $9,290 for a family of 10. Persons or families earning less than the poverty-line figure would pay no income tax, and their incomes would be brought up to $1,500 for a single person through a range depending on the size of the family to $6,500 for the family of 10. As an incentive to work, extra income would not be completely deducted from the guarantee: 30 per cent of it could be kept, perhaps more later.

To Reuben Baetz, executive director of the Canadian Council on Social Development, this setting of levels below the poverty lines would be guaranteeing poverty instead of guaranteeing relief from it, and if the poverty lines are realistic he has a good point. One must note however that poverty being relative is exceedingly difficult to define, and that the proposed levels of guaranteed income might be more than adequate in some circumstances and in some parts of the country and less than adequate in others.

Undoubtedly though there would be upward pressure — the committee itself recommends annual adjustment — and while Senator Croll says the government will be forced to adopt the committee's approach to the problem of poverty "because the present system is totally unacceptable to Canadians," the government must reckon too with the level of taxation acceptable to Canadians.

The guaranteed income is what the senator calls the major tool for tackling poverty, and the committee suggests others, among them being government efforts to achieve full employment, a minimum wage not lower than 60 per cent of the average wage-rate, consumer protection, health care entirely out of tax dollars, free legal aid for the poor, subsidized housing and expanded public housing programs.

Some of these recommendations may be much closer to implementation than the guaranteed income, by the look of things. But meantime a thorough consideration of financing is in order. The New Democratic government in Manitoba is setting up a guaranteed-income pilot project, which may provide some answers as to effectiveness. And it is not to be forgotten either that Premier W. A. C. Bennett, who is in favor of the guaranteed income approach although his rehabilitation minister is not, has suggested where some of the money could be found. In his view, the hundreds of millions of dollars of equalization payments among provinces, from the better-off to the poor, should not go to governments but to people.

What They Won't Think Of!

SCIENCE IS DOING its darndest to take the joy out of living — or a goodly portion of it, anyway. This observation is offered for consideration on thoughts given to so-called technological advances on a far lower level than the high cloud of Cannikin. That, and like goings-on in other parts, threaten more than a little pleasure. But if life is allowed to go on, lesser "progress" is going to need some watching.

Take, for instance, what has been hailed by some as a great step forward that an English inventor has taken for mankind:

It's a contraption of metal and plastic that, it is claimed, can take the place of the milk cow. A National Geographic Society study of the beast reveals that a ton of greenery can be transformed into 180 gallons of liquid that, for a better name, can be called milk.

This it can do in a day of grinding and clanking which exceeds, by far, the average of less than three gallons a day credited to each of the estimated 12,509,000 dairy cows on the North American scene today.

Not that their offerings any longer resemble the original product by the time they reach the table, it seems improper that his basic food be machined from the start. And distasteful, too, is the thought of pastoral peace being replaced by mechanical monsters.

That's not the only food finagling that's in the scientific works, either. From a recent Western Hemisphere Nutrition Congress in Florida come heart-burn words — meals made from garbage. Yes, experiments are under way with bacterial treatment of many waste products, even automobile exhaust pollutants, to produce edible protein. That report came from a Massachusets Institute of Technology scientist.

And from Louisiana State University researchers was a claim that nourishing edibles were being produced from old newspapers. Ugh.

It is not only on the stomach that science has its sights. From a meeting of the Automotive Warehouse Distributors' Association in Las Vegas came a report, just the other day, that the computer is being called into the operation of cars. The president of General Motors told of developments within the automotive industry that will remove the pleasurable challenges today's driver faces each time he rolls out the old buggy.

Small, compact units are being tested for installation in future autos which would have a capacity to control, sense and monitor their functions.

They'll probably be able to warn the driver, even, when a tire is going to blow, and he'll pull into a repair shop and miss the fun of fixing it himself.

A Long Way to Go

Israel Seeing Welfare Needs

By WALTER SCHWARZ from Jerusalem

YET another group of Israelis is proposing to go on strike — the social workers of Jerusalem. But unlike the doctors, dockers, postmen, customs officers and all the others who have stopped work lately — they are not asking for higher pay. They want a better deal for the poor.

"Children should be able to get school books, to afford the bus fare to get to school and the clothes to wear to school," said Dr. Eliezer Jaffe, head of the city's Family and Community Services Department. "We should have workers to cope with juvenile prostitution, homes and services for the aged and decent housing."

Jaffe does not support the threatened strike by his staff of 175 field workers. But he agrees that assistance to the needy in Jerusalem and other large Israeli towns is woefully inadequate.

* * *

That there are poor Israelis is no longer news — though until recently the fact received so little public discussion that it might have been a military secret. The long-lasting cease-fire on the borders has helped to bring it into the open by turning Israelis in on themselves. Inflation has also helped, by making it harder than ever to make ends meet on an "ordinary" wage. As a result, "Black Panthers" — mostly poor Jewish immigrants from Middle Eastern countries — have demonstrated and rioted in Jerusalem streets. And politicians have sensed that the electorate now has other worries on its mind than the hostility of Arabs.

Israelis have lavished much emotion on Jerusalem since it was reunified in the Six Days War. Yet it houses some of the worst slums in the country. It has long been a magnet for "oriental" immigrants. In the mass immigration of the early 1950s these were first housed in makeshift asbestos huts, later in cheaply-built apartment blocks which, at the time, were better than anything the immigrants had ever known but which soon degenerated into overcrowded slums. Now the children of these immigrants have become the new underprivileged; ill-equipped to compete at school, rejected as ill-educated by the army, unable to find good jobs and drifting to crime, drugs and prostitution.

The new awareness of the problem has at last begun to siphon more money into poverty. National insurance benefit rates have gone up substantially, especially for large families. More money granted to social welfare in April this year brought Dr. Jaffe 30 more trained workers for the capital.

"I now have enough workers to look after about half the schools that need help; I have more street corner workers and a few more people to help prostitutes (there are nearly 300 prostitutes under the age of 20 in town — earning their living from tourists, Arabs and Jews)."

* * *

But what has been done only highlights the distance still to be travelled. "More than half the basic assistance budget still has to come from the municipal treasury," says Jaffe. "We are not pressing hard for the government to take all of that burden so that the city can concentrate on the other things — like looking after the children and the old people and seeing that people have stoves to heat their homes in winter."

That reform would cost the government $312,000 for Jerusalem alone — at a time when a balance of payments crisis is making ministers demand cuts even in the sacrosanct defence budget. Aware of this, Jaffe's staff is trying to interest Jewish and Zionist fund-raising agencies in the United States. Whenever their representatives come to Jerusalem, they get taken round the slums by his department and given "fact sheets" that are designed to quell old-fashioned American doubts about social welfare. "Doesn't an enlarged welfare program necessarily destroy the incentive to work and weaken the role of the parents as bread-winners?" asks one of the fact sheets. It answers hastily that two-thirds of families getting regular assistance are already working full-time — but finding that their pay is no longer enough to make ends meet. The rest are old or disabled.

* * *

The appointment of Jaffe — an American immigrant — to reorganize Jeursalem's welfare system last year was itself a symptom of the new climate. As professor of social welfare at the Hebrew University he had criticized the city's welfare system as hopelessly outmoded. Mayor Tekky Kollek invited him to leave the campus for two years and reorganize it.

Now, for the first time, people eligible for assistance are told how much they are entitled to and where to apply for it. Field workers are released from the burden of having to decide who is eligible and from a mountain of paper work. Soon a computerized system of filing will go into operation.

The assistance rates have gone up. A family is now officially guaranteed an income of $85 a month, while a family with five children (a more usual figure among Oriental immigrants) gets $115. About 15,000 people in Jerusalem belong to families who are known to earn less and who get assistance. A quarter of these are Arabs living in the annexed eastern part of the city, who get the same rates as Jews.

Belatedly, Israel is becoming welfare conscious. Scores of recent American immigrants are now training to join the staff of welfare departments. Dr. Israel Katz, head of the national insurance institute, who has won a long campaign for national rates to go up, is a follower of British welfare ideas. However, many Israelis still fear that if peace comes it will be followed by domestic strife between the haves and the have-nots.

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Tridentine Creed, reaffirming essential dogmas of the Roman Catholic faith, was promulgated 407 years ago today — in 1564 — after the Council of Trent. The council was set up by Pope Paul III in 1545 and sat at intervals for 19 years before reaching agreement on complete church organizatonal and doctrinal reform.

1950 — A Canadian chartered airliner crashed in flames on Mount Obiou in the French Alps, killing all 58 persons aboard, 57 of them Canadians.

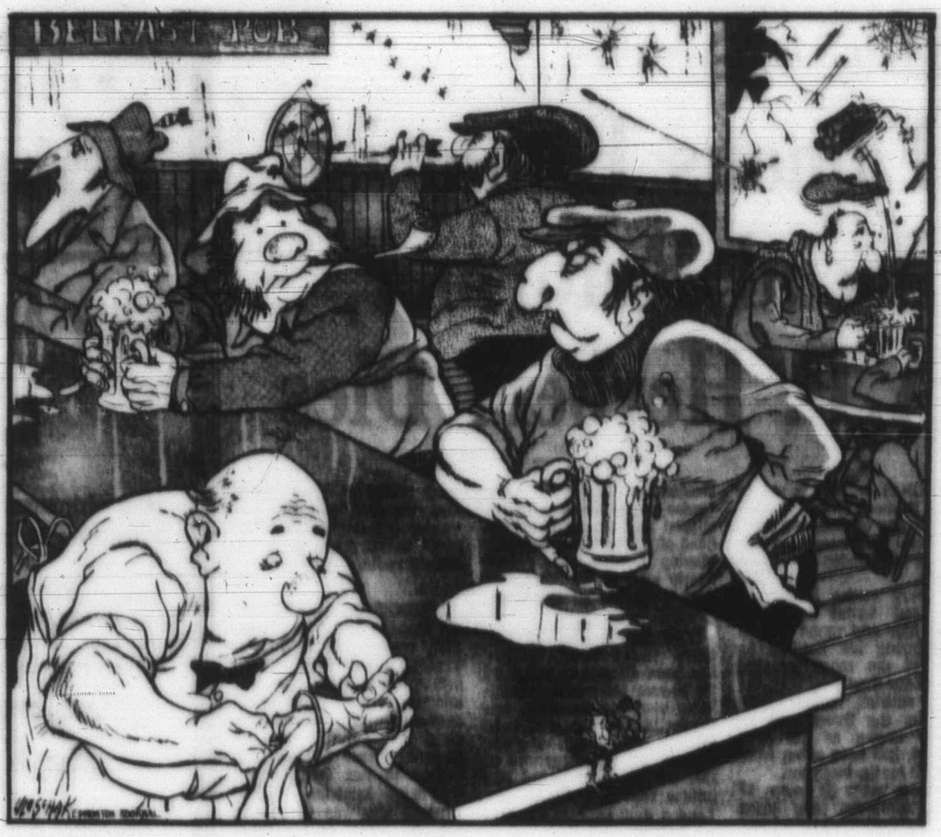
1942 — The British 8th Army retook Tobruk in North Africa in a counter-offensive.

1918 — The Austrian republic was proclaimed.

1833 — The scientific study of meteors began when more than 2,000 shooting stars were sighted over eastern North America. The spectacle prompted many to believe the end of the world had come.



"Say, how is it you're never out sniping, planting bombs, burning and fighting, O'Rangatan? What are you, some kind of atheist?"

Why They Hate Tito

A Blood-Splattered Regime

By LUBOR J. ZINK

NEXT to such political mass murderers as Stalin, Hitler and Mao Tse-tung, Yugoslavia's Tito is a piker.

The victims of his one-party dictatorship do not run into millions. Educated guesses put the figure at over a hundred thousand.

It must be said, however, that the relatively small-scale political butchery in the Balkan Socialist Federal Republic is not Tito's fault. His henchmen had been just as thorough in liquidating all opposition as their counterparts in the other totalitarian states. The scale of their operations was simply limited by the size of Yugoslavia's population which is about the same as Canada's.

* * *

Even so, during the first wave of repression the Titoists chalked up some feats of terrorism which rank with the grisliest political crimes of our time.

One of these crimes, virtually unknown in the western world, was the mass slaughter of close to 20,000 Yugoslav refugees the British forces in Austria handed over to the Tito regime in May, 1945.

I wrote about this "incident" five years ago when I came across a book (Kocevje) by B. M. Karapandizic describing the massacre.

What happened, according to the eyewitness accounts and other evidence cited in the book, was briefly this:

In the final stages of the Second World War, one segment of the remnants of the Royal Yugoslav Army tried to keep the Slovenian part of Yugoslavia free from Communist control.

* * *

The royalists lost the battle and survivors crossed the border into the British-held part of Austria. They were put into a camp near Klagenfurt and promised transfer to Italy.

Instead, following Tito's request for their return, they and the civilian refugees who had fled with them were put on trains and sent back across the border.

Tito's partisans took the transports to specially-prepared clearings in the dense forest near the village Kocevje and there, in cold blood and without trial, machine-gunned their helpless victims between May 24 and 29, 1945.

As a single instance of political mass murder the slaughter at Kocevje dwarfed the Soviet massacre of Polish officers and civilians in the Katyn forest.

* * *

Refusing to take Karapandizic's account of the Kocevje horror at face value, I asked the British High Commissioner's office in Ottawa to check the record in London.

The cryptic answer I got after several weeks of waiting for the result of the enquiry was that Karapandizic's story was "essentially correct."

Soon after I wrote about it in 1966, I was swamped with letters from various Yugoslav emigre organizations and individuals in Canada, the United States and Europe, who maintained that Kocevje was but one example of political terror under the Tito regime during the immediate postwar period.

With this background in mind, it shouldn't be difficult to understand the dismay refugees from Yugoslavia feel when they see Tito (nee Josip Broz) welcomed and feted as an honored guest of democratic governments. In their eyes former Cominform agent Tito is a tyrant whose crimes against humanity rank with those of other totalitarians.

People who don't know or don't want to face this background see Tito as a remarkable leader of a courageous country which fought the Nazis with legendary bravery and managed to chart its own course under a nationalistic, reformist brand of Communism in defiance of the Kremlin.

No doubt Tito's leadership, playing the country's advantageous geographic position for all its worth with the discreet support of the western powers, has spared Yugoslavia the fate of Moscow's satellites.

No doubt also that Tito's brand of communism has by now given the country a bit more flexible and roomier political and economic framework than the Soviet system prescribes. But it is still a one-party dictatorship and Tito is still a totalitarian who holds 20 million people of diverse national and cultural-political aspirations as hostages of his "non-aligned" posturing on the international scene.

All this gives Tito strength in the amoral world of contemporary realpolitik but it does not make his record of crimes against humanity any less repugnant to free men.

Watching unprincipled governments honoring bloody dictators is bad enough. The picture of the Dalhousie University in Halifax compounding the blasphemous outrage by conferring an honorary degree of law on the man responsible for the Kocevje crime is beyond comprehension.

No Democratic Government For Rhodesia This Century

By THOMAS LAND from London

There are strong political and economic pressures driving both London and Salisbury towards an agreement to end the six-year-old state of rebellion in Britain's remaining African colony. The interests of Rhodesia's 5,000,000 black population would inevitably have to be sacrificed as a price for such a compromise. Secret documents drawn up by Britain's Conservative policy makers confirm their awareness of the danger that a Vietnam-type situation may develop in Southern Africa.

SECRET discussions in the search for a peace formula between Britain and Rhodesia are believed to be progressing at considerable haste towards a compromise agreement which would rule out the prospect of democratic government on the basis of universal adult suffrage during the current century.

These are the proposed terms under which the six-year-old state of rebellion in Britain's remaining African colony might be ended:

1. There would be a new constitution incorporating a bill of rights and guaranteeing majority rule after a period of up to 50 years.

2. Educational opportunities for Rhodesian Africans would be considerably expanded, financed from a £100 million fund paid over several years by Britain.

3. Some 120 detainess including the African Nationalist leader Joshua Nkomo held at the Gonakudzingwa camp would be released.

Against these concessions, Britain would call off the international trade sanctions and recognize Rhodesia's white-supremacist government which declared its illegal independence on November 11, 1965.

There are strong economic and political pressures driving both London and Salisbury towards an agreement; but the interests of Rhodesia's 5,000,000 black population would inevitably have to be sacrificed as a price for such a compromise. The time is now ripe with the Conservative administration in Britain far better placed than its Labor predecessor to see eye-to-eye with Rhodesia's ultra rightist rulers.

For different reasons, each side treasures the opportune moment. The Rhodesian economy is starved for imported capital after the sterile years of sanctions; and the attention of the British public is now drawn to the country's relations with the European Economic Community.

* * *

"The time is past when we could hope to influence British public opinion against a sell-out to the Rhodesian whites," a Canadian diplomat told me. "There is still room for a miracle that would convince British ministers of the folly of entering into such an agreement. But miracles seldom happen in international affairs."

Britain's Africa Bureau, the moderate, authoritative, all-party organization concerned with African affairs, has issued a desperate, last-minute statement warning that the proposed agreement would be bound to create another South Africa with all its racial tensions and explosive bitterness endangering multi-racial peace even in distant countries.

Indeed, no powerfully established and highly privileged minority — irrespective of its color — can be realistically expected to relinquish its power voluntarily if it involves the complete transformation of its accustomed way of life. Under such circumstances, prolonged guerrilla warfare appears inevitable fought by a politically powerless majority against its well-armed but insecure rulers. Secret documents drawn up by Britain's policy makers confirm their awareness of the danger that a Vietnam-type situation may develop in Southern Africa.

The qualifications required under Rhodesian law by Africans for the right to vote have been consistently raised each time their numbers qualified for the vote looked like increasing — even though still far short of majority. By spending 10 times as much on each white child's education as on each black child, the country's rulers have left Africans in a position where it would take 30 years to produce equivalent educational standards for the two racial communities — and then only if a white majority parliament agrees to give at least an equal priority to the education of African children.

Rhodesia's Land Apportionment Act divides the country equally between 234,000 whites and 5,250,000 blacks. There are about 1,000,000 unemployed Africans in Rhodesia and absolutely no white unemployment — for the simple reason that the government, which depends for its power on white votes only, places an urgent priority on the provision of jobs for whites.

Britain's educational aid would be used to build up the Tribal Trust Lands as separate Rhodesian Bantustans following the South African model, comments an authoritative political observer here. Although the "detainees" would be released, many thousands of "restrictees" and political opponents "tried" on criminal charges would remain behind bars. And, most important of all, there would be no guarantees whatever against retrogressive legislation in Rhodesia after the power had been officially handed over by Britain.

Prime Minister Edward Heath is understood to be impatiently seeking a way out of the Rhodesian impasse at virtually any price in order to get the profitable flow of commerce between the two countries going again. A British Conservative party document drawn up before the national elections here ending the Labor rule proposed that, "politically, a first step should be to restore relations based on the recognition of mutual interest with South Africa, to encourage trade and to sell arms for external defence. The farce of the Rhodesian sanctions should be ended . . . Tory policy should foster already existing trends among the independent African states to encourage detente between those states on the one hand and Portugal, Rhodesia and South Africa on the other. It should be made perfectly clear that such a policy is in the long-term interest of Africa as a whole . . . Above all, there must be no repetition of Vietnam in Southern Africa."

* * *

Young people in Rhodesia need no elaborate analysis on the direction their country is following with British connivance. A survey earlier this year showed that 50 per cent of sixth formers intend to leave the country, half of these intending never to return. A followup survey at the University of Rhodesia indicated that the brightest of the young "want to leave home, parents, Rhodesian society, the lot."

But the vast majority of Rhodesians, black and white, cannot run away, and nor can the rest of the world, from the consequenes of the impending "settlement."

But Commonwealth Airing Allowed

'Canadian Content' Stands

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission has stood by its requirement for 60 per cent Canadian content on private television stations by Oct. 1, 1972, despite requests for postponement from some private broadcasters.

But the CRTC also has said that the privately-owned CTV television network may count as "Canadian" a number of Commonwealth programs it bought before the tougher Canadian content rules were adopted in May, 1970.

The Canadian content may be calculated over 12 months from October, 1972, instead of every three months as previously announced, the CRTC said.

This proposal was criticized at Toronto hearings by the Association of Canadian Television and Radio Artists. ACTRA said private broadcasters could pack Canadian programs into the summer season when fewer viewers watch TV.

The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, the CTV Television Network Ltd., and other private broadcasters urged the CRTC at the Toronto hearings to delay implementing the 60-per-cent-content rule. The CTV network said the rule would impose financial difficulties on private stations as Canadian programs cost more and attract less advertising revenue.

The commission said Friday it is allowing limited use of Commonwealth programs as Canadian by the CTV network and affiliate stations.

Sixty-four hours of series programming would be allowed during the current year out of a network sales period of 1,227 hours.

Twenty-six hours of series programming and 24 hours of feature film programs would be allowed in affiliate station sales time totalling 702 hours.

The CRTC said that in calculating their own Canadian-content percentages, individual CTV stations could use Commonwealth programs in their own program-originating time to a maximum of three percentage points of their Canadian-content percentage.

Under changes in commission television regulations announced in the Canada Gazette Wednesday, private broadcasters this year will be allowed to obtain up to 45 per cent of their programming from one foreign country, generally understood to be the United States. This will apply to the period between 6 a.m. and midnight daily.

Previously, private broadcasters were limited to 35 per cent of their programming from one foreign country in the over-all period between 6 a.m. and midnight and 40 per cent in prime time between 6:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m.

'Forgotten Man' Released

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — The individual who was called Maine's "forgotten man" was released to a boarding home Friday from Augusta State Hospital after 44 years in the mental hospital's maximum security unit.

Melvin Whittum, 66, was released for a 30-day trial visit after which his case will be reviewed.

Whittum was sent to the state hospital in 1927 from Maine state prison where he was serving a term for housebreaking.

"His mental illness has long since burned out," said Dr. Ulrich Jacobson, assistant hospital superintendent, but "he has been so institutionalized he almost can't live outside the hospital."

Under new hospital administrator Roy Ettliner, a three-man task force has been reviewing patient records. Whittum's case has received extensive publicity, but Ettliner told newsmen Friday, "there are possibly several hundred more Whittums in the hospital."

Ettliner said he is setting up a 200-bed nursing home unit at the hospital for those who are not really mentally ill.

Whittum's release was delayed for a short time Friday after his blood showed a high sugar content when he received a physical examination Friday morning. He was given a diet and will be examined periodically.

Virus Likely Causes Some Human Cancer

OTTAWA (CP) — Proof that a virus causes some kinds of human cancer is probably only a few months away, Dr. J. A. McCarter of the University of Western Ontario said Friday.

But this knowledge may turn out to be just as hard to apply against the disease as has been the knowledge that a virus also causes the common cold.

It was known for a long time that a virus caused poliomyelitis before Dr. Jonas Salk and his group found a vaccine that would protect against the disease.

McCarter was one of four members of the research advisory group of the National Cancer Institute of Canada who reported developments to the Canadian Cancer Society here.

He said that demonstrating that a virus causes certain human cancers will be an enormous step forward.

Nevertheless the fact must be faced that the virus may be involved only in 10 per cent of cancers and may prove to be a kind that cannot be made into a vaccine.

Another promising line of research involves the theory that the genetic makeup of human and animal cells includes substances which are triggered into a cancer virus by some chemicals.

Some cancers have been produced in this way in animals such as mice and in animal cells grown in the laboratory.

This "turning on of a virus in a cell where none was present before" may mean that no "cure" is possible for some forms of cancer.

The weapon then may have to be prevention through elimination of chemical agents that provoked this change in cells.

Dr. A. A. Axelrad of the University of Toronto said that results will be known in March from trials in Canaada and the United States of a mass test for bowel cancer, developed by Dr. Phil Gold of Montreal.

Queen's University, University of Alberta and the Montreal General Hospital are Canadian participants in the trials. In the U.S. they are Yale, University of Pennsylvania and University of Michigan.

Dr. J. M. M. Darte of Memorial University, Newfoundland, said new methods of giving radiation to victims of leukemia has added two years to the survival period.

It now stands at five years as a result of giving a dose of radiation to those whose disease had apparently been checked by drug therapy.

London Scientist Pledges Sasquatch Data Probe

LONDON (CP) — A London scientist undertook Wednesday to look into the existence of the Sasquatch, the legendary hairy giant of the woods in British Columbia and the northwestern United States.

Rene Dahinden of Richmond, B.C., who has spent his spare time and money for the last 17 years trying to prove whether or not the Sasquatch exists, delivered a load of material to the University of London.

Later he said Dr. J. R. Napier, director of primate biology, had agreed to get analyses of hundreds of photographs of huge footprints, some casts of the prints and a huge ape-like figure that was taken in 1967 in northern California.

This month Swiss-bron Dahinden goes to Moscow where he has a similar date with Prof. Boris Porshnev of the history institute of the Russian Academy of Sciences.

Prof. Porshnev is regarded as a leading authority on the Abdominable Snowman type of beast and Dahinden — Canada's chief chaser of sasquatches — said he has agreed to look over the British Columbian's evidence.

On his return to Canada with stopovers in his native Switzerland and France, Dahinden said he hopes to enlist the aid of scientists in those two countries.

Dahinden, who makes his living rescuing expended shot at a Vancouver gun club for four months of the year, said he is spending $1500 on this trip.

'Heroin Seldom Pot Follow-Up'

CHICAGO (UPI) — Marijuana smokers frequently try psychedelic drugs such as LSD and mescaline but rarely graduate to heroin use, two researchers report.

Their study, published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, said only 6 per cent of 106 male marijuana users reported experimenting with heroin or morphine but nearly 75 per cent of the pot smokers reported they had taken psychedelic drugs.

The report was made by Albert Carlin and Robin Post, of the department of psychiatry at the University of Washington in Seattle.

According to the study, 27 per cent of the pot users reported smoking opium. Most of those who had used opium said they had smoked it 10 times or less. None of the 106 persons checked admitted having developed any physical or psychological dependency on opiated drugs.

Sixty per cent of the subjects reported the use of amphetamines, mostly in "cramming" for examinations or meeting deadlines, the researchers said. Forty-seven per cent said they used tranquilizers and 44 per cent said they used barbiturates, the report said.

The report said "it appears that if one is a regular user of marijuana, one is likely to go on and at least experiment with more powerful psychedelic drugs." It said graduation from marijuana to heroin addiction "appears ta be an improbable occurrence."

Postal Strike Spreads

HAMILTON (CP) — The threat of a widespread postal strike increased Friday as letter carriers in several Ontario centres walked off their jobs, claiming that the post office department is hiring casual labor instead of giving overtime work to union members.

Members of the Letter Carriers' Union of Canada in St. Catharines started the walkouts Tuesday at a study session. Postmaster Tom Garriock told about 100 members to return to work but they refused and went home.

Friday, letter carriers in Waterloo, Hamilton, Burlington and Stoney Creek joined the St. Catharines workers.

In Victoria, Marcel Boutin, president of the Victoria local of the letter carriers' union told the Colonist: "We do not have the same problems at the moment, and we do not anticipate any walkout here unless we receive a directive fromthe national office."

Boutin said his local was aware of the action being taken in Ontario and had checked with the union's regional officers in Vancouver to make sure no directives had been issued for the Victoria area.

The dispute involves a grievance which the union filed with the public service staff relations board.

Hope Earmarks Newest Round Of Arms Talks

VIENNA (UPI) — Both Soviet and American delegates to the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks are hopeful that they can produce an agreement before President Nixon goes to Moscow in May, diplomatic sources said Friday.

The sixth round of SALT opens here Monday. It is expected to recess briefly over Christmas, then resume in January and go on until March or April.

Any agreement, the sources said, almost certainly would concern only limitations on Anti-Ballistic Missiles. In past SALT rounds, the two nations have discussed curbs on offensive missiles, too, but no agreement in this area is in sight.

The sources said both Washington and Moscow want an ABM limitation and have narrowed talks in this area down to "a numbers game" — the exact numbers of ABMs each side may keep and where they may be deployed. But they cautioned that the solution to this "numbers game" will produce some of the hardest bargaining seen yet.

The Soviets, they said, want each side to have only one ABM complex. This is because the Soviet complex — a protective ring around Moscow — is already installed.

The United States wants at least two complexes, to protect offensive weapons bases in Montana and North Dakota. This is because work has already begun on these complexes.

The United States argues that parity between the two nations would not be upset by this two-for-one deal. The Soviet Union disagrees.

The sources said there are many combinations of numbers that could be used to solve this dispute. But they warned that each side must be prepared to be flexible if the Vienna round of SALT is to produce agreement.

In the last Vienna round, last spring, a deadlock in the talks was broken by a White House-Kremlin agreement to work for an ABM agreement this year, coupled with vague progress toward offensive limitations. This agreement represented a considerable concession for Nixon, who had insisted earlier on a treaty "mixing" offensive and defensive yeaponry.

Canadian Share Enlarged

WASHINGTON (CP) Canada has agreed to channel a further $14 million into the Inter-American Development Bank, the bank announced Friday, bringing the total Canadian contribution to $74 million although Canada is still not a member of the bank.

Bank president Antonio Ortiz Mena and External Affairs Minister Sharp agreed to the new funding in an exchange of letters. The money is being administered by the bank for economic, technical and educational projects in Latin America.

Sharp advised the bank nearly four months ago that Canada would seek full membership and the proposal is being considered now by other member countries.

Canada has supplied money to the bank for seven years under a special arrangement by which Canada is consulted about loan proposals and the funds are used to buy Canadian goods and services for Latin American projects.

Memorial Slated At Brentwood

Brentwood College Memorial Chapel at Brentwood Bay will be the scene of the annual remembrance service at 11 a.m. Sunday. Students and masters of the school, now located in Mill Bay, will make their annual pilgrimage to the chapel where the honor roll of the original Brentwood College School remains. The school choir will sing two unaccompanied anthems at the service. The sermon will be preached by Archdeacon E. H. Maddocks, present incumbent of the chapel. The school's headmaster, D. D. Mackenzie, will participate and members of the Old Boys' Association will attend.

Slight Recovery On Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market minimized its losses Friday when selective buying bolstered prices after a sharp early decline. Trading was moderately active.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 1.97 to 812.94, a new 1971 low close, which erased the old mark set only Thursday.

The NYSE index of more than 1,300 common stocks dipped .02 to 50.85.

The most-actively traded big board issue was AMF Inc., down 2⅜ to $38¼ on 483,200 shares, followed by Square D, off ⅛ at $28 on 180,100 shares and Kennecott, down ½ to $22⅝ on 171,300 shares.

Down, Up

TORONTO (CP(— Base-metal issues moved moderately higher but prices in all other major sectors closed lower for the third consecutive session.

Prices plunged sharply lower midway through the session, under pressure from a steep decline at New York. However, a rally during the final hour of trading recovered much of the loss.

Observers said the federal government's announcement that the Canadian industrial output index rose three-tenths of 1 per cent in September was a major factor in the recovery.

McIntyre was down 1⅛ to $59. The company reported a nine-month loss of $3.4 million, compared with a profit of $3 million during the corresponding period of 1970.

Two Higher

MONTREAL (CP) — Banks and papers moved higher while industrials, utilities and the composite continued to decline in light trading.

Highlighting gains on the Montreal Stock exchange, Bank of Nova Scotia was up ⅜ to $28, Dome Petroleum ⅝ to $27, MacMillan Bloedel ½ to $22⅝ and Royal Bank ⅜ to $26¼.

Highlighting losses, Denison Mines was off $1½ to $19, Falconbridge $1½ to $59, Trans-Canada Pipe Lines $1 to $41, Imperial Oil ¾ to $27½, Murphy Oil ¾ to $11¼, Pacific Petroleum ⅝ to $27⅝ and Canron ⅝ to $17.

Mixed Day

VANCOUVER — Trading was moderately active with prices mixed. Pacific Western Airlines was off ⅜ at $11⅝ among industrials. Royal Canadian Ventures was an active oils trader, finishing unchanged at .91. Buval Executive changed 344,798 shares to lead mines and closed unchanged at .30.

Municipalities Seek Funds

The Municipal Finance Authority of B.C., meeting in Vancouver Friday, received requests for $18,074,605 from 17 municipalities through nine regional districts to finance sewer, water and pollution control abatement projects that have been started or are about to be started.

The requests form the first step before the MFA goes to the money markets in an attempt to sell sinking fund debentures that will cover the amount. In September, $20 million was raised in the New York market.

MFA chairman Hugh Curtis, mayor of Saanich, said that he hoped that the financing this time can be arranged in Canadian markets with Canadian funds.

Included in the requests was $5,500,000 for sewers in the capital region and in Saanich. Another $7,504,000 was sought by a region consisting of Burnaby, Surrey, Richmond, Delta and Port Coquitlam.

Smallest community to seek help was Hudson's Hope in the Peace River, which sought $21,000.

Car Insurance Likely To Increase

TORONTO (CP) — Latest figures on automobile accidents and the cost of repairs indicate Canadians may be in for another increase in car insurance rates.

A preliminary analysis of statistics compiled by the industry shows that the average cost per claim during 1970 remained virtually unchanged from 1969, but the accident frequency rate increased to 9.2 from 8.7 per 100 vehicles.

Insurance companies use these figures as a basis for computing new rates, which usually are effective early in the new year.

Norman Manning, president of the Canadian Underwriters Association, says the premium increases for 1972 probably will be "more moderate" than those imposed in 1971.

In 1971 the rate was increased about 12.5 per cent following an increase of 11.8 per cent in 1970.

EASTBOURNE, England (CP) — Advertised in a local Sussex newspaper: "Crash courses available for those who wish to learn to drive very quickly."

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan's two largest automobile companies, Toyota and Nissen, announced Friday they will halt expansion of their dealer networks in the United States.

The move came in the wake of reports that the United States is considering restrictions on importation of Japanese cars.

"We do not intend to increase the number of our company's dealers in the United States any further," said Katsuji Kawamata, president of the Nissan Motor Co., maker of Datsun cars.

A spokesman for the Toyota Motor Company said that the dealerships in America would be stabilized at the end of this year. "The substance of the system will be revised in the interests of better organization," he added.

WOLFSBURG, West Germany (AP) — Volkswagen said Friday it abandoned well-advanced plans for a successor to its mass-produced beetle sedan because it would not fit into the company's long-range model policy.

"Taking the planned VW Type 266 from our program had nothing to do with its technical concept but rather because the 'outsider' did not fit into our company's new component schedule," a VW statement said.

The VW-266, a box-shaped medium-size sedan powered by a Porsche-designed mid-ship engine, was nearing production stage, and orders already had gone out to Volkswagen subcontractors.

The new car was to be supplied with an air-cabled, horizontally opposed four-cylinder engine mounted under the back seats, apparently presenting body stylists with some problems as to head room in the rear of the vehicle.

LONDON (CP) — Steering column locks may be made compulsory on all new cars to bring Britain into line with European anti-theft standards, according to a government plan. Currently British car firms fit the devices only voluntarily. The new move, which will come into effect when Britain joins the European Common Market, will not apply to older cars.

Payroll Bonds In Big Jump

Vancouver Island workers have increased their Canada Savings Bonds payroll deductions committment by almost 20 per cent over last year, according to William Munro, Victoria, chairman of the Island section, payroll deductions.

Munro stated Friday that 6,670 applications were received during October for a total of $2,928,750. He said that when all figures are computed, the total should top a 20 per cent increase.

"It's unbelievable," he stated. "People are really putting money in the sock."

Economic Recovery Predicted To Last

TORONTO (CP) — Three University of Toronto professors have predicted the Canadian economy will rise in the second half of 1971, bringing a 9.1-per-cent gain in the gross national product.

The over-all GNP for the year would then be about $92.2 billion, says Professors G. V. Jump, J. A. Sawyer and J. W. L. Winder of the Institute of Policy Analysis at the university.

They predict that the recovery in economic activity that began early this year will continue through the second half and into the first six months of 1972 and then taper off.

They also predicted that consumer spending will increase at an annual rate of 8.5 to 9 per cent with the stimulus coming in part from rising incomes after cuts in personal income tax. Spending on durable goods such as cars is predicted to be strong in late 1971 and early 1972.

Government spending is projected to increase at higher than normal rates especially in the first half of 1972 when the government's job-creating measures come into effect.

The nearly $400-million surplus of exports over imports in the first six months of 1971 would almost disappear by the end of 1971 and become a deficit in 1972.

More Thefts From Cars

Colwood RCMP added new emphasis Monday to their warning of last week that someone apparently using special tools was stealing money from locked cars parked in the Goldstream Park area as their occupants went to see salmon go up Goldstream to spawn.

Police said a story in The Daily Colonist about two thefts caused half a dozen other people to report similar thefts earlier last week. Total loss in the eight thefts is more than $250.

Only GM Silent On Price Rise

DETROIT (UPI) — The Big Four U.S. carmakers can be expected to ask for federal permission to raise 1972 model car and truck prices by at least 2.5 per cent, automotive analysts predicted Friday.

The government has said it will permit only a 2.5 per cent increase in prices for the economy as a whole. That's about half as much as the car companies intended to raise 1972 model prices.

Ford Motor Co., Chrysler and American Motors Corp. already have announced their intention to seek price boosts under President Nixon's Phase 2 economic recovery program.

Chrysler and AMC made their announcements Friday, joining Ford which declared its intent Thursday.

Only General Motors Corp., the biggest of the car makers and the traditional price-setter, had not officially said it wants to raise prices, but it was expected to do so.

Articles 'Destroy' Officer

Army Under Fire

ATLANTA (UPI) — Attorneys for Lt. Col. Anthony Herbert charged Friday the army was seeking "destruction" of the controversial officer through newspaper articles that were being spotted across the country.

The (Phoenix) Arizona Republic and the Chicago Sun-Times printed interviews with Maj.-Gen. John Barnes in which Barnes accused Herbert of beating unarmed Vietnamese villagers and conducting himself like "a cold-blooded killer."

The 42-year-old Herbert is quitting the army because, he contends, he has been harassed for charging his superiors with failing to take action on atrocities in Vietnam after the crimes were brought to their attention. Barnes was one of those named by Herbert.

All the charges brought by Herbert have been dismissed by the army on various grounds.

Herbert, who was then an enlisted man, was the most decorated American non-commissioned officer in the Korean war, and despite the recent controversy, the U.S. Senate Friday voted him a promotion.

"The army has decided its newest tactic will be the destruction of Col. Herbert," Charles Morgan, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, said after learning of the articles.

"It has public relations people working with select reporters across the country."

The Arizona Republic article was written by Paul Dean, the newspaper's aviation editor. Dean said he had "never been approached by the Pentagon at any time." He said he worked through a very close personal friend who was a former member of the 173rd Air Borne Brigade, Herbert's old outfit.

Dean's article quoted Barnes as saying that Herbert beat an unarmed Vietnamese civilian, slapped and kicked a Vietnamese detainee, and attacked a fellow officer with his fists at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

The article further quoted Barnes as saying that he relieved Herbert of his battalion command with the 173rd Brigade in Vietnam in 1969 for "overreacting" during an assault that "devastated" a coastal village.

Herbert, who has taken a 30-day leave to recover from the harassment he says he and his family have suffered, could not be reached for comment, but Morgan said the Dean article helped strengthen Herbert's case.

Joker in the Cold

Humor Bombs Out

MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI) — Dean Carey, 29, got himself into a lot of trouble by making a joke at the wrong time.

When asked what was in a bottle he placed in a refrigerator at the electronics plant where he worked, Carey joked "nitroglycerin."

Plant supervisors heard of the remark and called a bomb alert. While the plant was evacuated and demolition teams gingerly examined the bottle, officers searched Carey's apartment.

The bottle did not contain nitroglycerin. But the search of Carey's residence turned up $10,000 worth of electronics equipment believed stolen from his employer and an automatic pistol.

Carey was under arrest Friday on charges of grand theft and illegal possession of a firearm.

Canadian Writers Hindered

LENNOXVILLE, Que. (CP) — Dr. W. H. Clarke, president of Clarke, Irwin and Co. of Toronto, said Thursday that his publishing company is hindered in publishing Canadian works because it can not get enough federal government aid.

"We can not publish Canadian works without increased Canada Council support," he told a Bishop's University symposium on Canada's culture.

Robin Mathews, an English professor at Carleton University, said the Canada Council had recently supported a conference of American philosophy professors held in Canada, but refused to underwrite the cost of Thursday's symposium.

John McMurtry, a University of Guelph professor, told another symposium that the marking system lies at the base of the problems confronting most North American universities.

He said the marking system creates a fear between professor and student and consequently, the professor becomes the master while students become inhibited.

Inmates Under Control

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Inmates at the Wisconsin state reformatory erupted in a turbulent outbreak Friday, setting fires and smashing windows in the 800-inmate institution.

Guards turned tear gas on the rebellious convicts, firemen managed to bring the flames under control and less than two hours after the disturbance started prison officials reported it was "under control."

No deaths or injuries were reported and authorities said apparently no hostages were seized by the prisoners.

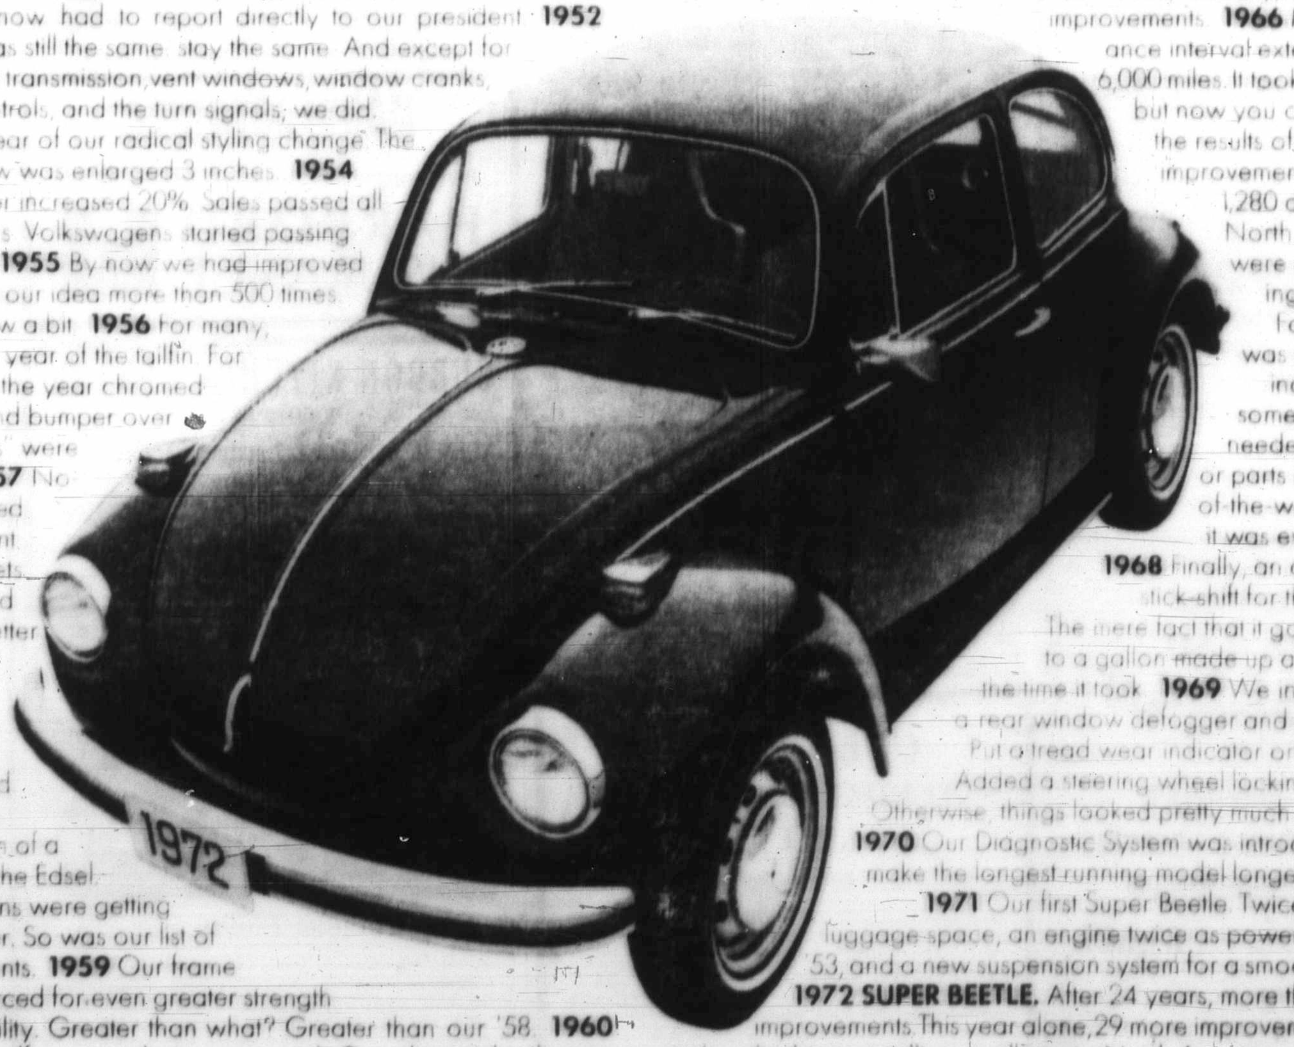
It wasn't built in a day.

1949 Two small, sparse-looking Beetles are sold in North America. Far fewer than the big, beautiful De Sotos, Studebakers, and Hudsons which sold that year like hotcakes. 1950 Hotcakes aren't selling as well this year, as the Beetle remained small and sparse-looking while refinements were made on the brakes and noise mufflers. 1951 At the factory, the head of our thousand inspectors now had to report directly to our president. 1952 The idea was still the same: stay the same. And except for work on the transmission, vent windows, window cranks, heating controls, and the turn signals, we did. 1953 The year of our radical styling change. The rear window was enlarged 3 inches. 1954 Horsepower increased 20%. Sales passed all expectations. Volkswagens started passing other cars. 1955 By now we had improved and refined our idea more than 500 times. It didn't show a bit. 1956 For many, this was the year of the tailfin. For us, this was the year chromed tail pipes and bumper overrider "bows" were added. 1957 Nobody noticed that our front heater outlets were moved back for better heat distribution as most of the hoopla was centred around the introduction of a car called the Edsel. 1958 Tailfins were getting even longer. So was our list of improvements. 1959 Our frame was reinforced for even greater strength and durability. Greater than what? Greater than our '58. 1960 The long tailfins were being removed. Our chromed tail pipes and overrider "bows" remained. 1961 16 major improvements. Including an increase in our cooling capacity and our horsepower. 1962 10 major improvements. Including reinforced clutch springs and maintenance-free handbrake cables. 1963 Close to 1,300 improvements had now been put in. In such a little car, was there any more room for improvement? 1964 Fresh air heating and nylon window guides and cloth headliners and adjustable rear heater outlets were introduced. 1965 10 major improvements. And innumerable (well, actually, 11) minor improvements. 1966 Maintenance interval extended to 6,000 miles. It took a while, but now you could see the results of all those improvements. 1967 1,280 dealers in North America were now selling our car. For us, that was very nice indeed. For someone who needed repairs or parts in an out-of-the-way place, it was even nicer. 1968 Finally, an automatic stick-shift for the Beetle. The mere fact that it got 31 miles to a gallon made up a bit for all the time it took. 1969 We introduced a rear window defogger and defroster. Put a tread wear indicator on our tires. Added a steering wheel locking device. Otherwise, things looked pretty much the same. 1970 Our Diagnostic System was introduced. To make the longest-running model longer running. 1971 Our first Super Beetle. Twice as much luggage space, an engine twice as powerful as our '53, and a new suspension system for a smoother ride. 1972 SUPER BEETLE. After 24 years, more than 2,000 improvements. This year alone, 29 more improvements. And today, the biggest selling small car in North America.

So to all those people now venturing out as small car makers, we'd like to offer this friendly warning: There is no such thing as an overnight success.



Moments To Remember

Cold drizzle accompanied Remembrance Day services Thursday at Victoria cenotaph in front of Legislature buildings. Trusty umbrella came to aid of Rev. K. M. King, assistant priest, St. Luke's Church as he watched proceedings with Legion member C. A. Gill.

Blast Injures Mother, Baby

A mysterious explosion slightly injured a Victoria mother and daughter and damaged their apartment early Friday as a climax to a Remembrance Day holiday period in Greater Victoria where loud noises made news.

Victoria police declined comment on possible motives behind the explosion that caused more than $500 damage to the one-room suite of Mrs. Pamela Cotton, 29, and her 10-month-old daughter Susan Janet in the Michelangelo Apartments, 1158 Yates, shortly after 2:30 a.m.

During the earlier holiday period, two shots were fired in a Victoria domestic argument, two more were fired as a sequel to a beer-parlor argument in Sooke and several damaging traffic accidents sent people to hospital.

Another incident that involved a gun that wasn't fired was a holdup attempt shortly before 10 p.m. Thursday at the Freddie the Freeloader store at 1537 Fort.

At 1158 Yates, police said, two pieces of blue and white detonator wire and the bottom part of a copper detonator were found by investigators.

They said an explosive device went off as it sat on a rear windowsill just outside Mrs. Cotton's bed-sitting room, causing a blast heard throughout the downtown area.

Mrs. Cotton was protected by the doors of her hideaway bed while her daughter's crib, at the far side of the room from the window, was protected by a folding screen. Damage was heavy to masonry at the window, the frame and drapes and the interior of the room was showered with broken glass and bits of plastic and tile.

Both mother and daughter escaped with slight injuries. Police said the Cottons moved into the apartment a week ago and added they had spoken to Mrs. Cotton, now living in another part of the apartment block, and the previous occupant of her suite.

Victim of the holdup attempt was Mrs. Sylvia Turner, a clerk in the Freddie the Freeloader store. She said a young man came into the store, pointed a handgun at her and said: "This is a stick-up. Give." She screamed and the man left.

He was described as about 20, five-feet-eight, weighing 135 pounds and wearing a nylon stocking mask over his head, a yellow windbreaker and black gloves. The man fled on foot, taking nothing.

In Victoria Provincial Court, John Leslie Libon, 23, of 1421 Chambers, was fined $200 after pleading guilty to a charge of using a .303 rifle in a manner dangerous to the safety of others.

A Victoria policeman testified Libon fired two shots from the rear of his home after his wife went to a neighbor's following a domestic argument (Libon said he fired into the air). The policeman said Libon was about to fire a third shot when they arrived.

In Sooke, RCMP said a young man was being sought after two rifle shots were fired in a parking lot outside the Sooke Hotel beer parlor on Sooke Road late Thursday. It was understood the man was with two other men who had been in an argument with him inside the pub.

In the traffic accidents, four persons suffered minor injuries Thursday evening in a collision between their car and another on the Patricia Bay Highway between East Saanich and Keating in Central Saanich.

In Victoria, an old car was considered a writeoff after it went out of control on a curve in the 1600 block Rockland, bounced off a power pole and went down a short but steep embankment into a construction project. The two men in it received minor injuries.

Followers, Yes But Where Are the Chiefs?

Victoria is getting so congested with citizen groups, there just aren't enough people around to lead them.

Mrs. Bernice Packford, president of the Beacon Hill Park Association told the Colonist Friday she is looking for someone to head a group, plans for which were formulated about a month ago.

At that time, she said, the Beacon Hill Park Association held a meeting at which 150 persons indicated they would be willing to form another group aiming at implementation of the Old Town report.

"I've got 150 signatures and $51 which were collected, but I've found no one who will take on the job of heading the new group," Mrs. Packford said.

"The park association is too busy to look after this job; it would have to be someone willing to form the new group, and work for its aims," she said.

At the meeting, she said, everybody was enthusiastic to get the group underway. Now, nobody seemed to be interested enough in getting the show on the road.

"There doesn't seem to be any leadership in this regard in Victoria," she said.

She urges "anyone interested in pushing for the Old Town report," and willing to devote some time to organizing the potential members of a group to telephone her at 382-5121.

The Old Town report was prepared by a number of students with the aid of a federal grant. It proposes retention of Victoria's historic downtown character, restoration of old buildings and construction of numerous pedestrian malls in a highrise-free downtown core.

Home Recipe Plan Takes Off Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drugstore and ask for Naran. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonsful twice a day as needed and follow the Naran Reducing Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears — how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

PROVINCIAL COURT

Final remands were granted to three persons Friday in Victoria Provincial Court by Judge Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre before three separate preliminary hearings on various narcotics charges.

The three are Ronald Stanley Porter and Linda Louise Morino, both 23 and of 2852 Inez, and Michael Norman Sudds, 25, of 3131 Kingsley.

They will first appear Nov. 29 in Sidney Provincial Court for completion of a preliminary hearing on a charge of trafficking in LSD June 28 in Sidney.

The three are also due to appear Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 and 2 in Victoria Provincial Court for a preliminary hearing on a two-count charge of conspiracy to traffick in LSD and to possess LSD for the purpose of trafficking. That charge is dated between Sept. 1, 1970 and May 19, 1971, and alleges offences in the Sidney area and elsewhere.

Porter and Miss Morino are also scheduled to appear Dec. 22 in the Victoria court for a preliminary hearing on a joint charge of possession of cannabis resin on or about Oct. 22 in Saanich while Miss Morino faces a preliminary hearing the same day on a charge of possession of marijuana on or about Oct. 22 in Saanich.

The three have elected trial by judge and jury on all charges and are out on bail pending the hearings. Bail for Porter totals $13,500, for Miss Morino $8,500 and for Sudds $7,500.

Linda Lenore Robinson, 21, of 1733 Newton, was remanded in custody to Nov. 26 for a pre-sentence report and sentence after she pleaded guilty to an eight-count Victoria charge of uttering.

The charge resulted from eight worthless cheques with a total value of $327.85 cashed between Sept. 29 and Oct. 17 after Miss Robinson obtained a charge card belonging to someone else.

* * *

Ralph William Otto Herbert, 33, of Bremerton, Wash., was fined $250 after he pleaded guilty to a charge of theft involving less than $50 early Nov. 9 in Victoria. A Victoria policeman testified Herbert took a battery from a car parked in the 1100 block Balmoral after the battery of his own car went dead.

* * *

Michael Joseph Amesse, 19, no fixed address, was fined $250 following his plea of guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana — a small plastic bag found when he was checked by police Friday morning in Centennial Square.

* * *

In traffic court, Judge E. F. N. Robinson set a $300 fine and a three-month driving ban for Ronald James Maxwell, 20, of 1261 Goldstream, who pleaded guilty to a charge of driving Nov. 3 in the Colwood area with a blood-alcohol reading of more than .08 per cent.

Sweet Season

Well, Men You Had Your Day

- Women first to be fired. Page 37

By NANCY BROWN
Colonist Reporter

A friendly warning to the men of Victoria.

Those 77 women meeting at the University of Victoria this weekend are not discussing their knitting, nor are they exchanging recipes.

The only patterns they are interested in are the ones that will lead to the complete downfall of the dominant male.

But though infiltration wouldn't have been difficult, not one man turned up Friday night at the opening session of a conference on women's rights.

And by tonight it will be too late for a man to do anything.

They will be ready to elect women to public office, to increase the income of women — maybe they'll even be ready to ask husbands to pay their wives the going rate for the services they offer.

With wages what they are for janitors, chefs and seamstresses, that could leave a fellow well below the poverty level himself.

And Friday night there were the poor innocents staying away, neither knowing nor caring that they may soon be facing a confrontation with women as dedicated and ruthless as the old suffragettes.

Even the usually calm Oak Bay Mayor Francis Elford conceded during a discussion on ways of getting more women into public office that the Women's Liberationists who recently confronted Prime Minister Trudeau in Ottawa had a good point.

"I think they focused attention on a problem, and I wonder if we would have had the laws we got if it hadn't been for them," she said.

"We wouldn't even have the vote today if some very respectable women hadn't been prepared to act in a manner quite foreign to the way they had been brought up," she said.

Here are some of the things the UVic conference is discussing:

- They want to abolish ladies auxiliaries to men's groups.
- They want to cut out the special women's political groups and have the women join political parties as (shudder) equal members.
- There might be enough of them there to outvote men — they may even be able to nominate their own candidates and get women elected.

And the conference organizers were chuckling happily about the lack of male representation at the gathering.

"They're sure going to be surprised when they see what we're cooking up," said one.

Course First of It's Kind in Province

Retarded Child Care Aides Graduate

By BARBARA McLINTOCK
Colonist Reporter

There were a lot of firsts at a simple graduation ceremony held Friday afternoon at Glendale Hospital.

The 30 students graduating were the first in a class to train child-care aides to work specifically with the retarded.

They were members of the first class to graduate from Camosun College since it came into existence, incorporating the old Institute of Adult Studies and the B.C. Vocational School.

And the class was the first of its sort in the province, and may be used as a prototype for a future continuing class in child-care work with the retarded.

The idea for the class started when the new Glendale Hospital realized it was going to need about 60 child-care aides to work with the 300 retarded patients who will eventually occupy the hospital.

Inquiries to the provincial education department and Canada Manpower showed there was not such a course in existence in B.C., so the hospital decided to start its own.

Glendale psychologist Dr. John Higenbottam agreed to teach the training course, and the B.C. Vocational School (as it was then) agreed to allow the course to be taught under its auspices and to do the administrative work involved in it.

A total of 35 students began working in the course in the first week of September, and 30 of these received diplomas as child-care aides at the Friday ceremony.

They will provide the first 30 of the aides needed by the hospital as more and more patients move into it from other institutions around the province.

It currently holds about 100 patients.

The course has been successful enough, Higenbottam said, that a second group of 35 students will begin training Monday. They will provide the second group of 30 aides needed by Glendale.

At the same time, he said, the provincial education department is doing a study to determine if there is a need for a continuing course of this type.

If a survey of B.C. institutions serving the retarded shows there is such a need, the Glendale-Camosun course may well become a prototype for this training throughout the province.

The course, Higenbottam said, involves a combination of academic and practical work. Overall the students spend about half their time in the classroom and half working on the wards under the supervision of a nursing team.

The academic work, he said, is given on about a first-year university level and involves a discussion of the basis of retardation, genetic factors in retardation, various syndromes, and ways of training the retarded.

On the wards, the aides are particularly concerned with the basic care of the patients — washing, dressing, feeding and so on. But emphasis is on having the patients learn to do these things themselves.

The students have improved dramatically in their ability to work with the patients and to get them to do things for themselves, Higenbottam said.

John Drysdale, principal of the trades and vocational training division of Camosun College (formerly the vocational school) said the normal academic requirement for entering the course was a complete Grade 10, but this is a few cases had been waived.

The students, he said, had been carefully screened to check their emotional stability and ability to stand the strain of the work. There is a waiting list of students who wish to take the course.

Many, he said, had previous experience working with the handicapped, often in volunteer programs.

The class ranged in age from 18 to 62, but most were in their twenties, he said. About three times as many girls as boys took part.

The students themselves said the training had been of great use to them.

The best part of it, said Arlene Morris, of 1165 Yates, was "the responsibility. We know it's up to us to get these people to do as much as they can."

Eleanor McCaffery, of 1166 Balmoral, said she wished the course had lasted longer than its 10 weeks. "There's so much more to know about retardation," she said, "and the more you know the better you can do."

"Everybody in the hospital ought to take it," said Mrs. Betty Keller, of 4144 Wilkinson Road. "Even the nurses could learn from it."

'The more you know, the better you can do.'

Motorist's Condition Critical

A 66-year-old Sidney man was reported in critical condition late Friday in St. Joseph's Hospital after a spectacular accident in downtown Victoria which may have come after he suffered a heart attack.

Victoria police said the man, Archibald Davies, was driving his car on Herald when it suddenly went out of control near Blanshard. It crossed Blanshard, mounted a traffic island in mid-street, crossed northbound lanes, went over a curb and hit the Morris Printing Building, 1745 Blanshard.

Police and hospital officials were unsure whether Davies' condition was due to traffic injuries or a heart attack.

Davies' wife Lucy, 66, was treated at the hospital for cuts around her mouth while Mrs. Elvyn Donaldson, 640 Dallas, was treated for minor injuries received when the car hit the part of the building where she was working.

The incident was one of two which jammed downtown traffic in the hour after 12:30 noon. The other was a grease fire which started at about 12:30 in the London Fish and Chips Cafe, 723 Pandora, and caused damage estimated at $300.

Third Woman Joins Civic Race

Heynsbroek
'... growing concern'

Campaigning for the Dec. 11 Victoria elections continued to pick up speed Friday with a third woman entering the aldermanic race, and a citizens' group declaring its active support for a partial slate of candidates.

Latest entry in the contest for four aldermanic vacancies is Joyce Heynsbroek, a 43-year-old registered nurse making her first bid for public office.

The candidates to be supported by the Committee of Concerned Victorians (CCV) are Ald. Peter Pollen for mayor and Mrs. Heynsbroek and Jim Beaubien for aldermen.

Declaration of support for the two remaining candidates is withheld, pending further interviews of contestants by the CCV, a spokesman for the group told the Colonist Friday.

Meanwhile, two incumbents have declared their candidacy for Capital Regional Board seats.

Mrs. Heynsbroek, of 1448 Vining, said in an interview she decided to run for alderman because "I have a growing concern about the way matters are going in the city."

She said she is "totally and unalterably opposed" to any highrise development at Victoria's waterfront.

"In fact, I would like to see the city acquire all waterfront property in Victoria over the next 40 or 50 years. That's how long it will probably take," she said.

Another major problem, Mrs. Heynsbroek said, was the "great need" for amalgamation of the city's four core municipalities.

"This is probably more urgent than any of the other problems. It isn't fair that the relatively small city population must support the outlying areas in so many ways," she said.

Council, she said, should respond more to the wishes of the people. Aldermen should be willing to carry out the wishes of the voters, even if they don't agree with those wishes.

Mrs. Heynsbroek was born in England, moved to Canada 11 years ago and came to Victoria in 1965.

She worked as a registered nurse at the Veterans' Hospital and the Chinese Hospital. Because of a back injury, she has been unable to work in her profession for the past few months.

"All my life I've been involved in volunteer work in the communities where we lived. Since I'm not working anymore, I feel I can contribute substantially to the city's welfare," Mrs. Heynsbroek said.

Mrs. Heynsbroek was the third woman to announce her candidacy for the Victoria aldermanic race. The other two are Mrs. Margaret Richards and Mrs. Sally Rogers, both housewives.

The total number of candidates running for the four vacancies has now reached 10. The others are Ald. Clyde Savage, Ald. Ove Witt, Bill Tindall, Bob Ellis, Alf. Hood, Mike Young, and Beaubien.

Four candidates are competing in the mayoral race. They are incumbent Mayor Courtney Haddock, Saanich Ald. Foster Isherwood, Bill Scott and Pollen.

A. L. Watson, a CCV spokesman, told the Colonist Pollen was selected by the group as favorite candidate "following a lengthy interview."

He said the group hasn't interviewed Haddock because "his record is there before us and we didn't think it was necessary to talk to him."

Last-Ditch Plea Planned For Troubled Campaign

The 1971 Victoria United Appeal will be lucky if it collects enough money to equal last year's total of $651,000, Appeal campaign chairman Eric Charman said Friday.

Charman told a press conference the Appeal had now reached $500,000 — about two-thirds of its objective — but projecting the totals onto last year's figures showed the most likely final result was between $625,000 and $650,000.

The Appeal's goal for this year was $758,17

Continued failure of the Appeal to reach its goal, he said, could cause it to "fall apart" as agencies dropped out when the Appeal could not meet their financial needs.

Charman said he, co-chairman Floyd Fairclough and leaders of areas in the Appeal would try, over the weekend, to find a new approach for a "last-ditch appeal" but they were not sure one would be successful.

He believed, he said, that poor economic conditions were responsible for many of the decreases, especially in employee giving.

But, he added, he believed that a decrease in community spirit in the Victoria area was another reason the Appeal was having trouble making its goal.

Campbell River, he noted, had gone over the top, and he did not think economic conditions there were much better than in Victoria.

Peace Topic

Recently retired deputy chief of the defence staff, Major-General A. J. Tedlie will speak on a chance for peace at the Victoria Kiwanis Club luncheon at noon, Tuesday in the ballroom, Empress Hotel.

Tyees Topple Hornets To Claim Colonist Cup

Diminutive winger Bob Mackie provided the magic Friday night when Victoria Tyees ended Mount View Hornets' four-year hold on the Colonist Cup soccer championship.

Mackie scored the first two Tyee goals and figured prominently in those by Gary McLaren and Garnet Moen as the inter-high school league champions broke loose for a 4-1 victory before almost 2500 fans at Royal Athletic Park.

The victory ended Hornets' Royal Athletic Park jinx over the Tyees, who hadn't won a game from Mount View at the Caledonia Street grounds in five seasons.

In fact, Victoria's only loss of points this year came in a 1-0 league match against Hornets at Royal Athletic. Tyees won the first encounter this season, 3-1, at Mount View.

The sloppy field conditions Friday seemingly favored the more defensively-minded Hornets, but all Joe Bekkers' defending champions could manage was a goal in the last minute of the first half.

Victoria-keeper Dan Wilmshurst was a little late in coming out of his net, enabling Hornet left-winger Russ McKee to take his time and send the teams to the dressing room tied at 1-1.

"We should have been down losing a goal in the last minute of the first half like that," said Ash Valdal, Tyee coach. "Our keeper didn't come out and I gave him a chewing out at half time.

"But he made a couple of fine saves at the start of the second half and after Baker (Norm, Hornet centre half) came up limping they seemed to die."

Mackie, who opened the scoring with an opportunistic shot from a goal-line mixup at 18 minutes broke the deadlock with what proved to be the winner, 22 minutes into the final session, on a fine pass from McLaren.

Mount View was somewhat unlucky a few minutes later when McKee missed a good chance for a second goal, and that was to be the last dangerous effort the defending champions could muster.

THE CLINCHERS

Mackie, the only player to consistently stand out in a game hampered by nerves and the field condition, then put over a brilliant cross for McLaren to head home at 35 minutes.

Moen, the league scoring champion in a runaway, assured Victoria of its 20th championship in the 36 times the trophy has been played for by finishing off a play from Mackie and McLaren with two minutes remaining.

Hornets were seeking to tie the consecutive cup record of five, shared by Victoria and Oak Bay, and their 11th win overall. They were very much in the chase until Mackie's second goal.

McKee drove a shot just to the outside of the net early in the first half and shortly before Mackie's second goal, substitute forward Mark Cline's cross miraculously stayed out after a defender drove it off the underside of the Victoria crossbar trying to clear.

Coast League-performer Bobby Duncan of Tyees had just missed on two good chances a few minutes earlier in the second half, but Victoria refused to sag this time against the hard-tackling Hornets and were worthy winners.

REMATCH POSSIBLE

Both Mount View and Victoria will be participating in the 12-team B.C. school championships here next weekend.

Joining from the Island are Nanaimo and Cowichan while the other teams will be Eric Hamber, defending-champion Burnaby North and Vancouver Tech from the Vancouver Area, Nakusp, Kitimat, Kamloops, North Delta and Abbotsford.

Action will go Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the day at Centennial Stadium with night games Thursday, the doubleheader semi-finals Friday and championship match Saturday, all at Royal Athletic Park.

Familiar Football Show Opens Re-Run in Calgary

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders, meeting in the Western Football Conference final for the fifth consecutive year, begin the rubber match today in the first game of a best-of-three series.

In the four previous finals, each club has won five games and two series. Riders won in 1967 and 1968 with Calgary taking the 1969 and 1970 finals. Riders have managed to win the opener on just one occasion, in 1969 in Regina.

Today's game between Saskatchewan and Calgary will be telecast on Channel 8 and broadcast on radio stations CJVI (900) and CKWX (1130) starting at 1 p.m.

Playing at home has not meant much difference, either, as the visiting team has won six of the 10 final playoff games between the two clubs since 1967.

Many people think Saskatchewan's biggest threat to another Grey Cup appearance was Winnipeg Blue Bombers who fell, 34-23, to the Riders last Saturday in the semi-final.

STANDARD VIEW

Rider head coach Dave Skrien isn't one of them.

"Everyone you talk to seems to think all we have to do to beat the Stampeders is suit up and show up at the park," Skrien said.

"They have a well-balanced attack and are the toughest defensive club we have played against all season. They had trouble in the late stages of the season, but there is no reason why they can't regain the form that they displayed at the start of the schedule."

Skrien also expects Calgary may have a few new wrinkles in store for the Riders but he doesn't expect many major changes.

"They have moved the ball pretty well along the ground and this helps their passing game," he said. "You have to remember, too, that they have a big strong defence.

"They just try to overpower you. It will take the same kind of effort that we got from everyone against the Bombers last Saturday if we hope to beat Calgary."

FRONT-LINE VIEW

Quarterback Ron Lancaster, who completed 15 of 19 pass attempts in the semi-final, also has a lot of respect for Stampeders.

He said the Calgary defensive line of John Helton, Dick Suderman, Craig Koinzan and Fred James always present a problem.

"They go pretty much with a four-man rush because they are big, strong and quick," said Lancaster. "It lets them drop off their linebackers to help the secondary and gives them an eight-man deep defence.

"They have good speed in their secondary and when the linebackers drop off it makes it tough to pass because they can play zone or man-to-man just about whenever they want."

Saskatchewan came out of the semi-final without any serious injuries, but the pass defence still is without two stalwarts hurt earlier in the season, Bob Kosid and Bob Pearce.

However, Calgary knows the Rider defence will still be tough. Ron Payne, the Stampeders' offensive coach says the key to beating Saskatchewan is taking care of middle linebacker Wally Dempsey ... a job for all-star centre Basil Bark.

"We won't put in anything special for Dempsey," said Payne. "It'll just be a good centre against a good linebacker. Dempsey makes most of their plays."

Victoria Junior Cubs repelled a challenge by second-place CFB Esquimalt, downing the Buccaneers, 3-1, Friday to open a three-point lead in the Vancouver Island Hockey League.

Butler Brothers climbed over idle University of Victoria Norsemen with a 5-1 victory over London Boxing Club in the second half of the doubleheader, which brought 1148 fans to Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Mark Bowles scored two goals and assisted on what proved to be the winner, by linemate Brian McLachlin at 12:45 of the final period.

Bowles had given Cubs the lead with a first-period goal but Gary Lauder tied it at 3:20 of the third period. Bowles later put the game out of Buccaneers' reach, scoring with 28 seconds remaining as Esquimalt was desperately trying to get Joe Rozon out of the goal for a sixth attacker.

Coach Keith Lawrence of the Cubs, in a surprise move, rested both regular goaltenders, Bob Adamek and Rick Tkalcik, and went with Scott McMasters, who stopped 19 of 20 shots.

Paul Bion scored two goals and Don Robinson, Lance Foreman and Jim Haddrell had the others for Butlers, who broke a 1-1 deadlock with two goals in the second period and added two more in the final 20 minutes.

Vern Gibson got London Boxing's goal.

Fielder Ties Howe's Total

SEATTLE (AP) — Guyle Fielder tied the all-time professional hockey career scoring record Friday night as the Salt Lake City Eagles handed the Seattle Totems their fifth straight Western Hockey League defeat, 1-3.

Fielder, who will be 41 this month, had three assists for a career total of 1809 points — the same total amassed by Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League before he retired at the end of last season.

Tennis Loses Big Sponsor

LONDON (AP) — One of the biggest sponsors of international tennis withdrew Friday its backing for a major world tournament and another threatened to pull out of the game unless on-court bickering stops.

The International Lawn Tennis Federation said Pepsi-Cola had cancelled its $200,000 stake for a series of Grand Prix tournaments next year.

ILTF secretary Basil Reay gave no reason for Pepsi's withdrawal, but said a new sponsor had been found — he would not give any names — and next year "I guarantee there will be a Grand Prix and the prize money will be bigger."

Under the Pepsi sponsorship, male prize winners competed for a $150,000 pot, while the women had $50,000 available.

The Pepsi move came a few hours after a leading British tennis sponsor warned his company would give up the game if players and officials did not stop squabbling over line calls.

John Dewar, a director of the whisky firm which sponsors the Dewar Cup series, said he didn't want the bad publicity which stems from the arguments.

Cougars Continue To Build Add Four in Brandon Trade

Victoria Cougars, striving for a playoff spot in the Western Canada Hockey League, completed two deals Friday that involved 11 players, including highly-regarded Bruce Affleck of Penticton.

Rights to Affleck, a 17-year-old defenceman considered to be one of the finest professional prospects in Western Canada, were traded to Brandon Wheat Kings for four players, two of whom are expected to play tonight against Swift Current Broncos at Memorial Arena.

Affleck is currently with Penticton Broncos of the B.C. Junior Hockey League, having rejected several bids by the Cougars in order to complete his high school education in Penticton.

NOT INTERESTED

"There was never any hint by Affleck of his coming to Victoria," said Cougar manager Eric Bishop. "He flatly refused to play any games here and indicates he has his heart set on going to Denver University."

(U.S. collegiate rules bar any player from accepting a scholarship if he has played any major junior hockey in Canada.)

"In effect, we gave up nothing and got four players in return," Bishop added.

NEW QUARTET

Brandon sent centre Barry Chernos, 19, who scored 43 points in 54 games with Wheat Kings last year; Jerry Dudar, a 17-year-old right-winger who played 44 games for Brandon last season; Roger Borque, 16, a 16-year-old defenceman now playing with Calgary Canucks of the Alberta Junior League and Ken McConigal, a 17-year-old centre now at his Moosomin home after refusing to report to Portage La Prairie, Brandon's affiliate in the Manitoba Junior League.

Bishop said Chernos and Dudar were to report immediately while Borque, with four years of junior hockey ahead of him, is expected to stay in Calgary this season. McConigal will be invited to Victoria for a tryout.

FOUR GO TO NATS

To make room on the roster, Cougars shipped four players to Vancouver Nats and released defenceman Wayne Hendry at his request so he could play with the University of Victoria Vikings.

Moving to Vancouver for "future considerations" are defenceman Dave Okrainec, 17, centre Rick Kennedy, 18, winger Mark Thomas, 18, and winger Ron Winkler, 19.

Thomas, a member of last year's Cougars, is in Vancouver on a "make good" basis. If he fails to earn a regular spot with the Nats, his playing rights will revert to Victoria.

Cougars also welcomed back centre Dave George, acquired from Calgary in the recent Denny McLean trade. George had been suspended and sent home following a dispute in a recent Brandon game.

He indicated he wanted to play in Victoria and coach Fred Hucul is giving him a second chance. George is expected to return to Victoria from his home in North Battleford in time for tonight's game.

Chris Ridgell, Cougars' second-highest scorer last season, is in camp on a "make good" basis. Riddell, who obtained his release from the Alberta club, and Lon Miles were traded to Edmonton Oil Kings in the deal that brought Okrainec and three other players to Victoria.

Tonight's game, the seventh home date for the Cougars, starts at 8:30.

Affleck Undecided

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — Bruce Affleck of Penticton Broncos of the British Columbia Junior Hockey League, a central figure in a major junior hockey trade, said Friday he was undecided about his future in the sport.

The 17-year-old has been an all-star defenceman in the BCJHL the last two seasons and is currently among the league's leading scorers.

Affleck said he plans to continue with Penticton for the remainder of this season and that he's unable to give Brandon a commitment for next season.

He said he may play next season at the University of Denver, where he had been offered a scholarship.

Games today: Swift Current at VICTORIA, Edmonton at Flin Flon, Calgary at Medicine Hat, Saskatoon at Winnipeg.

Vancouver Nats made sure Victoria Cougars remain in the cellar for at least three more days by edging Swift Current Broncos, 3-2, in an overtime game at Kerrisdale Arena Friday night.

The win moved Vancouver three points ahead of the Cougars in the Western Division of the Western Canada Hockey league. Cougars have a chance to get back within a point tonight when Swift Current visits Memorial Arena.

NO CHANGE

Swift Current remained in the Eastern Division cellar, one point behind Winnipeg Jets, 6-3 losers to Regina Pats Friday night. In the other Friday game, Saskatoon Blades bombed Edmonton Oil Kings, 9-3, in an inter-divisional game in Saskatoon.

Cougars host Medicine Hat Tuesday while Vancouver begins a six-day trip through the Eastern Division.

STEWART STARS

Vancouver's Gordie Stewart scored two goals, including the winner at 3:15 of sudden-death overtime, and also assisted on Pat Russell's goal early in the third period.

Kelly Pratt and Norm Leavins replied for the Broncos, Leavins' goal coming with only 48 seconds remaining.

RACE TIGHTENS

Saskatoon and Regina moved into a second-place tie in the Eastern Division, three points behind Brandon Wheat Kings, 4-3 winners against Winnipeg on Thursday night.

Swift Current nipped New Westminster Bruins, 6-5, and Edmonton blanked Calgary Centennials, 2-0, in the other Remembrance Day games.

Russ Walker and Doug Manchuk scored two goals each for Saskatoon, 4-0 leaders after two periods.

UVic Basketball Teams Ambush Calgary Visitors

University of Victoria's rookie coaches passed their initiation into Western Canada Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association competition with flying colors Friday night at UVic's gymnasium.

Gary Taylor got a hustling performance from his Vikings, who trimmed University of Calgary Dinosaurs, 66-45, in a men's basketball league game after Mike Gallo's Vikettes downed University of Calgary Dinnies, 44-30, in a women's contest.

Vikings employed a half-court press throughout the game, disrupting Calgary's attack, stealing the ball 16 times and forcing jump balls 12 times when Calgary ball handlers couldn't find an open man.

Although out-rebounded, 45-38, by the bigger and taller Dinosaurs, Vikings kept the pressure on and forced Calgary into continual mistakes.

Captain Tom Holmes led the scoring with 17 points. Jim Hunter, one of two rookie freshmen on Taylor's squad, contributed 13 points to the attack, one more than Gord Hoshal.

ZONE BROKEN

In the women's contest, Vikettes broke a pesky zone defence with about eight minutes to go when guards Rose Jossul and Yvonne Letellier started hitting from the outside. Miss Jossul got 10 of her 14 points in the second half and Miss Letellier ended up with 12 points.

Dinnies, who only hit on 15 per cent of their shots, got nine points from Wendy Bingeman and seven from Bonnie Schmidt.

Vikettes and Dinnies meet again today starting at 5 p.m. while Vikings and Dinosaurs will start their rematch at 8:00.

Vancouver Canucks keep getting close but their current record is showing no improvement over their first season in the National Hockey League.

Playing the second game of a six-game road trip on Thursday night, Canucks again faded in the late going and were 3-4 losers to Philadelphia Flyers.

It was the sixth one-goal defeat of the season for the West Coasters and it was particularly hard to take because the road trip, which started in Pittsburgh, now gets tough.

Tonight's game between Vancouver and Toronto will be telecast on Channels 2 and 6 and broadcast on radio station CKNW (980) starting at 5 p.m.

Canucks play in Toronto tonight, in New York Sunday, in Chicago on Wednesday and Boston on Thursday before they return home.

Simon Nolet, who did the same thing to them on Vancouver ice earlier this season, scored the winning goal on a lone effort late in the third period Thursday.

Nolet, matching his total production of last season, got his ninth goal of the current campaign when he fooled Dale Tallon and then had a weak-looking shot trickle across the line after Dunc Wilson had seemed to make a skate save.

The goal came with just more than five minutes remaining and it was the perfect finish for the 13,196 fans who witnessed one of the season's most exciting games. And for Nolet, who set up Brent Hughes for the 3-3 goal and Barry Ashbee for the 1-0 goal.

Canucks overcame the early Philadelphia lead to take 2-1 and 3-2 margins but again made things tough for themselves by their penchant for taking penalties.

They were called for 11 of the games 19 minor penalties and while only Ashbee's goal came on a power play, penalty-killing again interrupted the tempo of the Vancouver attack and often turned the initiative back to the Flyers.

Result left Canucks sharing fifth place in the East Division with Buffalo Sabres and moved the Flyers into a fourth place tie with California Golden Seals in the West Division.

Sabres missed their chance to take over fourth place when they were beaten, 4-2, by Los Angeles Kings, who had lost seven straight games.

Kings got fine goalkeeping from Gary Edwards in getting a first triumph for Fred Glover, who took over as coach five games back.

Edwards, playing his first game for Glover as the shell-shocked Rogatien Vachon was given a rest, stopped 31 shots. Outshot in every period, Kings managed only 22 shots on goal and were hanging on when Bill Flett hit the open net with 10 seconds remaining.

Jean Potvin stepped out of the penalty box midway through the final period to break a 2-2 deadlock with his first goal of the season and the Kings couldn't come back, missing their chance to tie a record by becoming the second expansion club to manage a seven-game unbeaten streak.

In Thursday's other game, Phil Esposito got Boston Bruins straightened out and led the way to a 5-2 victory over the Seals.

The three points moved the defending scoring champion into a second-place tie with Vic Hadfield. Both have 25 points, two fewer than Rod Gilbert of New York Rangers.

O'Dell

Player in Peak Form South Africans Lead

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Gary Player, firing "as perfect a round of golf as I'm capable of," had a five-under-par 67 Friday as South Africa retained a three stroke lead over the United States in the second round of the World Cup Golf Tournament.

The muscular Johannesburg rancher had a 36-hole total of 136, eight under par for two trips over the long, demanding east course at the PGA National Golf Club.

That gave him a one stroke margin over America's Jack Nicklaus, the first round leader who slipped to a 69 for 137.

Harold Henning, the other half of South Africa's entry in this international competition that has drawn two-man teams from 46 nations, had another 71, giving South Africa a team total of 278.

Lee Trevino, just named the PGA player of the year for 1971, matched Nicklaus' 69 but was well back in the individual competition at 144. The United States, heavily favored to regain the team title won by Australia last year was alone in second with a team score of 281.

New Zealand, with lefty Bob Charles and John Lister, and England, with Tony Jacklin and young Peter Oosterhuis, were tied for third place at 286, two under par.

CANADA FOURTH

Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont. was tied with four other golfers at 144, two strokes ahead of his partner, Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg. Their 290 total put Canada in fourth place.

The Canadians were six strokes behind the leaders following the first round.

Player and Henning had a four-under-par total of 140, three strokes ahead of the United States and New Zealand, tied for second place, after 18 holes.

Nicklaus, with a 68, led Player and defending individual champion Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina by one stroke after 18 holes.

The 48-year-old de Vicenzo was alone in third place after 36 holes with 139, one stroke ahead of Bob Charles of New Zealand and Liang Huan-Lu of Taiwan.

Drivers Get Awards For Sterling Seasons

Pollard and his son, Larry, took home six trophies between them and Rick O'Dell carted off six awards, including the popular driver prize.

Earl was selected VITRA's Driver of the Year and Mechanic of the Year and was also given the Dick Willoughby Perpetual Sportsmanship Trophy after his fine season at Western Speedway. His other win was the Roy White Memorial Cup, a stock-car race during the season.

Son Larry went home with the VITRA Points Championship Trophy and Jalopy Championship Race Trophy capping a sensational season in the stock car class.

O'Dell needed assistance to carry his trophies home. He took the Harold Thorne Memorial Trophy for winning the super-stock points championship, the Alf Erickson Excavating Trophy for the super-stock championship race, the Corby Cup for his seven main-event wins, the Billy Foster Stock Carr 100 trophy, the C-FAX Popular Driver Award and the July Cup.

Another fine season was enjoyed by Roy Smith, who swept the awards for modifieds. Smith carried off the Billy Foster Championship 100, Daffodil Cup and Strawberry Cup and culminated it with the Hocking and Forbes Trophy, for the points championship.

John Biggs, VITRA president, won the Member of the Year Award for the second time in the cup's six-year history. Biggs, who also won in 1968, continued the custom of the president taking the coveted award since its inception.

ONE FROM LANGLEY

Master-of-ceremonies Reg Midgley, popular manager of Western Speedway, announced that Victoria's Ross Surgenor was recently voted the Sportsman of the Year by drivers at Langley Speedway.

Gorge Makes Bid To Push Leaders

Gorge Molsons try for their third straight win in the Pacific Coast Soccer League today and, if successful, can climb to within two points of league-leading North Shore.

Molsons will take on the leaders at Royal Athletic Park beginning at 2 p.m. and expect to make only one change from the lineup which beat Vancouver Firefighters last Sunday at Empire Stadium.

Joe Poulton, who started Molsons to the 3-1 victory over Firefighters, suffered a badly injured ankle later in the match and will not play today. Forward line duties will be shared by George Hynes, Rick Lamoureaux, John Blissit and Dan Henry.

IT LOOKS SOUND

Darryl Hooker, who scored twice against Firefighters, and Bob Bolitho will be the linkmen. Doug Marshall, Mark Robb, Randy Cronk and Dennis Somner will be the backs and Graham Lee will be in goal for Victoria.

Jack Magi, Doug Bissen and Curt Clarke will be coach Larry De Costa's alternates. Magi may start if the pulled hamstring muscle which he suffered two weeks ago has healed.

Making their first appearance this season at Royal Athletic Park for North Shore are goalkeeper Bill Grant and backs Bill Nichol and Ken Legge. Legge, a B.C. all-star, is presently playing outstanding soccer.

MAINLAND GAME

West-United, Victoria's other entry, will be hoping for a win from their cross-town rivals so that they can move within a point of the lead.

Wests face University of British Columbia Thunderbirds today, still smarting from last Saturday's 3-4 defeat at Royal Athletic Park at the hands of Vancouver Inter-Italia.

Judge Puts Off Arena Decision

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Daniel G. Albert Friday postponed a decision on lawyer Neil Shayne's suit to reqire Nassau County to consider his proposed World Hockey Association team as a tenant for its new $22 million coliseum.

Albert ordered lawyers for both sides to return Nov. 22 for further argument.

Shayne is the holder of the WHA's New York franchise, one of 10 awarded so far by the new professional circuit.

His lawyer, Norman Dachs, claimed that the National Hockey League's Tuesday decision to grant a franchise for a new team on Long Island was intended to freeze the WHA out of the new coliseum, scheduled to open early next year in Hempstead.

"We stand ready to offer a $150,000 bond subject to forfeit if we do not play in 1972," Dachs said.

Laywers for the county argued that Shayne's suit should be thrown out because the character does not require public bidding for franchises in the coliseum.

New League Brings Extra Co-operation

TORONTO (CP) — Alan Eagleson, executive director of the National Hockey League Players' Association, says the advent of the World Hockey Association, whatever its future, has had an influence on hockey that has been immense and positive.

"The announcement of the formation of the WHA had led the NHL to drop clause 13C from its player contract, has hurried expansion and improve the climate for contract negotiations," Eagleson said.

"The NHL owners are certainly much more co-operative since the WHA has come on the scene," he said. "Of course our relationship was always good, but they're going out of their way to be helpful now."

Clause 13C allowed a team to release any player on two weeks' notice if his performance was judged faulty. With the clause deleted, a player now must be paid for the duration of his contract.

Cards Keep Red

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Red Schoendienst has been signed for his eighth season as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, the National Baseball League club announced. The one-year contract is reported to call for a salary of about $60,000.

Medicor Action Dropped

VANCOUVER (CP) — Medical Investment Corp.; (Medicor) majority shareholder of Northwest Sports, owners of the Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League, Friday dropped its request for a receiver to be appointed in a dispute with four minority shareholders of northwest sports.

Medicor had launched legal action against Cyrus McLean, Coleman E. Hall, Frank McMahon and G. Maxwell Bell, alleging the four had failed to deliver shares in capital stock.

The company asked for damages against all four for breach of contract and appointment of a receiver for dividends paid on the stock pending trial of the claim.

In supreme court Friday, Medicor withdrew its motion for a receiver against Hall and MacLean and dismissed its motion against Bell and McMahon by consent.

British Government Takes Action To Keep Betting Operation Solvent

LONDON (Reuter) — The British government moved today to prevent government-run betting facilities from being strangled by private bookmarkers.

New laws were presented to Parliament aimed at enabling the government apparatus to compete on equal terms with other betting operators.

The emergency legislation is designed to save the government operation from going into bankruptcy. It will enable government-owned betting shops to offer prices and methods of wagering competitive with private bookmakers.

At present, Britain has a dual private and government betting system. It consists of the government-operated race track totalizators, and thousands of private bookmakers who quote their own odds at the racetracks, accept credit bets by telephone, and run Britain's 15,000-odd horse and dog-betting shops.

The totalizator pays off according to the amount of money wagered on each horse, whereas the bookmaker sets the odds before the race is run.

This enables bookies to offer a wide range of sophisticated betting services involving accumulator or parlay wagers in which winnings from one horse are transferred to one or more other runners.

Under the new laws, the government will be able to open betting shops using both types of wagering.

Dave Jones Tops Holiday Tourney

Dave Jones of Uplands Golf Club Thursday won the annual Remembrance Day tournament over his home course by a two-stroke margin.

Chuck McBey (76-6—70) of Glen Meadows and Bill Merluk (81-11—70) of Uplands finished in a second-place tie. Murray Brown of Glen Meadows (77-6—71) was fourth.

Bob Moon of Vancouver Fraserview won low-gross honors with a 73, one stroke ahead of Frank Scroggs of Uplands. Ken Nott of Uplands and Joe Evans of Colwood were next with 75 and 76, respectively.

Special nine-hole prizes went to Jim Nott, Murray Lawson and Carl Locatelli, all of Uplands, and Colwood's Vic Painter.

Successor Named

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) Joe Ryan, general-manager of the Wichita team, has been selected to succeed Allie Reynolds as president of the American Association baseball league.

"Save-Your-Hair Day" Set For Mon. & Tues.

FOR BALDING HEADS LIKE THESE, a "SAVE-YOUR-HAIR DAY" has been announced. As long as you have some hair, you have an excellent chance to grow thicker hair by new methods of home treatment.

SCALP SPECIALIST HERE TO DEMONSTRATE NEW HOME TREATMENT

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness will be demonstrated in Victoria this Monday and Tuesday, November 15 and 16. This news was released here today by Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In their announcement they named, trichologist Mr. I. Edgar to conduct the Victoria Clinic. Mr. Edgar will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. Monday and Tuesday at the hotel Sussex.

EXAMINE YOU FREE

"We want to make it clear that you incur no obligation by seeing Mr. Edgar."

"Your only obligation is to yourself to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home Treatment, we will frankly tell you so."

WHO CAN BE HELPED?

Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No. We cannot help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late!

Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth behind it. Harrison trichologists hold clinics in all major cities across Canada.

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do. But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate and baldish by the time he nerves himself to see a Harrison trichologist.

He's 'tried everything'. So he starts consoling himself with one of the old superstitions about hair: That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today."

FREE SCALP EXAMINATION

See Mr. Edgar in person. Learn how baldness can be avoided and hair growth encouraged. The new Harrison method permits you to actually save and improve your hair in the privacy of your own home.

For an examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the hotel Sussex Monday or Tuesday between 1:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. for Mr. Edgar's suite number. You don't need an appointment. Examinations are given in private.

TV Key to National Lacrosse League

VANCOUVER (CP) — Proposed televising of lacrosse games may decide the fate of a new national league, Jack Fulton, of New Westminster, president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, said holding its general meeting in Toronto next week and among items on the agenda is one calling for formation of a national Lacrosse league based on two divisions, similar to the set-up in the Canadian Football League.

The problem is financing a league and Fulton will be holding discussions with Canadian Broadcasting Corporation officials on the possibility of televising games, which could provide some of the money.

Fulton said the association would need some sort of sponsorship to form the league. Lacrosse had one short-lived national league, the National Lacrosse Association, which folded in 1968 after one season of operation because teams couldn't meet operational costs.

Jim Bishop, coach of the Windsor Warlocks of the Ontario senior B league, said his team, along with clubs from Toronto and Peterborough posted $10,000 performance bonds Sunday as the first step to forming an eastern division of the league. Four other teams have also expressed interest in joining the eastern division, Bishop said.

He said the new league would be semi-professional at first, with a full-fledged professional league being formed eventually. Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster and Coquitlam, all members of the Western Lacrosse Association, would be in the west division of the new loop.

Goalkeeper Earns Star In 7-6 Cup-Tie Soccer

A goalkeeper made the outstanding contribution in a 7-6 Thursday soccer game which decided possession of the McGavin Cup.

It went to University of Victoria Vikings because Dave Achurch managed to tip a penalty kick by Dave Peffers over the bar.

Vikings, who took a 2-0 lead in the first half, and London Boxing Club wound up in a 2-2 tie after regulation time. And after 30 more minutes of slogging in Royal Athletic Park mud had failed to break it, officials reluctantly ordered that a decision would be sought by giving each club five penalty kicks, to be taken by five different players.

Then Achurch got a piece of Peffers' shot and playing-coach Ike MacKay nailed down the victory for Vikings by making good with their last spot kick.

It climaxed a fine afternoon for MacKay. Action was only eight minutes old when he set up a picture goal for Leier, beating three defenders and pulling Brodsgaard before making a return pass for a set-up. MacKay then boosted it to 2-0 on a penalty kick at 36 minutes.

Leier's goal came after London Boxing Club had two goals called back for offside but the eventual losers kept coming in rough and often chippy action which brought the ejection of three players and numerous warnings from referee Ken Baggott.

The club team came close several times after resumption before Bob Battistoni finally beat Achurch at 54 minutes. Barry Robbins headed in a cross from De Bruin 11 minutes later and Vikings were a bit fortunate in getting to overtime, Battistoni missing twice on breakaways and Pakos putting one just over the bar about two minutes from time.

EX-BEATLE'S BID INCLUDES WIFE

LONDON (UPI) — Former Beatle Paul McCartney is launching his own group that will include his American wife Linda.

After weeks of rumors in the pop music set and trade journals, McCartney announced this week that the new group would be named Wings.

Dozens of names from the British pop music world, actors, actresses and disc jockeys were at a special party for the announcement but not John Lennon, George Harrison and Ringo Starr, the other Beatles with whom McCartney broke last year.

High point of the evening was the first public airing of the Wings' first album. In addition to McCartney, there was Linda on piano and vocals, former Moody Blues guitarist Denny Laine and American drummer Dennis Selwell.

Rolf Harris Still Crowd-Pleaser

Don't Tie That Kangaroo Down

By BILL THOMAS
Colonist Staff

Rolf Harris, the complete Australian entertainer, is back in town and packing them into the McPherson Playhouse. He filled it twice Friday and he will do the same at 6 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. today.

If Harris is pacing himself these days it doesn't show. He still bounds about like one of his own celebrated kangaroos playing his accordion, dispensing fast gags and playing his single-bore outback flute.

He sings the songs his audience has come to hear. He has not really got much voice but then does he need it?

Flapping his bit of board he Ties His Kangaroo Down and then runs off into his Christmas hit Six White Boomers. He never lets down and he never disappoints his audience.

Backed by a six-piece band he works really hard to see that his material is seen to advantage. Harris must be an agent's delight because I can't recall his doing a bad show or even a half-hearted show.

His audience never feels unhappy or ill-at-ease about joining in. They are so much a part of his show they can anticipate him and are ready to be teased into singing along.

Harris can joke and quip with his crowd without ever putting them at a disadvantage so that he has the house all on his side from the beginning.

Only he could offer a song like Two Little Boys and get away with it. The sentiments and lyrics are just too corny but Harris does it.

There probably isn't a finer wobble board player on the concert circuit. His tone is superb and his master of this strange instrument complete.

As might be expected he has a host of new verses to his Vancouver Town song. He makes sure he has just the right touch. The political implications always get a roar from the audience and Friday was no exception.

Harris
. . . great rapport

There was a suggestion at intermission that Harris was doing all his old stuff.

Well the answer to that is, "Why not?" That's what his audience loves.

He can certainly handle sentiment and get away with it at the same time putting over a few jokes that are just a touch off being blue.

It's hard not to feel you are watching a master of vaudeville at work when Harris performs.

No doubt there will be people turned away tonight and there will be demands that he be brought back. Harris deserves it all, he is nothing short of great.

Jurors Convict Man In Deaths of Three

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UPI) — Aubran "Buddy" Martin was found guilty Friday of killing United Mine Worker official Joseph "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

The jury deliberated less than 90 minutes before foreman Frank Costello announced the panel had reached a verdict of guilty of first degree murder.

Martin, who has a nine-year criminal record of 75 robberies and burglaries, paled when the verdict was announced in the courtroom of Judge Charles Sweet. Martin otherwise showed no emotion, but nerviously shifted a pen he was holding from one hand to another.

Judge Sweet then called a recess until 9:30 a.m. today at the request of defence attorney Mark Goldberg, who said he needed more time to prepare evidence to present to the jury when it meets to determine whether Martin will be sentenced to life in prison or death in the electric chair.

After Judge Sweet granted Goldberg's request, the jurist said:

"Let it be said that in Washington County, justice will be done."

Goldberg said he would seek an appeal, but did not indicate on what grounds.

'Canada's Second Great Medicare Battle'

Community Centres Big Health Hurdle

By JOHN MATTERS
Colonist Reporter

Dr. John McCreary, dean of the University of B.C.'s medical faculty, says community health centres attended by salaried doctors would get medical care more efficiently to the public and reduce the use of expensive hospitals.

The need for such facilities is so urgent, he says, that centres could be built in existing health units or office buildings to forestall any delay until a construction program is started.

McCreary's statement, made to a recent national conference on medical manpower, aligns the UBC dean with the policy of the New Democratic Party government of Manitoba, now engaged in what some columnists have described as "Canada's second great medicare battle."

Developments in Manitoba and with community clinics such as the three already in existence in Saskatchewan are being observed with unusual interest in B.C., where the government recently came to a saw-off with doctors on two cabinet orders that were directed at reducing medical costs.

It is known that some authorities in the B.C. government for example, hope that any public health buildings in B.C. will in fact be community clinics, were doctors on salary will provide day-to-day care.

It also has been suggested that hospitals such as the 75-bed centre proposed for Central Saanich, which would be within 20 minutes' drive of Royal Jubilee or St. Joseph's, are a wasteful expenditure when considered in the light of services that would be available at a community clinic.

Foulkes

Medicare battle No. 1 between doctors and a government in power occurred in Saskatchewan in 1962, when the CCF government introduced the first comprehensive, universal and prepaid medical care insurance plan in Canada.

The second battle, calm now compared with what it was even one month ago, is a confrontation between doctors and the government of Premier Ed Schryer on the issue of community clinics.

The government refused to authorize construction of 200 new beds at Concordia Hospital, Winnipeg, because of long-range plans to turn the hospital into a community clinic.

The government and the doctors subsequently came to a compromise. Late last month, Schreyer announced that 132 beds would be added to the hospital in the first phase, and the second phase would be development of a community health centre.

Manitoba health department officials say the province's ratio of hospital beds is about 6.45 per 1,000 compared with about three per 1,000 in the United States as a whole. They say the situation in Manitoba is "at least 50 per cent over a reasonable ratio."

The provincial government now hopes to save hospital costs by introducing a system of community clinics, where patients would go for a wide range of health services. Last spring, it said there would be about 20 such clinics but after the collision with the doctors revised the figures to "five or six."

However, the most interesting development in respect of the community clinic concept now comes from the dean of UBC's medical school, who told the national medical manpower conference that many young doctors would not mind being paid a salary, instead of fee for service reimbursement, to work in such clinics.

(Fee for service is description of the existing payment system, under which a doctor bills medicare or the patient for each service rendered. The fee depends on the complexity of the procedure.)

McCreary said he did not think fee for service would or should entirely disappear but it is the greatest single obstacle to development of the community health centres. He noted that doctors and dentists are the only two groups of health workers paid that way.

"As long as this descrepancy prevails, there will be little opportunity to co-ordinate the groups of health professionals in the primary (health) care situation," he said.

(Primary health care is defined as first-contact care, or that which a patient receives in the doctors' office.)

Canada spends more on caring for persons in hospital than any other country and the reason for that, said McCready, is that a doctor is encouraged to treat patients there instead of elsewhere.

Manitoba hopes to collect at community clinics many patients who otherwise would be admitted to hospitals. The clinics would be staffed by salaried doctors.

The Manitoba Medical Association, which represents the province's fee for service doctors in negotiations with government, got the news from Dr. T. M. Tulchinksy, appointed associate deputy minister of health in that province last Aril.

Tulchinksy is married to the daughter of Tommy Douglas, former national leader of the NDP who, when premier of Saskatchewan, promised that province the medicare plan adopted in 1962.

McCreary, however, is not the first doctor from B.C. to present such strident arguments in favor of community clinics.

three-part series in the magazine Canadian Doctor that advocated such centres.

One of Foulkes' arguments was that something had to be done about the lack of quality control in medicine practised outside a hospital.

He quoted results of studies of doctors in Ontario and Nova Scotia that showed most had inadequate history-taking skills. In 50 per cent of the doctors' practices, urine was never microscopically examined.

Perhaps the most striking findings were the scores for sterile techniques. Ten per cent of the doctors sampled in Ontario and 46 per cent of the Nova Scotia sample were given zero for techniques that were grossly defective.

Foulkes also notes that patients who are seen in community clinics are prescribed fewer drugs and have fewer

McCreary

The lower surgical experience rates, says Foulkes, "may be due to the removal of the economic incentive to over-service by the use of salary or capitation reimbursement of the physician."

The New Westminster doctor also said existing fee for service practices can be controlled by a paying agency (such as the government-administered medicare plan) but it would require close supervision and the application of strict rules.

"Such an arrangement seems unlikely to have any real advantages over prepaid group practice with physician reimbursement on capitation or salary basis," writes Foulkes.

He also suggests that the philosophical basis for the community clinic style of health care cannot be ignored.

"There may, in fact, be a new motivation for practice in the organization described. Much of the effectiveness may be the result of physicians providing care in a setting that they feel is the right one."

Michener Visits

Pomp, Precision Display On Princess Pat's Day

A display of pomp, ceremony, and precision drill will take place at Work Point barracks Nov. 20 when the third Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry receives its colors from Governor-General Roland Michner.

A force's spokesman told a press conference Friday that although 2,000 invitations to the ceremony have been sent out, all Victoria area residents are welcome.

He said spectators are asked to park their cars at the Esquimalt Sports Centre parking lot and special buses will be available to take them to and from the barracks.

He advised that spectators should arrive between 1:30 and 2 p.m.

The governor-general is expected to arrive at 2:30 p.m.

The battalion was formerly the 1st Battalion of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada but was redesignated when the Queen's Own Rifles was removed from the forces' regular order of battle last year.

The colors to be presented will be the first carried by this battalion, because rifle regiments traditionally carry their battle honors emblazoned on their drums.

The presentation of the colors by the governor-general will be part of his Centennial 71 tour of the province from Nov. 18 to Nov. 24.

Governor-general and Mrs. Michener will arrive in Victoria Nov. 20 where they will be guests of Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson.

The vice-regal party will visit the B.C. Forest Products installations in Victoria Nov. 22. The following day it will tour Nanaimo and then go to Port Alberni to visit the MacMillan Bloedel mill.

Church Refuses To Denounce Aid

LONDON (AP) — The General Synod of the Church of England has refused to denounce cash aid given by the World Council of Churches to national liberation movements.

But the synod also declined to open a special account for contributions toward the fund.

A motion expressing regret at World Council grants to "groups openly committed to violence" was defeated 199 to 143 at a synod meeting this week.

Try our hot water heater for three months–free. We think it's that hot.

WHAT'S SO HOT?
The recovery rate. You get lots of hot water (75 gallons an hour) when you need it. And that's what a hot water heater is for, isn't it? To prove our point, we'll provide you with one rent-free for three months.

YES, IT'S BRAND NEW.
With a ten year tank warranty. It's compact, rust-proof, fully insulated and glass-lined. Installation of up to $80 is free too, whether you keep the heater or not.

WHY THIS OFFER?
Frankly, we want your business. And letting you try a water heater gives us a chance to prove we're better. There are no catches, just two conditions. Understandably, you must already have an oil-fired furnace, and, if you agree to try a water heater you contract to buy top quality Chevron Heating Fuel.

WHAT DO I DO TO KEEP IT?
Just tell us after the three months and you can arrange to lease or buy. Leasing works out as little as $4.13 a month. Or you can buy it over a period of ten years. But first, get one for your free trial.

Call your nearest Chevron Housewarmer for further details today, and get your family into lots of hot water. (This offer expires December 31, 1971).

Honest, we'd like to prove we're better

Working Group on Pollution

Sea Damage Rules Near

OTTAWA (CP) — A 42-nation working group on marine pollution Friday approved 23 basic principles outlining the responsibility of nations to prevent damage to the marine environment.

The approval by the Inter-Governmental Working Group on Marine Pollution, established to help prepare for the United Nations conference on the human environment in 1972, marked the first broad international agreement on how the seas should be preserved.

The principles, an elated Canadian delegate to the meeting said in a news conference, could form a firm foundation for the development of international environmental sea laws.

Among the principles hammered out in a five-day meeting which started Monday are:

- That coastal states which pollute should compensate states which are damaged by that pollution.
- That coastal states should be allowed to take "appropriate measures" to prevent environmental damage resulting from accidents on the high seas.

Fighting Flares in Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI) — American B52s pounded northern South Vietnam during the night and new fighting was reported northwest of Saigon early Saturday shortly after President Nixon announced speeded up U.S. troop withdrawals.

The U.S. command disclosed the end of American artillery bombardments into Cambodia Friday night. But spokesmen said Saturday U.S. B52s continued hammering the western end of the demilitarized zone along a Communist-built road and hit infiltration routes at the north end of the a Shau Valley for the eighth day in a row.

There was more fighting northwest of Saigon and residents of the capital itself reported seeing and hearing gunships strafe the swamps southeast of the city for the first time in nearly two years before dawn Saturday.

Sooke Water Debate

It's Back to Square One

Sooke residents, who succeeded in temporarily halting plans by the Greater Victoria Water Board to switch their supply source from Sooke Lake to Sooke River, now say they don't like the board's alternative either.

The alternative, announced Wednesday by water commissioner Ron Upward, was to build a dam and reservoir at Charters Creek, three miles north of Sooke.

Residents say they never asked for, and don't want a dam at Charters Creek; they want to continue getting their water from Sooke Lake via the present 17-mile concrete-and-wood pipeline, which brings the whole problem back to square one.

Here's the sequence of events leading up to the controversy that's expected to reach a climax at a meeting Tuesday between the board and Sooke residents:

- Recently, the board announced plans to switch the water supply source for about 750 Sooke residents from Sooke Lake to Sooke River on the grounds the pipeline now used is in bad shape, and might break down anytime.
- Residents concerned protested. The water from the river, they said, was dirty and polluted. They wanted to continue receiving their water from the lake by way of the pipeline.
- Following a public meeting, attended by more than 300 irate Sooke residents, the board announced earlier this week it has shelved plans to supply the Sooke homes with water from the river, pending further tests. Meanwhile, Upward said, the board was exploring an alternative — construction of the dam at Charters Creek which would result in a 12-million-gallon reservoir.
- But Howard Elder, Sooke representative on the Capital Regional Board and member of the Sooke Water Committee, said Friday the alternative isn't acceptable to residents.

"We don't want any big dams and we don't want water from the river," Elder told the Colonist.

"The present pipeline isn't in such a bad shape. I walked the entire 17 miles and inspected it carefully," Elder said.

The Charters Creek alternative, he said, would cost too much money and would also give Sooke residents "second-class water.

Meanwhile, Upward told a meeting of the board Friday that "an act of God or a storm" could damage the pipeline severely. The result, he said, would be that residents would be without water for perhaps several days.

But Elder said after the meeting this problem could be resolved by building a 600,000-gallon reservoir in Sooke, plans for which the board has prepared.

The suggestion that the board meet with the residents came from Oak Bay Mayor Frances Elford. She said she would like to hear from residents.

The water board is owned by Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay. The remaining areas served by the board buy their water from the board, but do not participate in board decisions.

Peninsula Players Offering Mixed

By BERT BINNY

After an unavoidable postponement of one week, the Peninsula Players opened their production of Fred Carmichael's Victoria's House Friday night to a full house in Sidney elementary school.

The production held the interest of that audience, due more to the work of Carmichael in writing a well-constructed play than to the work of the players in presenting it.

To much of the acting was unsubtle; too many of the players failed to plumb the depths of the characters they were portraying.

They all enjoyed bright interludes. The most consistently acceptable was Margaret Dixon as Victoria Bannister. Derek Peach as Neil Bannister seemed to be melodramatically obsessed with the notion that he was playing the villain.

Trisha Lawrence as Winnie gave a good performance but we would have liked something a bit more mysterious about Mrs. St. James, played by Gwen Gregorig. Mavis Edwards as Mrs. Case provided good characterization.

Victoria's House was directed by Joe Fenton, is an interesting play with a quite absorbing story and with the hazards of the first night over it may well run a lot more smoothly this evening.

'Leaven' from the East

Religion Being Revitalized

By GEORGE CORNELL,
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two spiritual leaders from India, pondering the Western religious landscape, are convinced that it is gradually being revitalized with "leaven" from the east.

"Millions of people in the West now are responding to Eastern thought," says Swami Ranganathananda, a monastic leader of the Hindu Ramakrishna order. "It's having a deepening influence."

This doesn't imply or necessitate any shift of Westerners away from Judeo-Christianity to Eastern faiths, he says, and adds:

"Once they've come through experience with Eastern ideas, they will find it makes their Christianity more real, that they understand their own religion better."

Muni Shri Chirabhanu, the first Jainist muni-saintly one to leave the soil of India, also says the newly-inspired directions are at work in the West which has become "sick with dogmatic religion."

"That's why it is turning toward the East," he says, adding that the tendency will bring it into a healthier state. "I'm quite hopeful about it."

The two Easterners, here for inter-religous conferences at Princeton Technological Seminary and at Harvard Divinity School, said in a joint interview that Western faiths are suffering from stifling formalism.

"It's a failure of Western religion to express itself in experiential terms," said Swami Ranganathananda, 63, a gentle, articulate man in saffron-hued mantle whose headquarters is in Belur Math near Calcutta.

As Jesus put it, the divine is "within you," the swami noted. He said this basic insight can be strengthened in Christianity through influence of a parallel emphasis in Eastern faiths.

"It can bring spiritual enrichment to the human personality and spritual growth," he said.

He said mankind is "moving away from formal religious institutionalism."

But at the same time, he added, "religion now is only beginning."

Because of the increasing interplay between Eastern and Western religious thought, and the economic-social developments, promising humanity more stable material existence, he said, "we can now, more than ever before, grow in the spiritual dimension."

Muni Chirabhanu, 49, of Bombay, a bearded teacher in white robes who is president of Jainism's Divine Knowledge Society, said Western religion needs a less dogmatic, more tolerantly inclusive view of faith, accepting the idea of "relativity."

"Everything in this world is relative — nothing is absolute," he said. "Truth has many aspects, and as we understand views other than our own, we come closer to its centre. Our senses are limited. We cannot see the whole simultaneously. We look only with one point of view — even at the side of a building.'

Synod Post-Mortems Differ By Cardinal, Archbishop

QUEBEC (CP) — A Canadian cardinal and archbishop held separate post-mortems Wednesday on the recent Roman Catholic synod of bishops in Rome, one taking a conservative position on results of the conference and the other coming out with a highly critical summation.

Maurice Cardinal Roy, archbishop of Quebec City, told a news conference here that decisions of the synod, which wound up five weeks of talks in the Vatican last Saturday, will be a source of "deception" for many priests and laymen.

Although the question of celibacy of the priesthood was not resolved, Roy said the synod permitted intensive communications among different dioceses on the administration of the faith.

He noted that the bishops' deliberations were strained as many "tried to discuss . . . the practical aspects of the priesthood and the life of priests in relation to their environment."

"But there were constant tensions between the practical approach and theologians who put the debate at an abstract level dealing with principles," he said.

In Ottawa, the archbishop of the capital city, Most. Rev. J. A. Plourde, criticized proceedings of the third synod, saying that the twice-yearly meeting had shown clearly the basic defects of the institution.

In a two-page critique, approved by Canadian delegates attending the 36-day conference, he cited several faults in the general structure of the synod.

He criticized the amount of time given to opening statements without provision for questions or rebuttals and the communication gap between workshop and the plenary assembly.

He called for greater representation and guidance between meetings and for the synod to have an active part in proceedings of the episcopal college which constitutes the highest authority in the church.

"The immediate entourage of the Pope should no longer be the curia, but the permanent synod representing the episcopal body," he said.

Plourde also called for the synod secretariat, which provides continuing representation, to be enlarged and that one-third of its membership elected each year by synod delegates.

Roy said Christians for too long have had a limited view of justice.

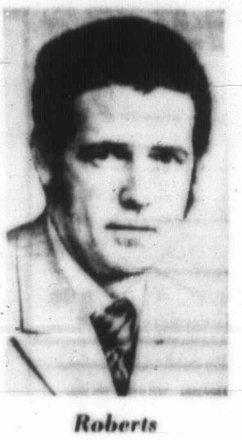
In a statement at the news conference, the cardinal called on Christians "with prudence and good sense" to work for the triumph of justice.

He said that, with this objective in mind, he had no objection to priests taking political action on the condition that such activity engaged only the priest himself and not the church as a whole.

Family Life Topics Planned by Doctor



Roberts
. . . about sleeping

A Saanich physician — Dr. Doug Roberts — who served in the navy as a medical adviser to Tanzania, will give a series of talks on family life, starting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Apostolic Church, 2303 Dowler Place (Queens and Blanshard).

What's so great about sleeping together? is the subject of the first talk.

There is no charge for the series and the public is invited to attend and to discuss questions arising from the talks.

Other subjects to be dealt with — Why do big boys like girls? Daddy, you're not boss around here. Why don't husbands come home? Please, Mommy, stop fighting with Daddy. Hey, Pop, what do you want to know about sex?

Beaton Rites Sunday

A memorial service will be held for Mary Beaton of Duncan at 3 p.m. Sunday in University Chapel at Quadra, 1095 Tolmie

Miss Beaton died in Cowichan District Hospital on Nov. 2. She was born in Vancouver in 1920 and attended school there. She graduated from UBC and took post-graduate work at the University of California at Berkeley.

She spent most of her life working with university students. She served with the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship in the U.S. from 1946 to 1954 and that year went to the Philippines, where she extended the work on university campuses.

She subsequently worked in Canada and the U.S. and in 1961 went to India to assist in growth work of the fellowship. She returned to Southern California in 1963 and came back to B.C. in 1966.

A Mary Beaton memorial fund has been set up. Donations may be sent to: Mary Beaton Memorial Fund, 745 Mt. Pleasant Road, Toronto 7, Ont.

Costa Rica Exchange Students

Youths Need Homes

Homes are being sought in the Victoria area for six boys from Costa Rica, aged 15 to 17, who are hoping to come to Vancouver Island for two months on the International Students' Exchange Program.

The program promotes cultural exchanges for youth in Mexico, Central America, Canada and the U.S. A legally constituted organization with a lay board of directors, its executive director is Very Rev. Placid Reitmeier, an American Benedictine in Mexico City.

The purpose of the program is to acquaint these young people with the actual values and truths of one another's cultures by means of a living experience as members of host families.

Mexican and Central American students have stayed in Victoria as guests of local families and Victoria students have also participated in the program.

Liona and Casey O'Gorman of 2904 Phyllis are volunteer workers on the program locally. They would like to hear from prospective hosts soon because the Costa Rican teenagers are ready to come by next Thursday. The O'Gormans can be reached at 477-2615.

African Witch Doctor 'Aided by Patients'

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The African witch doctor, despite some shortcomings, can make a valuable contribution to contemporary medical practice, according to an American medical missionary.

Dr. Franklin Donaldson, a United Church of Christ medical missionary on furlough from a Rhodesian hospital, said the witch doctor was effective in helping a patient "rejoin the human race."

"When we in the hospital gave Western medication, we helped our patients get well," Donaldson said. "Mr. Mundeta, working with the interpersonal dimension and with spiritual life, also aided the patients to get better.

"I observed clearly, dramatic drops in blood pressure in patients who had come with very elevated levels — sometimes three or four patients in one week — as a result of Mr. Mundeta's work," Donaldson said.

JEWS HELP OUT

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — A year ago Albert Rosen, a Jew, volunteered to work Christmas Eve for a Christian who wanted the night off. He says he will work Christmas night this year.

Rosen filled in for a Christian bartender last Christmas Eve and says he'll sub for a radio disc jockey this year so the man can spend the holiday with his family.

Last year some of Rosen's Jewish friends accepted other offers and the movement went nationwide as Jews around the country volunteered their services.

However, Rosen's plans ran into a snag this year. The Jewish sabbath starts at sundown on Christmas Eve and continues until sundown on Christmas day.

"I don't want to let this fall by the wayside after just one year,'' he said, explaining that he would only be able to work Christmas night. "And I hope many others of my fellow Jews will participate again. We can all work after 5 p.m. Christmas night."

Publicity Man Selected

A Vancouver man has been named to head publicity for the Christian Science Church in British Columbia.

He is William Hamilton Hill, a graduate of University of Kings College, Halifax, who succeeds Edward Rand of Vancouver.

Hill has served as member of the Vancouver Board of Trade, as president of the Western Office Furniture Association and president of Pacific Office Interiors Ltd.

He will represent his church in relation with public officials, news media and other groups in the province.

Hill has served as First Reader and chairman of the board of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Vancouver.

Life Expectancy Raised

Retirements Beneficial To Bishops

By GEORGE CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — American Roman Catholic bishops are, in most cases, going along with a new church policy of retiring from office at the age of 75. It is intended for the good of the church. It also seems to be good for them.

They're living longer.

"The average length of their lives has been going up recently since the change," said Bishop Francis Leipzig, 76, the retired bishop of Baker, Ore., and an expert on episcopal longevity.

Since the church's origins in the United States, the average age to which Roman Catholic bishops have lived is 69. But the figure started going up for the first time in 1968, averaging about 74 since then, although many bishops live far beyond that.

It was in 1966 that Pope Paul introduced the new retirement practice into the church, requesting that bishops offer their resignations at 75, except in special circumstances mitigating against it.

Since then, in steady succession, 38 American bishops have stepped out of office, turning over their jobs to younger men.

Prior to the new policy, bishops ordinarily kept their posts until the end, often into their 80s, sometimes beyond that, although Bishop Leipzig notes there have been occasional retirements throughout the church's American history.

Although most bishops have conformed to the new practice, a few have stayed on beyond the 75-year level, but in some cases, the Pope may delay accepting resignations because of particular circumstances.

Also, it is not formally required that bishops submit them at 75 — the Pope only requested it, leaving room for flexibility in various situations.

He himself reaches 75 a year hence, with recurring speculation over whether he will take his own advice and quit then.

At present, the Catholic Almanac shows there are 12 bishops still in office in the United States at 75 or beyond. Four are 76, three of whom will be 77 by the year's end, and three are older than that.

Bible Date Tuesday

A Bible-science lecture will be given at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Hope Lutheran Church, 1924 Carrick, off Foul Bay Road, by Rev. Walter Lang of Caldwell, Idaho, executive director of Bible Science Association, an interdenominational society which seeks to show that science and the Bible do not contradict each other.

Scripture Dates Picked Out

The Canadian Bible Society has designated the period from Nov. 1 to Christmas as a special period for the promotion of daily reading of the scriptures.

A pamphlet outlining a list of daily Bible readings is available free of charge from any office of the Canadian Bible Society.

Rev. A. J. C. Johnson of the Lutheran Church of The Cross, who is chairman of the Victoria branch of the society, said the pamphlets are available here from Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Martens who conduct a religious supply centre at their home, 1298 Montrose, phone 383-3432.

Bible Sunday, the second Sunday in Advent, falls on Dec. 5 in the midst of the period of special promotion of scripture reading.

Service Includes Sign Language

An invitation has been extended to profoundly deaf persons in Victoria to attend a special service in connection with the family service in Emmanuel Baptist Church at 9:30 a.m. Sunday.

It will be a shared worship service, Rev. Donald Hume of the Vancouver Church for the Deaf, said this week.

He said he hoped it would be possible to arrange for regular services for the deaf in Victoria.

At Sunday's service, Hume will interpret all of the service to the deaf people in sign language with the exception of the hymns which will be signed by a deaf choir to the deaf congregation.

The deaf choir will sign the anthems which will be played on records.

Fifth Recital Wednesday

The fifth of seven recitals will be given at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in St. John's Anglican Church, Quadra and Mason, by Suzanne Gibson and Fred Carter, both of whom are organists and harpsichordists.

TERMS OF PUBLICATIONS

The Victoria Press Ltd. shall not be liable for non-insertion of any advertisement beyond the amount paid for such advertisement.

In the event of an error occurring the liability of Victoria Press Ltd. shall not exceed the charge for the space actually occupied by the item in question.

All claims on error in publication shall be made within 12 hours thereafter and if not made shall not be considered. No claim will be allowed for more than one incorrect insertion nor for errors not affecting the value of the advertisement.

All estimates of cost are approximate. Advertisers will be charged with space actually used.

All advertising copy will be subject to the approval of the Victoria Press Ltd., who reserve the right in its sole discretion to classify, reject or insert copy furnished.

Advertisements must comply with the British Columbia Human Rights Act which prohibits any advertising that discriminates against any person because of his race, religion, sex, color, nationality, ancestry or place of origin, or because his age is between 44 and 65 years, unless the condition is justified by a bona fide requirement for the work involved.

While every endeavor will be made to forward replies to box numbers to the advertiser as soon as possible, we accept no liability in respect of loss or damage alleged to arise through either failure or delay in forwarding such replies, however caused, whether by negligence or otherwise.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from our many relatives and friends in the loss of our dear husband and father, Robert A. Stancil. We would especially like to thank Drs. R. Spicer, G. A. Grebneff, F. A. Perera, R. N. Grant and Bassett (intern), Emergency. Also the wonderful staff of the Emergency Ward and the C.C.U. of St. Joseph's Hospital. Mrs. B. Smith, who did so much to comfort us. The Victoria City Police and Garden City Ambulance. A special thanks to the Pallbearers, the Rev. Canon R. Willis and McCall Bros. — Mrs. Lillian Stancil and Barbara.

Sincere kindness and sympathy bring consolation in a time of sorrow. The many helpful acts, flowers, cards and understanding of relatives and friends after the sudden loss of my dear husband, Bob, will long be remembered. I can only say thank you. — Mrs. R. H. Barker and families.

Carl Mortensen and family wish to thank all the friends and neighbors who sent the comforting cards to us after the death of our mother and wife, Helen Mortensen.

9 IN MEMORIAM

1 Cor.—13th, V.12.
"For now we see through a glass darkly,
But thou face to face."
—Valerie.

FANTHORPE—In loving memory of my dear mother, Isabel, who passed away November 13, 1956.
I do not forget her, I love her too dearly
For her memory to fade from my life like a dream;
My lips need not speak when my heart mourns sincerely;

RANDALL — In loving memory of Robert W. (Bob), November 12, 1970.

Something missing everywhere.
Life goes on, I know that's true,
But not the same since we lost you.
Till we meet again.
—Harry.

A cheery smile, a heart of gold,
She suffered much but never told,
'Til God above knew what was best,
— Life's greatest remembrance, Pat, Bob, Bill, Robbie and Cheryl.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Thursday's answer — The bureau marked that special day with war movies, such as Battle Cry, Attack, Caine Mutiny and Young Lions from the Second World War and Fighting 69th and Sgt. York from the first. I wish war was confined to the screen.

C-5:00—NHL hockey, Vancouver at Toronto—2, 6.

Saturday Movies

2:00—Deadly Mantis (1957 monsters), Craig Stevens. If you have to see a movie now, this is as funny as any—7.

3:00—Bullet Code (1940 western, most routine)—2.

C-4:30—The Cool Ones (rotten 1967 rock drama), Roddy McDowall, Phil Harris. I can think of nothing to say about it that's as bad as it is—5.

6:00—Dog Days, with Lady in the Death House (1944) at 6, Seven Doors to Death (1942) at 7:15 and Girl from Monterey (1943) at 8:45. There really isn't anything great until tonight—13.

C-8:30—Duel (new driver-vs.-trucker drama), Dennis Weaver. A suspense film which could be good—4.

C-8:30—Anzio (fair 1968 war action), Peter Falk, Robert Mitchum, Robert Ryan. Longest Day is due Sunday; wait for it—6.

C-9:00—War Wagon (1967 John Wayne). Also Kirk Douglas, Robert Stack, Peter Graves and lots more, but only so-so—5, 8.

C-9:00—Khartoum (wooden 1966 Africa "history"). Olivier makes it come to life but Charlton Heston puts it back to sleep—12.

C-11:15—Godzilla vs. the Thing (1964 horror-dubber)—7.

C-11:20—War Wagon (see 9:00)—6.

C-11:30—The McGregors (1966 western dubber)—8.

C-12:00—The VIPs (1963 troubled-people drama), Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton, Maggie Smith and many more, with Margaret Rutherford stealing what is mostly a dull show—12.

Saturday Radio

● 1:00 p.m.—Opener of the best-of-three western Canadian football final, at Calgary—CJVI (900).

3:00—Opera Time: Tchaikovsky's Maid of Orleans—CBU (690).

6:00—Hot Air is mainly about the tragic Mary Ann McCall—CBU.

7:00—A Toronto orchestra concert, with Henryk Szeryng and the Beethoven violin concerto—CBU.

8:05—Gala: Offenbach music—CFMS (98.5).

11:00—Canadian Portraits visits Lunenberg, N.S.—CBU.

Sunday Highlights

C-5:00 p.m.—Two opposing specials for children: a repeat of the Prince Street Players' Jack and the Beanstalk on Channel 5 and a new hour Robin Hood cartoon on Channels 7 and 12.

C-9:00—Sunday at Nine presents McLeish's Wild Horse, an adventure-drama—2, 6.

● C-9:00—Masterpiece Theatre stars Edith Evans in Dostoyevsky's The Gambler. First of two parts—9.

Sunday Sport

C-10:00 a.m.—NFL football, Baltimore at New York Jets—5.

C-10:00—NFL, Los Angeles at Detroit—7, 12.

● C-11:00—First game of the two-game, total-point eastern Canadian football final—2, 6.

C-1:00 p.m.—NFL, Cleveland at Kansas City—5.

Sunday Movies

1:30 p.m.—Voice in the Mirror (so-so 1958 anti-alcoholism), Richard Egan, Julie London, Walter Matthau. It's no Lost Weekend—7.

2:00—This Land Is Mine (1943 Nazis in Norway), Charles Laughton, Maureen O'Hara. Straight propaganda, but well acted—2.

2:00—Doctor in Distress (1964 Dirk Bogarde)—12.

3:30—Tarzan Finds a Son (1939 Weissmuller)—7.

● C-3:30—Quiet Man (1952 John Ford Irish-comedy classic), John Wayne, Maureen O'Hara, Victor McLaglen and the finest supporting cast in history. For all the family, and a joy to each one—11.

C-6:00—Houseboat (fairish 1958 romanticomedy), Cary Grant, Sophia Loren. Might as well save your eyes for Longest Day—11.

C-7:30—Anzio (so-so 1968 war action), Robert Mitchum, Peter Falk—7.

● C-8:00—Longest Day (1962 D-Day spectacular), 42 stars. Very long, and recommended mainly because of its sheer size—4.

C-9:00—Guns for San Sebastian (1968 action-suspense, mainly routine), Anthony Quinn, Charles Bronson—12.

● 11:50—Separate Tables (1957 lonely-folk drama). Superb acting by David Niven, Deborah Kerr, Wendy Hiller. Also with Burt Lancaster and Rita Hayworth—2.

C-12:00—Benny Goodman Story (1955 Steve Allen disaster). Turn up the sound only when the band's playing—7.

C-12:15—Fair Wind to Java (1953 adventure), Fred MacMurray. Had the producer used my rating system, it would be Awful Wind to Java—4.

Sunday Radio

2:00 p.m.—Choral Concert: Beethoven's Missa Solemnis—CBU-FM (105.7).

4:00—NHL, Montreal at Buffalo—CBU (690).

● 5:05—Remember When brings back the first Big Show with Tallulah Bankhead, Fred Allen. It was the last big network show—CJVI (900).

● 6:30—First of the 1971 Bayreuth Festival operas on CBC this season is Lohengrin—CBU-FM.

8:05—Gala: Schumann's third symphony—CFMS (98.5).

11:00—The CBC's Remember When recalls the Ziegfeld Follies, born in 1908, died in 1931—CBU.

● Recommended; C—Color.

Opening lead: Jack of hearts.

Trump Coup Charlie, despite his almost legendary skill at trump contracts, seemed quite unable to excel at any other aspect of bridge. His was at best mediocre, and more often it was simply awful.

Take this deal, which came up at the club late one night. Most players would speedily bid the hand to the proper contract of six no-trump and make it. Charlie, however, landed at seven spades when, for some totally obscure reason, he elected to bid the suit in the sequence shown.

When the dummy went the onlookers felt sure Charlie was at last due to be knocked off his perch, but Charlie was lion-hearted. He won the heart opening as if he hadn't a care in the world and took three rounds of clubs, ruffing.

He cashed the A-K-Q of Diamonds and a second heart, then led a low heart. West ruffed with the nine and dummy overruffed with the queen.

Everyone was down to four cards and each defender had three trumps, while Charlie had two in each hand. He ruffed a diamond with the jack and led another heart. This time West ruffed low and dummy overruffed with the seven.

Charlie then crossruffed the last two tricks with the A-K of trumps, the defenders, to their intense annoyance, underruffing each time. Thus Charlie became the first player in the history of the club to make a grand slam with three trumps in each hand.

IT'S AN EXPERIMENT!
IT'S AN EXPERIMENT!!
IT'S AN EXPERIMENT!!!

What is? This advertizement is, that's what is! The experiment is two-fold. ONE, to see if there's a home, or lot, or revenue property herein which will be answer to your dreams, and TWO, to see if you're REALLY INTERESTED ENOUGH IN FULFILLING YOUR DREAM TO READ ALL THE WAY THROUGH AND FIND OUT! For yourself! Ready? Set? Then let's go! How about a cosy-suite-living, plus-good-revenue, triplex . . . near sea, park, and town . . . spotless . . . excellent condition . . . full price only $24,950. Not quite right? Then try this: fine, modern, 3-bedroom, family home, on very large north Quadra lot, with ADDED BONUS of separate-entrance revenue suite renting for $100-mo! It's a have-your-cake-and-eat-it, bargain at $25,900! Call Dick Batey, 592-4607 or 386-1361, and I'll serve up a viewing! Like living-space, and super-convenience, but don't like gardening (much)? So here's a spotless, as-new, 4-bedrooms, 2-bathroom beauty on Shelbourne near shopping, university, schools . . . and only $25,950! Want something better? With a spectacular view? With 5 BR's, 3 bathrooms? 30' rec room? Sun-deck? And top-drawer quality and condition? No problem! Call me about a $49,500 Cordova Heights opportunity? Dick Batey, 592-4607 or 386-1361. Still better, you say? And waterfront to boot? Presto! No problem! Two lovely Landsenders . . . one at $55,000; the other at $97,500; and both worth every cent! Both have a lovely-acre of land with private waterfront; the 55-er has 3 BR's, 2 bathrooms; the 97.5-er is ultimate luxury-crafted and has EVERYTHING, including, if you please, a full, lower, ground-level luxury-living suite! Call me for details! Still with me? But not yet found yours? So how about a lot? Say a superb virgin-timbered, near-sea-and-marinas, paved cul-de-sac, sewered, Sidney prime, prime, one . . . V.L.A.-sized . . . for $10,650? Or an unparallelled rock-headland matchless-view Landsend-acre, secluded yet convenient, and very, very, unique, for only $29,500? Remember the name and number to call? DICK BATEY, 592-4607 or 386-1361. But perhaps . . . just perhaps . . . and it will depend on your personal preferences . . . I've saved the best twosome for the tag-end! One is a virtually new, timbered, children-in-mind-designed, spacious, and distinctive, Broadmead home . . . with 5 BR's, sufficient bathrooms, rec room, inn-style L.R., separate Dr., and feed-a-family kitchen. A genuine Broadmead bargain at $44,950. T'other is a sort of close-in-small-ranch, acreage-with-two-homes-many trees-orchard-and-outbuildings, affair. Unbelievably close in (3½ mile circle) near University and a living-and-holding chance not to be missed if you can wangle it! Price? With almost 11 acres, less than $9600 per acre? There, see? you made it! All the way thru, that is! So call me if any, here, click, and call me if they don't . . . maybe I'll find you one that will! Click. I meant DICK BATEY, 592-4607 or 386-1361!

1—A PRIME COUNTRY PROPERTY
16 miles from Victoria centre. 10.4 acres situated 300 yards from, and overlooking, the sunny sheltered Saanich inlet. This property is being operated as a bulb farm, but is actually a registered subdivision of 13 lots, averaging ¾ acre a piece. There is a comfortable older two-storey farm home with 1700 sq. ft. on the main floor, and two rented cottages. The buildings are ringed with healthy fruit trees and evergreens. It is difficult to find view property in North Saanich on a par with these Ardmore lots but a comparison of prices will show this parcel to have sound value at an asking price of $125,000. A syndicate purchase is suggested, either for holding or for an immediate prestige development.

2—150 SANDY BEACH
On Saanich inlet, facing south and west. Modern home, 4 bedrooms, 3 bathrooms, 2 fireplaces. $73,000.

Where else can you find a renovated 3-br. home with a magnificent seaview — at this price? This home is located in the village of Qualicum close to the stores and community facilities. This kind of home does not appear on the market very often. So, don't kick yourself for not viewing this bargain buy before someone snaps it up. Act quickly!
LOOKING FOR A QUIET SPOT?
We have just listed a very special 3-4 br. home in Parksville. Set off from city streets by a private road, this home combines the serenity of country living with the convenience of living in the city. The exterior of the house has just been re-finished with stucco. There is 1350 sq. ft. of living area with a 20'x13' living room. The house features an unusually large five-piece vanity bathroom. This home is ideally suited to a large family that desires to live in the Parksville area but cannot afford an expensive home. Reasonably priced at $16,000 with $4,000 down (or $14,000 cash), this home will not be on the market long. Drop in the office or give us a call. We will be happy to show you this extraordinary buy.
For details call or write George Geraghty or Ross Harvey (eves. 748-6968 or 748-6279).

CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF ESQUIMALT
NOTICE OF MUNICIPAL ELECTION

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given to the electors of the Municipality of Esquimalt that I require the presence of the said Electors at the Municipal Hall, 1229 Esquimalt Road, Esquimalt, British Columbia, on MONDAY, the twenty-ninth (29th) day of NOVEMBER, 1971, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon for the purpose of electing persons to represent them as:

(1) MAYOR — Two-Year Term
(2) ALDERMEN: Three (3), Two-Year Term.

THE MODE OF NOMINATION OF CANDIDATES SHALL BE AS FOLLOWS:

Candidates shall be nominated in writing by two duly qualified electors of the Municipality. The nomination paper shall be delivered to the Returning Officer at any time between the date of this notice and noon of the day of nomination. The nomination paper may be in the form prescribed in the "Municipal Act", and shall state the name, residence and occupation of the person nominated in such manner as to sufficiently identify such candidate. The nomination paper shall be subscribed to by the candidate.

In the event of a Poll being necessary, such Poll shall be opened at the Municipal Hall, 1229 Esquimalt Road, Esquimalt, British Columbia, on SATURDAY, the eleventh (11th) day of DECEMBER, 1971, between the hours of EIGHT O'CLOCK A.M. and EIGHT O'CLOCK P.M. and an ADVANCED POLL shall be opened at the aforesaid place on THURSDAY and FRIDAY, DECEMBER ninth (9th) and tenth (10th), 1971, between the hours of NINE O'CLOCK A.M. and FIVE O'CLOCK P.M. at which the only persons who will be permitted to vote are those who, being qualified electors, sign a statement that:

of which every person is hereby required to take notice and govern himself accordingly.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND at Esquimalt, British Columbia, this 12th day of November, A.D. 1971.

M. W. E. Allen,
Returning Officer.

NOTICE

The following alterations to tariffs, Time Schedules and Routing have been submitted to the Public Utilities Commission.

SOOKE STAGES LTD. Public Passenger Tariff No. 1, which adjusts zone limits, boundaries and corresponding fares. This is not an application for a general rate increase.

SOOKE STAGES LTD. Charter Tariff No. 2, which represents an increase in charges for charter services to reflect the continuing higher costs of charter operations and the improved quality of equipment now available from this company. This also reflects the necessity to offset Public Passenger losses with revenue from other sources.

SOOKE STAGES LTD. Express Tariff No. 3, which represents an increase in charges for express handled on passenger stages to offset substantially increased handling charges levied by connecting carriers, as well as continually increasing bookkeeping costs associated with express handling.

SOOKE STAGES LTD. Public Passenger Time Schedule No. 4, which reflects changing demands in our service areas for bus service. This schedule provides more frequent bus service between Victoria and Langford via direct routes. It also provides for reduced service along Metchosin and Happy Valley Roads and [illegible] service to Latoria Road, due to lack of patronage, which has continued to decline despite the use of new and improved equipment. Buses serving these areas will now be routed through [illegible] [illegible] of Latoria Road [illegible] Road will be [illegible] [illegible] Kelly Road. There will be no change in services to Sooke.

All of the above are SUBJECT TO THE CONSENT OF THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION. Complete details of these changes are available from Sooke Stages office, on request, [illegible] Island Highway, Victoria, or Box 730 Victoria. Telephone 478-[illegible]. Any objection may be filed with THE SUPERINTENDENT OF MOTOR CARRIERS, PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION, 1740 WEST GEORGIA STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C. Objections must be received by the Superintendent by December 2nd, 1971. Persons filing objections should also file their objection with SOOKE STAGES LTD.

Chemainus Mill Not Affected By Clocks Order

CHEMAINUS — The recent announcement by MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. that it intends to eliminate time clocks at its British Columbia operations did not surprise mill management or workers of the company's Chemainus sawmill division.

There most time clocks went out in early 1969, according to personnel supervisor Gordon Swanson.

He said at one time there were four time clocks at the mill. Only one — "Clock No. 3" — is used now by weekend and casual employees.

Second vice-president of Local 1-80, IWA, Jack Munro said:

"We maintain that time clocks are an 18th century method. It is just another hangover from the master-servant-relationship."

NOTICE OF INQUIRY

Take notice that, pursuant to Section 14 of the Pollution Control Act, 1967, the Director of the Pollution Control Branch will hold a public inquiry commencing at 9:30 a.m. on May 2nd, 1972 in the auditorium of the B.C. Research Council Building, 3650 Wesbrook Crescent, Vancouver, B.C.

The Inquiry is being held to consider the technical matters bearing upon and to determine the measures which must be adopted by the chemical and petroleum industries in British Columbia for the control of discharges to water and/or land and/or air to satisfactorily ensure pollution will not be caused in accordance with the Pollution Control Act, 1967.

Written submissions are to be received by the undersigned (in ten copies) on or before March 15, 1972, and are invited from persons or organizations proposing to attend this Inquiry.

As provided in the Pollution Control Act, 1967, the Director will determine his own procedures for the Inquiry and this may require the giving of additional evidence under oath by anyone who has made a submission in accordance with this notice. Only evidence pertaining to matters of a technical nature relevant to the Inquiry and falling within the intent of the Pollution Control Act, 1967 may be presented at the Inquiry.

An Information Sheet elaborating upon the terms of reference and procedures to assist interested parties in the preparation and submission of briefs for the Inquiry is available upon request from the undersigned.

Students, Duncan Trustees To Meet

DUNCAN — Duncan Students' Action Committee will send a delegation to the next meeting of the Duncan school board — Monday at 8:00 p.m.

David Mitchell, president of the student group, said that in addition to himself, Debbie Robertson, Marlene Goley, Heather Bronson and Bob McKinnie will comprise the delegation to meet with the school board.

The students recently issued an open letter to the Duncan board protesting its action in attempting to opt out of its obligation to remain as a participant in Malaspina College.

G. F. Dyson, secretary-treasurer of the Duncan school board, has advised Mitchell that the board will receive the delegation Monday.

Mitchell also said that his committee is planning to send representatives to the North Cowichan Ratepayers Association meeting scheduled for Tuesday at the South End firehall in Duncan.

Mitchell said that no written brief would be presented at either meeting.

Discussion Series Continues

A series of Sunday evening discussions is being held at 7 p.m. in Centennial United Church. This Sunday's topic is Birth Control — Disease Control — Why Not Death Control?

A panel will discuss the title and the question — Should we officially prolong human life?

Panel members will be Dr. Gordon Lott, surgeon; Rev. John Lancaster of Christ Church Anglican Cathedral; R. D. Wilson, lawyer, and an insurance consultant, not named.

The discussions will take place in the lower hall of the church.

Dr. John Wood, psychiatrist, of the Saanich mental health clinic, will speak the following Sunday on Violence and Our Society.

Skiing Star Recovering From Illness

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP) — Shirley Firth, Canada's main hope in cross-country skiing for the 1972 Olympics, is "doing very well" in her recovery from hepatitis contracted two weeks ago.

"She continues to improve," a spokesman at Inuvik General Hospital said Friday, "and she's even had a little bit of exercise."

He said the 19-year-old Loucheux Indian girl — whose twin sister, Sharon, also is a top skier — would be allowed to continue regular exercises "providing it doesn't affect the condition of her liver."

Fraud Trial Postponed

Judge Was Ready, But Nobody Came

The trial of Walter Frank Large on a three-count charge involving a fraud of $1 million was postponed indefinitely in Victoria County Court Friday when neither Large, his lawyer nor the crown lawyer turned up.

The court will write to the two lawyers involved, both from Vancouver, to set a new date for the trial to begin.

Large, of 4230 Glendenning, Saanich, was charged Aug. 18, 1970, jointly with another person, on three counts all involving the Victoria-based B.C. public company Datatech Systems Ltd. of which the two were former directors.

The first count charged that a false prospectus was issued concerning the Datatech firm March 1, 1969, in Victoria and elsewhere in B.C.

The second count charged the two with defrauding Gairdner and Co. Ltd. of $1 million "in respect to an agreement for the purchase by Gairdner and Co. Ltd. of 200,000 shares of Datatech."

That count mentioned the dates Sept. 1, 1968, to Feb. 2, 1969, at Victoria and other places in B.C.

The third count charged the two with the theft of a sum of more than $50 belonging to Datatech "on or about Jan. 30, 1969."

After a 14-day preliminary hearing in Victoria Provincial Court in December, February and May, the charges against the other person were stayed.

Friday morning the court was ready for the trial to begin, including having the 12 volumes of preliminary hearing transcript and more than 500 exhibits entered at the hearing in the courtroom.

But half an hour after the trial was scheduled to begin, there was no sign of Large, crown counsel Ray Paris, or defence counsel Boyd Ferris.

Large has been free on $1,000 bail.

Normally if an accused who is on bail does not show up for his trial, the judge issues a bench warrant for his arrest on the grounds of his non-appearance.

But court sources explained that Judge M. L. T. Drake could not do that in this case, because the crown counsel had not yet given them an indictment under which Large was charged.

Thieves Hungry?

Thieves chose Remembrance Day evening for three burlaries in Victoria, two of them eating establishments.

Police said Mrs. Mary Gauti, owner of the Blue Plate Cafe at 1308 Government reported an overnight break-in through the rear door, and the theft of $1 in coins, a case of 7-Up and a case of orange soft drink.

An overnight break-in was reported at the Seafair Fish and Chips, 1951 Oak Bay Avenue. The cigarette machine was forced and $75 taken, police were told.

Expert Praises Breathalyser

"I thoroughly believe this instrument to be accurate," a Victoria expert on Canada's official breath-analysis machine said Friday in Victoria Provincial Court.

Bernard Brennan, an identification officer with the Victoria police force, was called by prosecutor Peter Birkett in a case in which defence lawyer Dermod Owen-Flood is attacking the Borkenstein Breathalyser as unreliable.

Brennan testified he did not believe the machine could be subject to random error regularly and added he has found in using the machine more than eight years that it has a maximum positive error of .01 per cent on the high side and .03 per cent on the low side.

The trial continued Friday after testimony Oct. 20 and 21 before Judge E. F. N. Robinson, when leading B.C. pathologist Dr. Kenneth Thornton said the machine was inadequate for several reasons.

These included random errors, power surges, possibility of dirt in the machine, the medical condition of the accused — in Pashley's case, a diabetic condition — and several complex medical arguments.

Brennan gave answers to most of these as he occupied the stand most of Friday. Robinson then called Thornton back to discuss his random-error theory and also his comparisons of blood-alcohol and blood-acetone, the latter discharged in large quantities in diabetics.

The case was adjourned to Monday morning for prosecution and defence arguments. Since a defeat for the prosecution could affect use of the Borkenstein machine across Canada, Robinson is expected to remand the case for a week or so for judgment.

Student Service Expands

The student help centre is being planned to provide a place where students may get help to improve their study skills. They will learn how to complete assignments and get help in learning to carry out research.

The faculty of the community college will provide the help.

The student placement bureau is being established with the co-operation of Canada Manpower and will provide a co-ordinating centre for the provision of information about employment chances, actual placement of students in jobs, and study of vocational and employment information.

'Women First To Be Fired'

Group To Fight Discrimination

By NANCY BROWN
Colonist Reporter

A women's action group to investigate complaints of discrimination against women and to coordinate activities is in the making in Victora.

The group should emerge today as a final act of a two-day seminar on the recommendations of the Status of Women royal commission report, being held in the Elliott Building at the University of Victoria.

Featured speaker will be Rosemary Brown of Vancouver, ombudsman for the Status of Women Action Coordinating Council there, whose address at 9 a.m. today will start an eight-hour discussion of the situation in Victoria.

She told the Colonist Friday that she expects a co-ordinating council similar to the Vancouver SWACC will be organized at the meeting.

A counsellor at University of British Columbia, Mrs. Brown said Friday that she thinks she has always worked in a political sense for human rights — her work for women is a voluntary occupation.

"My earliest memory is at 5 or 6 being taken by my grandmother to a meeting where the demand was for universal suffrage in Jamaica

"I don't think I've stopped being politically conscious since then."

As ombudsman she deals with the problems of women who feel they have been discriminated against because of sex.

Most of the problems, says Mrs. Brown, stem from financial needs of women.

"The majority of poor people in this country are women — especially those who are heads of families," she said.

"If they can't get a job because of discrimination, or if they are fired as a discriminatory thing it is a real tragedy and they — and their children — end up in severe financial straits," he said.

"Women, particularly married women, are the first to be fired when there are cutbacks in staff," said Mrs. Brown.

"Sometimes employers say that this is because they feel married women who are working are just supplementing the family income, but all the complaints I have handled have come from women who are the sole support of families, so this doesn't hold water.

"Then I'm told that the employers don't want to fire a man because it upsets his dignity if he has to go onto social assistance — what do they think it does to a woman?"

Complaints have also come in from women denied mortgages simply because they were women.

However, said Mrs. Brown, it is hoped that there will be some let up in this problem now that Central Mortgage and Housing will accept women for mortgages," she said.

"We're hoping that private trust companies and banks will follow suit once women are able to show their responsibility."

"Married women in particular are the losers in the credit game.

"As soon as a woman gets married she becomes a credit risk — she becomes, in fact, a non-person because banks, department stores and such organizations want any credit accounts in the husband's name."

Mrs. Brown sees pay for the housewife and more recognition of her role as one way out of the discrimination mess.

At the moment women themselves — especially those who are full-time housewives are amongst the enemies of the independent woman.

"They feel insecure because no one recognizes the value of the work they do, and so they resent women who go outside the home to work," said Mrs. Brown.

"The woman who stays at home has no pay, no unemployment insurance, no public recognition — and yet there are 3½ million housewives in this country," she said.

"We need education to help understand the role that these women play, and to help them understand the role other women play."

Education, she feels, is probably the basic key to prevention of discrimination.

"There are so many things that laws won't stop — there are many ways to rationalize actions so they can't be proved to be discriminatory."

But, she says, education remains in the Elizabethan era, with boys and girls segregated to their separate and acceptable roles with the girls headed for the minor roles as secretaries and other helping jobs, and the boys looking for the professions.

"Few working women today are in the professional field," said Mrs. Brown.

"Most of the women who work are at tasks they don't like — hard physical roles such as housework, waiting on tables and practical nursing — they wouldn't work if they didn't have to, and yet they have low pay, little or no job security, and are first fired in staff cutbacks."

The seminar which opened Friday night will continue through today with an address by Mrs. Brown, followed by group discussion of main areas of concern, and a strategy-planning session.

Alice Harper Helped Poor

Alice Harper, the woman who worked with and operated Victoria's free food stall for 17 years, died Thursday in hospital at the age of 83.

Mrs. Harper, who was named 1962 citizen of the year by Victoria Post No. 1, Native Sons of British Columbia, also was the recipient of the 1858-1958 B.C. Centennial medal for outstanding community service, the Canadian Confederation Centennial medal and the Canadian Pioneer medal.

Mrs. Harper of 1300 Yates is survived by her husband, Edward; son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harper of Long Beach, Calif.; two grandsons and four great-great-grandchildren; a brother, H. Gray of Parksville; sister, Mrs. E. M. Williams of Vancouver and Mrs. C. J. Hughes of Fresno, Calif.

Praying for Miracle —For Third Victim

SALISBURY, Mass. (UPI) — "There's nothing I can do. I just sit and wait and pray for a miracle."

Mrs. Mary Kay Nugent's voice cracked as she spoke. She was talking about her son, Billy, 2, the third of her children to contract leukemia. The two others died.

"It was bad enough once," she said, "but I accepted it. Then it happened twice. And now this third time is unbearable.

"I never thought it would happen."

The Nugents, who live in Salisbury Beach, a resort community on the coast near the New Hampshire border, have three other children, a 20-year-old daughter and sons 12 and 3.

Doctors have been unable to explain the leukemia because both she and her husband David, a laborer, have healthy blood, she said. There also is no family history of blood diseases, she added.

And what about the costly expenses — already compiled and yet to come — for Billy? Mrs. Nugent said insurance companies, cautious because of the two earlier, leukemia deaths in the family, declined to give the Nugents' health insurance.

A spokesman for Massachusetts Blue Cross-Blue Shield, when informed of the situation, said the company would look into the case and the possibility of a waiver to help offset the heavy bills.

"We would be graeteful for any assistance at all," Mrs. Nugent said.

Billy never knew his two sisters who died of the same disease that is slowly eating away his life, his mother said. One girl died 15 years ago at the age of 3 while the other died sveen yaers ago. She was 2.

Billy is undergoing treatment at Children's Hospital medical center in Boston. Mrs. Nugent said blood donors could give in her son's name at the hospital.

"It's going to be a battle, financialy and emotionally," she added.

Furniture Price Matters Little

MONTREAL (CP) — A survey completed by the University of Sherbrooke's business administration school during the recent Montreal Furniture Market indicates young, married French-Canadian couples prefer modern, but avant-grade, furniture styles and are not particularly concerned with price. The majority said they placed design, quality and style ahead of monetary considerations when choosing furniture.

People Reaching Out—Singer

LONDON (UPI) — Buffy Sainte-Marie didn't write "the Times, they are a-changing.'" But that's what's happening in America right now, she says — and the change is for the better.

"People are comin' around, catchin' on," the raven-haired singer said softly, gazing out her hotel room window at the brown and gold of an autumn afternoon in London.

"It seems to me people are becoming much more open to new ideas and to each other, just within the last year. It's almost as though a new kind of American is emerging."

She smiled at the thought, brushing hair back from her face. "I mean, last year when I traveled around I found people in the airports for example, giving each other hard looks, being mean to each other over the counter with a kind of, who do you think you are? Attitude," she said.

"This year when I travel around I don't find that so. I find people reaching out to each other, helping each other a little more across that same ol' counter — not being so pushy."

Buffy Sainte-Marie, 28, Canadian Cree Indian recording and television star, began a three-week tour of Britain and Scandinavia with a near-sellout concert Oct. 15 at London's cavernous Royal Albert Hall.

As an Indian, Buffy is deeply involved both publicly and privately with the history and contemporary circumstances of American Indians. Did the change of heart she saw in white Americans also betoken a new eara in their treatment of the Indians?

"What can they do?" The easy smile and light humor evaporated for the briefest of moments, leaving something between scorn and resignation. "You can't do anything for us, man — you've got enough troubles of your own to worry about. That's the facts of life.

"Nope. The change is going to have to come from within us, the Indian people. Or, if you like, the black people. Or if it's yourself, then yourself.

"I think you'll find the real good right in the framework of your own life. Of all the people you meet every day, you can do something for every one of them. That's where it's at for me. We — indians, black people, you name it — we'll take care of ourselves."

Then, relfective: "It's like this — if some hippie shows up at a reservation wanting to move in because he wants to help out the Indians, I'd tell him first to go home and straighten out his parents, his brother, or himself.

"But leave a different culture alone. Let us help ourselves," Buffy Sainte-Marie said.

'Happiness' Drive Cause of Alienation

Gregory

DUNCAN — A society that is too "crisis oriented" was criticized this week by a Victoria child psychiatrist.

Dr. Charles Gregory charged that, in its concern for the emotionally and mentally disturbed child, society is overlooking the fact that children are sent to school to "become another statistic."

Gregory was a member of a panel sponsored by the Duncan branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association to discuss learning problems of the emotionally and mentally disturbed child.

He stressed that treatment should be preventative, through the schools and the family, rather than the crisis-oriented treatment available through institutions and specialists.

"Ten per cent of our population will spend time in a mental institute at some time in their life, and this is primarily caused by the way people are handled by their parents and schools."

Gregory said that if the general world state was to be used as a criteria for the success of the education system, then this system had failed.

"Our schools teach children how to regurgitate facts; they do not teach them to relate to one another in an intelligent and sane manner."

To overcome this failure, Gregory suggested that schools, become a place where parents, students, and professionals could mingle.

"Schools should be a community centre for anyone who wants to work with children, whether they are a professional or non-professional."

To create such an education system Gregory said society must first re-establish its priorities "and spend more time and money on prevention."

Another speaker, Dr. H. B. Danesch, also a Victoria psychiatrist, agreed with Gregory that the priorities of western man must be re-evaluated. "We must ask ourselves what we want to achieve, what are we living for," he said.

Danesch said that western man sought for goals — joy, satisfaction, happiness, and individuality. "We have conceived of every possible object that could make life easier — our attitude is to seek as much satisfaction and happiness as soon as possible."

The result of these goals, he said, was that man had become very self-centred, with little time to spend helping others. "We have created a community where people are alienated from one another."

Danesch attributed some of this alienation to the creation of specialists, "someone who knows more than you do about a certain topic." The creation of each new specialist, he said, meant that a person lost a little more of his self-assurance.

"And one of the responsibilities which we have abandoned is our children. Parents send their children off to specialists thinking that someone else can do a better job."

Danesch recommended that each individual re-evaluate his life and goals, and then try to relate his thoughts and feelings with family and friends.

The result could mean a new type of children, "and that is the one hope for humanity."

A third speaker, the special counsellor for Lake Cowichan school district, Tom Beames, also stressed that the only way to save the children of both this and the next generation, was to start with the individual.

For One Who Has Everything

One of the world's most expensive watches has come to Victoria, and several models of it have found a market.

"Piaget watches could hardly be marketed to the average working woman, since the rock-bottom price is $800, and the average price is from $1,600 to $2,500.

Watch is barely adequate to describe the more than 100 models which were displayed this week in Victoria, jewel would be a better term. The timepieces combine precious stones with 18-carat gold into some of the richest looking jewelry imaginable.

With the aloofness characteristic of exclusive designers, Piaget representatives won't say who owns their watches, but "most royalty have them."

They do admit, since he made the information public, that a specially designed, jewelled piano-styled wristwatch that Liberace wears was created by Piaget.

Described as the "Rolls Royce of the watch industry," Piaget has this year won the International Jewelry Watch Show award with a $37,000 creation of white gold, opal, round brilliants for the bracelet and a coral dial.

The display will end today and the watches will be returned to the firm's headquarters in Switzerland, but at least six were sold to Greater Victoria residents who must be counted among the men and women who have everything.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter works in a large office and is secretary to one of the bosses. He is 10 years her senior and has a nice wife and four children.

Mr. Boss spends more time at our house after work and on his days off than he spends with his own family. Our daughter is single. She never goes out with a fellow and never invites a girl friend over. It's always Mr. Boss.

I don't like this arrangement and have said so. Especially do I not like the way Mr. Boss buys my wife and daughter expensive presents — choice cuts of beef for dinner and gourmet baskets of food. I am sick of looking at this man's face and I have threatened to go to his wife about it. My daughter cries that I will ruin her life and my wife says if I go near his house she will personally kill me.

I think this man belongs at home with his wife and family. I also believe our daughter should start thinking about her future. Should I go to see the man's wife? Yes or no? Chaos In The Midwest.

Dear Chaos: No. It would not solve the problem. It would only create others. The wife knows her husband is not home much — and she probably has a good idea where he is.

The only thing you can do is tell your daughter that Mr. Boss is not welcome in the house and if she insists on seeing him, she'll have to move. By entertaining this creep you and your wife are not only condoning but encouraging the relationship — which in my opinion smells like a lost barrel of herring.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been dating a young man for several months. He has a part-time job and goes to college. Rick has taken me to concerts, movies, plays and to dinner. Would it be proper for me to treat him occasionally? If so, to what? Would he be offended if I should offer to pay for something? Please educate me, Ann, I need it. Antioch Reader.

Dear Ant: A girl should not "offer to pay" for anything but there are other ways she can reciprocate. If she lives at home, she can invite him to dinner. She could also buy some theater tickets in advance and invite him as her guest. She might also buy an occasional gift — a book he might enjoy, or an attractive necktie. Any evidence of thoughtfulness is appreciated and I recommend it.

For That Certain Feeling

If you're thinking of something different for that certain person this Christmas, you might want to take a hand at this. Designer of futuristic furniture puts the finger on comfort in demonstrator chair displayed by Diane Stewart, 163 Wellington, in Greater Victoria department store.

Laborers Can Look To Work For Forces

Several months' work is expected for currently-unemployed laborers in Greater Victoria when a defence department's $1 million maintenance program starts in this area later this month.

"The work should last well into the spring," a forces spokesman told the Colonist Friday, explaining that the projects will come under the federal government's recently-announced work initiation program.

He said the hiring of the work force will be done through Canada Manpower.

The spokesman said much of the work will comprise improving the force's married quarters at Work Point Barracks and Belmont Park.

"This work has been pending for a long time but up until now the money hasn't been available."

He said much of the work done at the married quarters would be painting and other general refurbishing of the houses.

"There will be a great deal of fence repairing and brush cutting at such installations as the Rocky Point arsenal."

Gold Plating for B.C.

Highlight of centennial celebrations for the German-speaking community of Greater Victoria came Friday with the presentation of a large plaque made by artist Fred Priddat to general chairman of the provincial centennial committee, Lawrie Wallace.

The plaque was made from 16-gauge aluminum bonded to plywood and measures four feet by six feet.

The work was done by Priddat who has used gold plating and lacquers to decorate the aluminum with the arms of Canada and the arms of British Columbia. Surrounding the two coats of arms are the arms of the other provinces and territories.

The presentation took place at the Edelweiss Club, 108 Niagara, during an evening of German music, dancing and singing held to honor the centennial year and the contribution made by Canadians of German background.

The artist Priddat was born in 1924 in Almenthal, East Prussia, and was apprenticed as a commercial artist.

Following military service he was a student at Hanover and Detmold where he was granted a master's degree in commercial art and interior design. He came to Canada in 1963 and now makes his home at 49 Regina.

In addition to the presentation, entertainment was provided by folk dancers and Adolf Unterberger of Vancouver, who played guitar, yodelled and played cowbells.

Side Drum Stolen From Parked Car

There are bass drums, there are snare drums and there are other kinds of drums but it was a side drum that some base thief snared from a parked car late Wednesday in Victoria, police disclosed Friday.

They said a $60 pearl green side drum 18-inches in diameter was stolen from the car of John DeJong, 3217 Shelby, as it was parked in front of a club in the 600-Block Johnson.

'Beautiful Disturber' Right on Key

BY BERT BINNY

Poet George Dillon called music "the beautiful disturber." James Thomson preferred "the wine of love." Paul Moore defined it as "a psychical storm."

Both William Congreve and Matthew Green remind us of its "charms" and diarist Samuel Pepys observed that "Musick and women I cannot but give way to, whatever my business is."

If Samuel meant what he said and had he lived in Victoria right about now, he would be busy indeed. Of his assignations we would know little but we do know that five out of six of next week's entertainment events are wholly or partially musical.

The Victoria Conservatory of Music makes two contributions to this program.

Tuesday, 8:30 p.m. at St. Matthias Hall on the corner of Richmond and Richardson, the conservatory chamber orchestra and three soloists will be heard.

The conductor is Sydney Humphreys and works of Bach, Mozart and Schubert are included among the selections.

Preceding the final performance of Rumplestiltskin, there will be 10 musical items including a horn quartet, a saxophone quartet, a flute ensemble and a Suzuki violin group.

Among the soloists are violinist Gwen Hoebig and cellist Desmond Hoebig, Anne Moyis who will play the recorder, singer Debra Crozier-Smith and pianist Alan Reiser, recently arrived here from Alberta.

Stages are dark Monday and Wednesday but curtains rise on both a theatrical production and more music Thursday.

The first of two performances by Los Indios Tabajaros takes place at the McPherson at 8:30 p.m. with a repeat at the same time and place Saturday.

STAGE WHISPERS

UVic's Music at Noon series continues Friday, and finally, the Victoria Symphony orchestra's fourth pair of concerts is scheduled for Nov. 21 and 22.

The guest artist will be cellist Tsuyosi Tsutsumi, to be heard in Saint-Saens' cello concerto in A minor.

Today offers a choice of four attractions, three in the evening and one in the afternoon.

Rumplestiltskin will make another attempt to get to the Stiltskin family reunion this afternoon at 2 p.m. in the McPherson.

The inimitable Rolf Harris gives two further performances at the McPherson, at 6 and 8:30 p.m.

The second performance of Victoria's House by the Peninsula Players goes on at Sidney elementary school at 8:15 p.m., a production reviewed elsewhere today.

Last but by no means least, the Theatre Guild presents a "monodrama" recital by David Watmough at 8:15 p.m. at Langham Court.

The items for presentation are entitled In the Mood, Ashes for Easter and, following the intermission, First Job.

Watmough has received acclaim from critics in Vancouver, Toronto, Montreal, New York and as far afield as London, England, and Hamburg, West Germany.

Elementary Approach

Open-area classroom at Victoria elementary school has been partially enclosed with temporary partitions down centre. Greater Victoria school board's construction committee has recommended to board that education department be asked to allow school district to spend up to $20,000 to make permanent conversion. Officials said open area was "just too big" for effective functioning.

View Royal Sewer System

Referendum Meeting Called

View Royal fire trustees have called a public meeting for Nov. 29, for discussion of a sewer referendum that will be taken in the area next month.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in All Saints Parish Hall, Stewart and Palliser Roads, and is expected to be attended by at least one representative of the Capital Regional Board, which has proposed the referendum.

The question on which about 1,460 View Royal residents are eligible to vote asks if they favor a $15,000 study of the costs of building a sewage collection system in the area.

Capt. A. R. Trail, president of the View Royal Ratepayers Association, says the referendum's question is so worded as to give regional board authority to actually build a collection system after a cost analysis has been made.

In 1969, View Royal rejected a sewer system that was proposed in a $27,000 engineering study. There were 1,351 persons eligible to vote at that time.

Inmates Come, Inmates Go

The total of inmates missing from the William Head minimum security institution in the Metchosin area stayed at five Friday after one was recaptured and another left without authorization.

Colwood RCMP said Robert George Botineau, 31, who walked away Oct. 29, was picked up by Vancouver police and a charge of escaping and being unlawfully at large might be waived to Vancouver for hearing.

Botineau was serving seven years for robbery and rape in Vancouver.

Police also said Philip Matthew Joe, 27, was sought on a warrant charging him without being unlawfully at large after he failed to return Friday from a day pass.

They said Joe was serving a term after being sentenced at Whitehorse but prison officials had not supplied any details of the term of his crime.

Stereo Units Stolen

Charles Glauser, manager of Hudson's Tape Recording Center at 1543 Fort, reported the break-in sometime Remembrance Day of his premises, and theft of $1,221 in recording equipment, including one $549 stereo tape system.

A stereo unit consisting of an AM-FM radio, a turntable and two speakers worth a total of $170 was stolen Tuesday from the Brett Gunton residence at 423 Langford, Victoria police said. Police said entry was possibly gained through an unlocked basement door.

Mostly Rot

In chatting with various gardening friends around town, I have been rather surprised at the number of queer beliefs and superstitions which have grown up about leaves and the leafmould or compost made from them.

One old-timer tells me rhubarb leaves are poisonous to all plant life and should never be added to the compost heap. Another insists that ivy foliage should never be composted, while there seems to be a long-standing prejudice against all coniferous leaves such as pine needles, yew and spruce, as it is believed these are fatal to earthworms and would therefore hinder decomposition. With so many backyard gardeners going organic these days, learning to conserve and make use of their garden wastes, I think it is about time we examined these taboos critically.

* * *

Actually, there is only the tiniest grain of truth in these beliefs, for surely it is the natural thing for ALL leaves to fall and, in the fullness of time, to rot down and become life-giving humus. The ultimate end of every leaf, in nature, is to return to the soil those elements which were removed during the processes of growth, and there are NO leaves which will not benefit the soil once they are fully decomposed.

However, some leaves are more acid than others during decomposition. Rhubarb foliage falls into this classification, and it is true that the oxalic acid contained in these leaves will slow up the working of the compost heap if too many are added at any one time. All that is needed, though, is a sprinkle of lime to correct this effect.

The thing to remember is this acid condition is temporary. All leaves contain calcium, and this calcium will be released to the soil when the rotting process is finally completed. The longer they take to rot down, the longer will the half-made compost remain in an acid condition.

Tough, slow-rotting leaves such as the conifers and most of the broad-leafed evergreens stay acid so long they tend to drive out earthworms. This is why the forest floor in a pine woods seems almost dead, and the soil under laurel and holly hedges becomes too acid for most other plants. For these reasons, such leaves should either be burned for their precious ashes or their half-rotted leafmould used as a surface mulch around such acid-loving plants as rhododendrons, azaleas, camellias and hollies.

Slowest of all to rot down are the pine needles and, in consequence, these make wonderfully long-lasting mulches for strawberries, raspberries and all plants and shrubs that dislike lime.

Arbutus leaves also take too long to decompose but are not much good for mulching. The incinerator is the best place for these.

The most valuable leaves are those of the beech and the oak. These rot down fairly quickly and make a leafmould of first-class quality — fine, flaky particles with a slightly acid reaction that persists for a long time. This is wonderful stuff for digging in around shrubs of all kinds, and is ideal as a component of potting and seed-sowing mixtures.

* * *

I know of one distinguished breeder and grower of begonias in California who propagates all his prize plants in a mixture of pure screened oak leafmould and sand, while there isn't anything more to the taste of polyanthus primroses than rotted beech and birch leaves.

The simple way to make ordinary compost is to dump all your rottable garden wastes into one big heap or bin, and the more diverse the mixture, the better the compost. However, if you can get your hands on useful quantitities of oak or beech leaves, it would pay you to keep them separate and rot them down on their own in a shaded corner of the garden.

All Phases Alike

WASHINGTON — In a bold move aimed at controlling inflation while stimulating a sagging economy, President Nixon announced today that Phase Two had been cancelled.

Instead, he said, the nation would move directly into Phase Three.

The decision to skip Phase Two entirely was seen as primarily an attempt to bolster the staggering stock market. When Phase One was announced, the market had soared. But the uncertainties and confusion surrounding Phase Two had caused stocks to plummet.

* * *

Thus, when the news that Phase Two had been cancelled hit Wall Street, brokers threw their arms around each other, and the Dow-Jones Industrials climbed 42 points in the first 20 minutes as jubilation reigned.

"My fellow Americans," said the president in a brief televised address. "No one, in my judgment, abhors wage and price controls more than I. I believe, rightly or wrongly, in freedom. Therefore, under Phase Three, I will make no attempt to control your wages or prices. This will be done instead by your fellow Americans. Thank you."

* * *

White House sources said that under Phase Three, the president would appoint three boards, two commissions, four super-agencies and a highway lane painter to draw up guidelines.

Unlike Phase Two, they said, George Meany and the labor leaders would serve on the price board rather than the wage board. The latter, they said, would be composed solely of industrialists.

"We're putting the hens in the hen house and the foxes in the fox house this time," explained an administration spokesman.

Meany, however, immediately refused to serve on any board unless he got to sit at the head of the table in a leather-backed chair with his own water carafe, personalized note pad, three monogrammed pencils and a princess telephone.

Treasury Secretary Connally promptly asked congress for a supplemental appropriation, their support in his race for vice president on either ticket, and stand-by legislation making criticism of Phase Three a capital offence —legislation he swore, Scouts honor, would never be used.

Meanwhile, to clear up confusion, a Treasury source said Phase Three would include "stringent controls" on profits, dividends, interest rates and macadamia nuts.

Half an hour later, a White House spokesman said this was absolutely true — except, he said for profits, dividends and interest rates.

By late afternoon, the stock market had wiped out its earlier gains and dropped another 27 points. At the White House, word leaked out that the president was now considering skipping Phase Three and going directly to Phase Four — "in hopes," as one presidential assistant put it, "of finding a phase investors like going through."

* * *

But insiders doubted the public would understand Phase Four any more than they had understood Phases Two and Three.

For at last the president had made one thing perfectly clear: the trouble with any system of controls is that if the people understand them, they won't like them.

Don't Throw Stones

The smartest people try to learn something from their enemies, instead of just denigrating them. Why don't we try to get smarter about our electoral system?

Later this month, Czechoslovakia will go to the polls in a "no-contest" election for parliament and local offices. The communists are carrying on a vigorous campaign to get out the vote in the country's first general election since 1964.

Their 1968 elections, of course, were called off by the brutal Soviet invasion and ensuing purge of liberal Czechs. Now there are only "national front" candidates running which means featureless puppets of the communist regime. You vote for them, or for nobody.

In insisting that such an election is "more democratic" than the ones held in Western countries, Red leaders continually point to the "bribery and manipulation" of our political machinery. Here is the way they put it:

"The rivalry of various bourgeois political parties is accompanied by a great deal of commotion and a torrent of promises. All this is calculated to deceive the voters and to create a semblance of free democratic decision and prevent people from realizing that promises from earlier elections have remained for the greater part unfilled."

* * *

Who can honestly fault such a statement? The fact that it is made by a bad man for a bad reason does not invalidate its truth. Indeed, its truth gives the Reds their rationale for "no-choice" elections, which they can tout as "actually more democratic" than ours.

In order to gain the "free democratic decision" we imagine we have, we must educate the electorate to an understanding of issues, so that slogans and shibboleths and the projection of a TV "personality" do not remain more important than the underlying problems.

* * *

Also, we must make an elected official stick to his promises as strictly as we force anyone else to live up to a contract or guarantee. Our tolerance for "campaign rhetoric" is the worst enemy of political candor and sincerity.

Neither the Reds nor we fulfil the promise of the democratic process. Their regimes would collapse if they did, but ours would be strengthened. This is the best reason for heeding their criticism.

Jan-Michael Vincent gets a kick out of being considered one of this year's major discoveries. Jan-Michael has been around Hollywood for some five years, working in bits and pieces of films and on television. But just recently they've discovered his appeal, first in ABC's Tribes, and more recently as Bob Mitchum's son in Going Home. In fact, MGM's enthusiasm for his work in that picture was the reason they signed Vincent for the upcoming Deadly Honeymoon, in the role for which they were originally considering Ryan O'Neal.

They tell me that the most popular guest on NBC's The Hollywood Squares is a little cutie from the competition. Karen Valentine, a regular on ABC's Room 222, has guested 85 times since the beginning of the year.

* * *

Look for Vic Damone to sign with Hugh Hefner's Playboy Records label. Really, that's what the fellows have been talking about during all their recent huddles. At least that's what they tell me.

* * *

Dorothy Lamour has tried to keep her distance from camels since she worked in Road to Zanzibar and one camel spat in Bob Hope's eye. The incident was considered so funny by many that it got huge press coverage at the time, particularly when Bing Crosby suggested the camel was a critic. But it caused enough negative reactions with Dorothy that when a pharmaceutical firm recently asked her to pose with a camel pharmaceutifal firm recently asked her to pose with a camel in an ad, she was ready to turn the offer down. Then she had second thoughts about the money, and I suppose figured a spit in the eye can't hurt much more than your dignity.

Viet Attack Ended —Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon reported Friday that the United States offensive combat role in South Vietnam has ended and announced that he will increase the U.S. troop withdrawal rate by more than one-third in December and January.

Holding an unannounced news conference in the White House press centre, Nixon disclosed that during the next two months the authorized ceiling for American forces in South Vietnam will be cut by 45,000 to 139,000.

More than half the forces will be brought home before Christmas.

Nixon discussed the present role of remaining troops in Vietnam in response to a question by a reporter who said he wondered when the combat role there would end.

Nixon disclosed that offensive combat operations already have ended and said "American troops are now in a defensive position."

The president took office at a time when some 540,000 American armed servicemen were stationed in South Vietnam.

He said his latest withdrawal announcement was confined to a two-month period because, with fewer Americans remaining in the war zone, it is important to maintain maximum leverage in possibly fruitful peace negotiations.

Flaming Crash Kills 10

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — A huge C130 Air Force cargo plane, trying to take off with a full load of 20 tons of jet fuel, crashed and exploded in flames Monday, killing 10 of the 11 airmen aboard.

The flaming fuel gushed into a lake of fire around the four-engine turbo-jet, trapping the victims inside. The survivor, thrown clear of the wreckage, was in critical condition. He was taken to Brooke Army Medical Hospital at San Antonio, Tex.

Five of the 11 men aboard were student airmen learning to be pilots.

"It was just completely engulfed in flames — that's all you can say," said Col. William Davies, base fire marshal, who directed 12 units to fight the blaze that boiled 40 feet high and burned black an area 100 yards long and 60 yards wide.

The 4,000-horsepower cargo plane crashed on takeoff at 7:11 a.m. on what was described as a routine training mission over Arkansas. The aircraft made it off the ground, then winged over and struck about 20 feet to the side of the runway, exploding on impact.

No immediate cause of the crash was given. An air force board of inquiry was appointed to investigate.

Kidnap Plotter Jailed

MONTREAL (UPI) — A former school librarian was sentenced to 20 years in prison Friday for kidnapping the infant son of a Montreal bank official last December.

Daniel Lamoureux, 25, had pleaded guilty to kidnapping earlier this month.

Marc Tellier, then 11 months old, was kidnapped at gunpoint from his family's house. A cabdriver who took Lamoureux and the baby to a nearby apartment immediately notified police and the child was found 30 minutes later.

Lamoureux, who said he planned to ransom the baby for $100,000, claimed in an unsigned statement to police he would have returned the child unharmed of the ransom was not paid.

Report Calls for Policing Of Foreign Investment

—CP

Gray

'. . . screening agency'

TORONTO (CP) — A cabinet study is reported to recommend creation of a government agency with broad policing powers to control foreign investment in Canada and allow domestic industries to compete effectively.

This proposal is contained in a Canadian Forum magazine article presented as an abridged version of a report to the federal cabinet prepared by Revenue Minister Herb Gray.

The report's approach to control of foreign investment would permit the proposed agency to tailor its actions to specific situations. Its powers might range from direct prohibition of foreign investment to negotiations for manufacturing rights for a Canadian firm.

The entire December issue of the magazine, a literary journal, is devoted to the foreign-ownership report. Managing Editor Abraham Rotstein says the editors believe it is the "definitive text" of the cabinet document, which has not yet been released by the government.

Rotstein said the 75,000-word article is an edited version of the minister's 200,000-word report presented to the cabinet in May. Technical passages and areas of duplication were eliminated, but Forum editors did not add to or paraphrase the report, he said.

Rotstein would not say how the magazine obtained the report, but he said it was not received from a cabinet minister or a civil servant.

Proposals in the report revolve around creation of a "screening agency," which could be an adjudicative tribunal or an administrative agency responsible to a cabinet minister.

"In light of the government's industrial strategy, the screening authorities would seek to secure the best possible deal from foreign investment, and to block its entry where it is not beneficial," the article quotes the report as saying.

The screening agency would be concerned with takeovers by foreign firms, direct investment, licensing and franchising, expansion of existing foreign-controlled firms, Canadian multi-national companies and foreign firms now operating in Canada.

The report recommends the screening-agency approach over other alternatives, such as a "key-sector program" or majority-Canadian-control rules.

The report, in effect, provides an alternative to the proposals for majority-control legislation made by a Commons committee and the key-sector approach which the

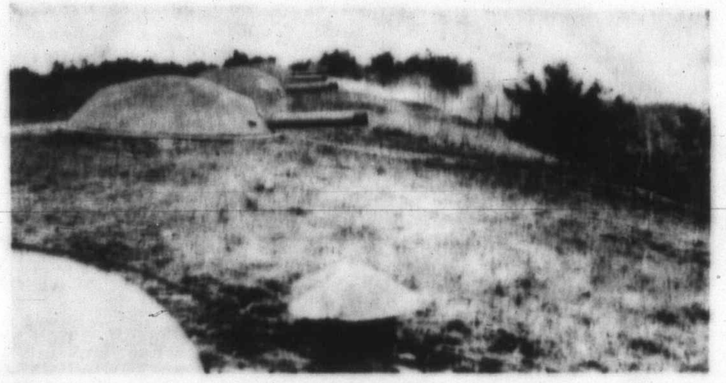
'Cabinet Pondering Policy Proposals'

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau's office said Friday night that the cabinet is still discussing policy proposals on the foreign ownership of Canadian industry.

A brief statement acknowledged that a report published earlier Friday by a magazine was based on "one draft" of a study prepared for the cabinet.



'Impregnable' bunkers of Maginot Line

French Ministry Looking For Concrete Proposals

METZ, France (Reuter) — For sale at auction: Impregnable 20th-century fortifications. Make good hunting lodges, second homes or atomic shelters. All with armored doors, six rooms, air conditioning. Need decorating.

Those are the details that defence ministry officials hope will lure Frenchmen into the bidding when the concrete bunkers of the Maginot Line are offered for sale next week.

The fortifications were named after the French defence minister who started construction along the Franco-German border in 1927. No one really knows whether they are really impregnable.

This is a second attempt to sell the bunkers. There were no takers when parts of the line were put up for auction several years ago.

Plane Back in Calgary

Zig-Zagging Hijacker Finally Knocked Out

CALGARY, Alta. (UPI) — A masked man armed with a sawed-off shotgun and dynamite hijacked an Air Canada jet with 127 persons aboard Friday night and ordered the plane back and forth between Canada and the United States before being knocked out by a crew member. The passengers were released earlier.

Just before landing the pilot of the big DC-8 four-engine jet radioed that the hijacker, who claimed he was a member of the Irish Republican Army, was unconscious, Air Canada officials said. The pilot, however, called for bomb disposal experts to stand by.

An Air Canada official said "one of the crew members reported that the hijacker had been knocked unconscious by a crew member."

The hijacker was captured when a crew member struck him with a fire axe as the man was bending over to put on a parachute he was carrying, Air Canada said. A local hospital reported the hijacker suffered lacerations on his head.

Earlier the man had extracted $50,000 ransom for the release of the passengers and most of the crew during the second time it landed at Great Falls, Mont.

"The guy was wearing a mask and holding what appeared to be dynamite and a sawed-off shotgun," an Air Canada spokesman said in Montreal.

The plane, on a flight from Vancouver to Montreal, landed in Great Falls under orders from the hijacker, who had demanded $1.5 million. He received $50,000 and the plane took off for Regina, but then turned back to discharge the passengers.

The plane took off again and according to an Air Cana-

'Virtual State Of War'

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — A senior official of the Pakistan government said Friday a "virtual state of war" exists on the border between India and Pakistan.

Foreign Secretary S.M. Khan said people are being killed, tanks, artillery and mortars are firing into Pakistani territory, troops are making incursions into Pakistan, and Indian officials are talking of occupying border cities and holding them.

"It is a virtual state of war," Khan said, adding that the only reason it has not expanded is the restraint — preumably Pakistani restraint — being shown.

He also accused Indian of using the millions of Pakistan refugees in her territory for "political blackmail," of helping East Pakistani guerrillas, many of whom he said are criminals and anti-social elements, and of violating the UN charter.

But he did not say that Pakistan would ask the Security Council to meet to deal with the situation, saying only that this recourse is being considered.

Beware of Wrath Of Evangelisti

FIUGGI, Italy (UPI) — Nestore Evangelisti lined his "helicopter gunship" on target, squeezed the trigger and . . . SPLAT! It was a black day for the ladies of pleasure of Fiuggi.

The ink raid, followed by a heavy rainfall, drove a score of the miniskirted girls from their habitual haunt along the Asoie-Fiuggi highway.

"If they come back," Evangelisti warned Friday, "I have something worse in store for them."

The construction magnate said he has ordered several boxes of ear-shattering cherry bombs from a nearby fireworks company.

Profit, as well as prudery, were the motives for Evangelisti's one-man war.

He said they are giving a bad name to a luxury apartment complex he has built nearby.

He said several serious traffic accidents were caused when motorists stopped or slowed down to ogle the girls.

"I went to speak to the women to try to persuade them to find another place," Evangelisti said. "They refused to move. Well, they wanted war and they got it."

Runaway Car Hits Pedestrians

YOUNGTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Six persons were killed and nine injured Friday by an automobile that jumped a curb and plowed into a crowded sidewalk in the heart of Youngstown's business district. Police were holding the driver of the car, James Anderson, 30, for questioning.

Delicate Manoeuvres

By MARVIN MILES
Colonist-Los Angeles Times Service

PASADENA, Calif. — Mariner 9 is programmed to curl around Mars at 4:32 p.m. (PST) today and become history's first spacecraft to orbit another planet.

At the time of encounter, the probe will be about 75 million miles from Earth after coasting 248 million miles through space on a journey of almost a half a year.

But before Mariner can undertake its primary 90-day exploration of the red planet, the windmill-like spacecraft must first complete a tricky sequence of manoeuvres commanded by its electronic brain.

While earlier Mariners have accomplished similar manoeuvres in course corrections enroute to brief fly-bys of Mars, no other encounter has been so complicated. It involves, among other things, a record 15-minute burn of the probe's rocket engine to achieve orbit.

So great is the distance involved, that controllers at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here will not receive confirming signals — at the 186,000-mile-per-second speed of light — until almost seven minutes after encounter events occur.

With commands already loaded into the probe's computer brain, the first event will occur at 11:14 a.m. (PST) today when Mariner will be shifted to gyroscopic control of its roll axis which heretofore has been provided by a lock on the guide star Canopus.

This is to assure that Mariner's Canopus sensor is inoperable and cannot be lured off the star at a critical time in the encounter in the same manner it was distracted recently by reflection from a speck of dust, apparently off the spacecraft itself.

Pitch and yaw gyros will be turned on at 1:44 p.m. (PST) when the probe will no longer depend on the sun for a second stabilization lock, then Mariner will start a 43-degree roll turn about an hour later.

Powered by nitrogen jets in the spacecraft's solar panels, this roll will be one of two turns required to position

As Bennett Heads for Ottawa

Guaranteed Income Still Goal

By IAN STREET
Colonist Reporter

Premier Bennett, brandishing the senate committee report on poverty, flies to Ottawa this week to renew his demands for implementation of a guaranteed annual wage in Canada.

The premier said Friday he was "very pleased" with the over-all report, adding that while his government might argue with some of the details, "it really backs up the stand British Columbia has taken at federal - provincial conferences over the past three or four years."

Although protocol at federal provincial meetings dictates the brief not be made public at this stage, Bennett said he plans to advocate once more the adoption of the negative income tax form of guaranteed annual wage and added he plans to use some new arguments to reinforce his stand.

Just what these new arguments are, Bennett told reporters, would have to wait until the brief is made public Monday morning.

However, his arguments will likely be simply that a guaranteed annual wage is needed now to assure a basic living standard "with dignity" for all Canadians and to attempt to refute federal arguments that Canada cannot afford to adopt any such program, desirable as it may be.

Dealing with the question of costs, Bennett said Friday that a guaranteed annual wage initially established at approximately $3,000 a year for a couple, with additional payments for further dependents, was definitely within Canada's means.

He disclosed no details of the amount which would be required to finance such a program, but said present equalization grants to have-not provinces plus federal and provincial social assistance payments would be sufficient.

But, the premier added, if more money is needed to finance the plan, it will have to come out of income taxes, which would mean Ottawa and the provinces sharing equally, "because it should come out of tax revenues before they are divided."

Senator David Croll, chairman of the committee which produced the poverty report, is to be congratulated for doing "a great service to the people of Canada," Bennett said.

The proposal of a guaranteed annual income would assure all Canadians a basic living standard with dignity and "do away with red tape and bureaucracy" under present welfare programs, he added.

Asked to comment on Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi's stated opposition to the senate poverty report recommendation, Bennett said there was no conflict. He added: "I heard him (Gaglardi) on the radio and he admitted the negative income tax form of guaranteed annual wage was official provincial government policy."

It's far better, Bennett said, to make it possible for people now moving to the cities and going on welfare when they can't find jobs, to stay on their small farms in rural Quebec or elsewhere.

"There they will be happier, and there it will cost them less to live," the premier said.

The negative income tax system, according to Bennett, would first of all involve establishment of a basic floor income, which he suggested might be $3,000 for a couple, rising to "$4,000 or $5,000 as we get benefits from our expanding prosperity."

Everyone would then file an

Moments To Remember

Cold drizzle accompanied Remembrance Day services Thursday at Victoria cenotaph in front of Legislature buildings. Trusty umbrella came to aid of Rev. K. M. King, assistant priest, St. Luke's Church as he watched proceedings with Legion member C. A. Gill.

Blast Injures Mother, Baby

A mysterious explosion slightly injured a Victoria mother and daughter and damaged their apartment early Friday as a climax to a Remembrance Day holiday period in Greater Victoria where loud noises made news.

Victoria police declined comment on possible motives behind the explosion that caused more than $500 damage to the one-room suite of Mrs. Pamela Cotton, 29, and her 10-month-old daughter Susan Janet in the Michelangelo Apartments, 1158 Yates, shortly after 2:30 a.m.

During the earlier holiday period, two shots were fired in a Victoria domestic argument, two more were fired as a sequel to a beer-parlor argument in Sooke and several damaging traffic accidents sent people to hospital.

Another incident that involved a gun that wasn't fired was a holdup attempt shortly before 10 p.m. Thursday at the Freddie the Freeloader store at 1537 Fort.

At 1158 Yates, police said, two pieces of blue and white detonator wire and the bottom part of a copper detonator were found by investigators.

They said an explosive device went off as it sat on a rear windowsill just outside Mrs. Cotton's bed-sitting room, causing a blast heard throughout the downtown area.

Mrs. Cotton was protected by the doors of her hideaway bed while her daughter's crib, at the far side of the room from the window, was protected by a folding screen. Damage was heavy to masonry at the window, the frame and drapes and the interior of the room was showered with broken glass and bits of plastic and tile.

Both mother and daughter escaped with slight injuries. Police said the Cottons moved into the apartment a week ago and added they had spoken to Mrs. Cotton, now living in another part of the apartment block, and the previous occupant of her suite.

Victim of the holdup attempt was Mrs. Sylvia Turner, a clerk in the Freddie the Freeloader store. She said a young man came into the store, pointed a handgun at her and said, "This is a stick-up. Give." She screamed and the man left.

He was described as about 20, five-feet-eight, weighing 135 pounds and wearing a nylon stocking mask over his head, a yellow windbreaker and black gloves. The man fled on foot, taking nothing.

In Victoria Provincial Court, John Leslie Libon, 23, of 1421 Chambers, was fined $200 after pleading guilty to a charge of using a .303 rifle in a manner dangerous to the safety of others.

A Victoria policeman testified Libon fired two shots from the rear of his home after his wife went to a neighbor's following a domestic argument (Libon said he fired into the air). The policeman said Libon was about to fire a third shot when they arrived.

In Sooke, RCMP said a young man was being sought after two rifle shots were fired in a parking lot outside the Sooke Hotel beer parlor on Sooke Road late Thursday. It was understood the man was with two other men who had been in an argument with him inside the pub.

In the traffic accidents, four persons suffered minor injuries Thursday evening in a collision between their car and another on the Patricia Bay Highway between East Saanich and Keating in Central Saanich.

In Victoria, an old car was considered a writeoff after it went out of control on a curve in the 1600 block Rockland, bounced off a power pole and went down a short but steep embankment into a construction project. The two men in it received minor injuries.

Followers, Yes But Where Are the Chiefs?

Victoria is getting so congested with citizen groups, there just aren't enough people around to lead them.

Mrs. Bernice Packford, president of the Beacon Hill Park Association, told the Colonist Friday she is looking for someone to head a group, plans for which were formulated about a month ago.

At that time, she said, the Beacon Hill Park Association held a meeting at which 150 persons indicated they would be willing to form another group aiming at implementation of the Old Town report.

"I've got 150 signatures and $51 which were collected, but I've found no one who will take on the job of heading the new group," Mrs. Packford said.

"The park association is too busy to look after this job; it would have to be someone willing to form the new group, and work for its aims," she said.

At the meeting, she said, everybody was enthusiastic to get the group underway. Now, nobody seemed to be interested enough in getting the show on the road.

"There doesn't seem to be any leadership in this regard in Victoria," she said.

She urges "anyone interested in pushing for the Old Town report," and willing to devote some time to organizing the potential members of a group to telephone her at 382-5121.

The Old Town report was prepared by a number of students with the aid of a federal grant. It proposes retention of Victoria's historic downtown character, restoration of old buildings and construction of numerous pedestrian malls in a highrise-free downtown core.

Yards Switch To Supervisors

VANCOUVER (CP) — Supervisory staff handled switching operations in the Vancouver yard of the Burlington Northern Railroad Friday after switchers booked off sick in protest against the firing of three fellow employees.

PROVINCIAL COURT

Final remands were granted to three persons Friday in Victoria Provincial Court by Judge Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre before three separate preliminary hearings on various narcotics charges.

The three are Ronald Stanley Porter and Linda Louise Morino, both 23 and of 2852 Inez, and Michael Norman Sudds, 25, of 3131 Kingsley.

They will first appear Nov. 29 in Sidney Provincial Court for completion of a preliminary hearing on a charge of trafficking in LSD June 28 in Sidney.

The three are also due to appear Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 and 2 in Victoria Provincial Court for a preliminary hearing on a two-count charge of conspiracy to traffick in LSD and to possess LSD for the purpose of trafficking. That charge is dated between Sept. 1, 1970 and May 19, 1971, and alleges offences in the Sidney area and elsewhere.

Porter and Miss Morino are also scheduled to appear Dec. 22 in the Victoria court for a preliminary hearing on a joint charge of possession of cannabis resin on or about Oct. 22 in Saanich while Miss Morino faces a preliminary hearing the same day on a charge of possession of marijuana on or about Oct. 22 in Saanich.

The three have elected trial by judge and jury on all charges and are out on bail pending the hearings. Bail for Porter totals $13,500, for Miss Morino $8,500 and for Sudds $7,500.

Linda Lenore Robinson, 21, of 1733 Newton, was remanded in custody to Nov. 26 for a pre-sentence report and sentence after she pleaded guilty to an eight-count Victoria charge of uttering.

The charge resulted from eight worthless cheques with a total value of $327.85 cashed between Sept. 29 and Oct. 17 after Miss Robinson obtained a charge card belonging to someone else.

Ralph William Otto Herbert, 33, of Bremerton, Wash., was fined $250 after he pleaded guilty to a charge of theft involving less than $50 early Nov. 9 in Victoria. A Victoria policeman testified Herbert took a battery from a car parked in the 1100 block Balmoral after the battery of his own car went dead.

☐

Michael Joseph Amesse, 19, no fixed address, was fined $250 following his plea of guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana — a small plastic bag found when he was checked by police Friday morning in Centennial Square.

☐

In traffic court, Judge E. F. N. Robinson set a $300 fine and a three-month driving ban for Ronald James Maxwell, 20, of 1261 Goldstream, who pleaded guilty to a charge of driving Nov. 3 in the Colwood area with a blood-alcohol reading of more than .08 per cent.

Home Recipe Plan Takes Off Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drugstore and ask for Naran. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonsful twice a day as needed and follow the Naran Reducing Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Famous Humorist, Social Reformer, A.P. Herbert Dies

LONDON — British author A. P. Herbert, writer, humorist and one of Britain's leading social reformers, died Friday at his London home. He was 81.

The satirist, knighted last year by the Queen and officially known as Sir Alan Herbert, had been ailing from a stroke for the last year.

Herbert wrote 62 books, 17 plays, numerous song lyrics and published letters, and was responsible for changing Britain's archaic divorce laws.

In between books, Herbert was elected to Parliament in 1935 and two years later, almost singlehandedly, he forced the government to alter divorce regulations. Cruelty, desertion and insanity were allowed as grounds for divorce. Previously only adultery was legal reason to end a marriage.

Sir Alan is survived by his wife, three daughters and a son.

Premiers, Trudeau

Monday Meeting

Federal informants say they expect no substantial results from the three-day conference.

It is unlikely there will be new measures to meet unemployment, U.S. economic blows, soaring expenditures on shared-cost programs or subsidies to the poor provinces, the informants said.

The provinces are divided on some issues and have emphatically criticized federal policies on others. Finance Minister Edgar Benson had made it clear in Commons remarks that the federal government will announce no further plans for helping Canada's 447,000 unemployed this winter.

The $498-million federal program to create jobs this winter was announced Oct. 14 and is just getting under way.

Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney, among others, has said the program comes too late to have a major impact this winter.

The conference agenda calls for a general economic discussion followed by a review of federal-provincial finances, including possible means to dampen the rising costs of health and welfare programs.

Friday's publication by the Canadian Forum of what the magazine calls an abridged version of Revenue Minister Herb Gray's report on foreign ownership may have repercussions at the conference.

Several provincial spokesmen have asked the federal government to make the report public in some form, but the federal government has refused, saying the report is a confidential cabinet document.

The foreign-ownership issue is a sensitive one, with the federal government under conflicting pressure from nationalist groups and from poorer provinces whose governments want more investment, from whatever source.

Gray will not be at the conference, his office said Friday. He is to deliver a speech in Vancouver Tuesday.

An assistant to Benson said Friday the conference will also review the Oct. 14 employment program, which is being undertaken in co-operation with the provinces, and U.S.-Canada economic relations.

'Canada's Second Great Medicare Battle'

By JOHN MATTERS
Colonist Reporter

Dr. John McCreary, dean of the University of B.C.'s medical faculty, says community health centres attended by salaried doctors would get medical care more efficiently to the public and reduce the use of expensive hospitals.

The need for such facilities is so urgent, he says, that centres could be built in existing health units or office buildings to forestall any delay until a construction program is started.

McCreary's statement, made to a recent national conference on medical manpower, aligns the UBC dean with the policy of the New Democratic Party government of Manitoba, now engaged in what some columnists have described as "Canada's second great medicare battle."

Developments in Manitoba and with community clinics such as the three already in existence in Saskatchewan are being observed with unusual interest in B.C. where the government recently came to a saw-off with doctors on two cabinet orders that were directed at reducing medical costs.

It is known that some authorities in the B.C. government for example, hope that any public health buildings in B.C. will in fact be community clinics, were doctors on salary will provide day-to-day care.

It also has been suggested that hospitals such as the 75-bed centre proposed for Central Saanich, which would be within 20 minutes' drive of Royal Jubilee or St. Joseph's, are a wasteful expenditure when considered in the light of services that would be available at a community clinic.

Medicare battle No. 1 between doctors and a government in power occurred in Saskatchewan in 1962, when the CCF government introduced the first comprehensive, universal and prepaid medical care insurance plan in Canada.

Community Centres Big Health Hurdle

Foulkes
. . . control point

The second battle, calm now compared with what it was even one month ago, is a confrontation between doctors and the government of Premier Ed Schryer on the issue of community clinics.

The government refused to authorize construction of 200 new beds at Concordia Hospital, Winnipeg, because of long-range plans to turn the hospital into a community clinic.

The government and the doctors subsequently came to a compromise. Late last month, Schreyer announced that 132 beds would be added to the hospital in the first phase and the second phase would be development of a community health centre.

Manitoba health department officials say the province's ratio of hospital beds is about 6.45 per 1,000 compared with about three per 1,000 in the United States as a whole. They say the situation in Manitoba is "at least 50 per cent over a reasonable ratio."

The provincial government now hopes to save hospital costs by introducing a system of community clinics, where patients would go for a wide range of health services. Last spring, it said there would be about 20 such clinics but after the collision with the doctors revised the figures to "five or six."

However, the most interesting development in respect of the community clinic concept now comes from the dean of UBC's medical school, who told the national medical manpower conference that many young doctors would not mind being paid a salary, instead of fee for service reimbursement, to work in such clinics.

(Fee for service is description of the existing payment system, under which a doctor bills medicare or the patient for each service rendered. The fee depends on the complexity of the procedure.)

McCreary said he did not think fee for service would or should entirely disappear but it is the greatest single obstacle to development of the community health centres. He noted that doctors and dentists are the only two groups of health workers paid that way.

"As long as this descrepancy prevails, there will be little opportunity to co-ordinate the groups of health professionals in the primary (health) care situation," he said.

(Primary health care is defined as first-contact care, or that which a patient receives in the doctors' office.)

Canada spends more on caring for persons in hospital than any other country and the reason for that, said McCready, is that a doctor is encouraged to treat patients there instead of elsewhere.

Manitoba hopes to collect at community clinics many patients who otherwise would be admitted to hospitals. The clinics would be staffed by salaried doctors.

The Manitoba Medical Association, which represents the province's fee for service doctors in negotiations with government, got the news from Dr. T. M. Tulchinksy, appointed associate deputy minister of health in that province last Aril.

Tulchinksy is married to the daughter of Tommy Douglas, former national leader of the NDP who, when premier of Saskatchewan, promised that province the medicare plan adopted in 1962.

McCreary, however, is not the first doctor from B.C. to present such strident arguments in favor of community clinics.

Last summer, Dr. G. R. Foulkes, executive director of Royal Columbian Hospital, New Westminster, wrote a three-part series in the magazine Canadian Doctor that advocated such centres.

Manitoba Uproar Watched by B.C.

One of Foulkes' arguments was that something had to be done about the lack of quality control in medicine practised outside a hospital.

He quoted results of studies of doctors in Ontario and Nova Scotia that showed most had inadequate history-taking skills. In 50 per cent of the doctors' practices, urine was never microscopically examined.

Perhaps the most striking findings were the scores for sterile techniques. Ten per cent of the doctors sampled in Ontario and 46 per cent of the Nova Scotia sample were given zero for techniques that were grossly defective.

Foulkes also notes that patients who are seen in community clinics are prescribed fewer drugs and have fewer operations than those who visit doctors in ordinary practices.

McCreary
. . . urgent need

The lower surgical experience rates, says Foulkes, "may be due to the removal of the economic incentive to over-service by the use of salary or capitation reimbursement of the physician.'

(In one of the articles, Foulkes states that B.C. surgeons have one of the highest rates for hernia operations in North America.)

The New Westminster doctor also said existing fee for service practices can be controlled by a paying agency (such as the government-administered medicare plan) but it would require close supervision and the application of strict rules.

"Such an arrangement seems unlikely to have any real advantages over prepaid group practice with physician reimbursement on capitation or salary basis," writes Foulkes.

He also suggests that the philosophical basis for the community clinic style of health care cannot be ignored.

"There may, in fact, be a new motivation for practice in the organization described. Much of the effectiveness may be the result of physicians providing care in a setting that they feel is the right one."

Pomp, Precision Display On Princess Pat's Day

A display of pomp, ceremony, and precision drill will take place at Work Point barracks Nov. 20 when the third Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry receives its colors from Governor-General Roland Michner.

A force's spokesman told a press conference Friday that although 2,000 invitations to the ceremony have been sent out, all Victoria area residents are welcome.

He said spectators are asked to park their cars at the Esquimalt Sports Centre parking lot and special buses will be available to take them to and from the barracks.

He advised that spectators should arrive between 1:30 and 2 p.m.

The governor-general is expected to arrive at 2:30 p.m.

The battalion was formerly the 1st Battalion of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada but was redesignated when the Queen's Own Rifles was removed from the forces' regular order of battle last year.

The colors to be presented will be the first carried by this battalion, because rifle regiments traditionally carry their battle honors emblazoned on their drums.

The presentation of the colors by the governor-general will be part of his Centennial 71 tour of the province from Nov. 18 to Nov. 24.

Governor-general and Mrs. Michener will arrive in Victoria Nov. 20 where they will be guests of Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson.

The vice-regal party will visit the B.C. Forest Products installations in Victoria Nov. 22. The following day it will tour Nanaimo and then go to Port Alberni to visit the MacMillan Bloedel mill.

Church Refuses To Denounce Aid

LONDON (AP) — The General Synod of the Church of England has refused to denounce cash aid given by the World Council of Churches to national liberation movements.

But the synod also declined to open a special account for contributions toward the fund.

A motion expressing regret at World Council grants to "groups openly committed to violence" was defeated 199 to 143 at a synod meeting this week.

Try our hot water heater for three months–free. We think it's that hot.

WHAT'S SO HOT?

The recovery rate. You get lots of hot water (75 gallons an hour) when you need it. And that's what a hot water heater is for, isn't it? To prove our point, we'll provide you with one rent-free for three months.

YES, IT'S BRAND NEW.

With a ten year tank warranty. It's compact, rust-proof, fully insulated and glass-lined. Installation of up to $80 is free too, whether you keep the heater or not.

WHY THIS OFFER?

Frankly, we want your business. And letting you try a water heater gives us a chance to prove we're better. There are no catches, just two conditions. Understandably, you must already have an oil-fired furnace, and, if you agree to try a water heater you contract to buy top quality Chevron Heating Fuel.

WHAT DO I DO TO KEEP IT?

Just tell us after the three months and you can arrange to lease or buy. Leasing works out as little as $4.13 a month. Or you can buy it over a period of ten years. But first, get one for your free trial.

Call your nearest Chevron Housewarmer for further details today, and get your family into lots of hot water. (This offer expires December 31, 1971).

Honest, we'd like to prove we're better

Students, Duncan Trustees To Meet

DUNCAN — Duncan Students' Action Committee will send a delegation to the next meeting of the Duncan school board — Monday at 8:00 p.m.

David Mitchell, president of the student group, said that in addition to himself, Debbie Robertson, Marlene Goley, Heather Bronson and Bob McKinnie will comprise the delegation to meet with the school board.

The students recently issued an open letter to the Duncan board protesting its action in attempting to opt out of its obligation to remain as a participant in Malaspina College.

G. F. Dyson, secretary-treasurer of the Duncan school board, has advised Mitchell that the board will receive the delegation Monday.

Mitchell also said that his committee is planning to send representatives to the North Cowichan Ratepayers Association meeting scheduled for Tuesday at the South End firehall in Duncan.

Mitchell said that no written brief would be presented at either meeting.

Faithful Blood Donors

Need for blood donors has always been evident to Duncan's senior ambulance attendant, 48-year-old Quin Mann of 1068 Islay, Duncan. With exception of 12-year-old son Lee — who is too young to donate — entire family shares dad's attitude. At clinics of recent years, Mann family has donated 70 pints. Seated are Quin, daughter Judy, 21 and wife Ruth. Rear from left are Chris, 23 and Brian, 22, while front left are Bill, 20 and Richard, 16 — holding reminders that Red Cross clinics are planned for Dec. 15 and 16 — 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. both days — at Duncan United Church.

Cowichan Bay Votes On Sewerage Bylaw

DUNCAN — Ratepayers in the Cowichan Bay area will go to the polls Dec. 11 to vote on a $295,000 sewer system referendum.

The Cowichan Valley Regional District Board Wednesday night agreed to place the money bylaw before the electorate. About 200 residents will be eligible to vote.

Recommendation for the sewer system — with a secondary treatment plant within the "Cowichan Bay sewer specified area" — came from North Cowichan Alderman Donald Morton.

"I recommend the acceptance of the bylaw," he said. "It deals with a total amount only and does not compel the board to go ahead with the scheme. It really only gives us permission to borrow the money and make a levy over a prescribed area if the voters in that area agree."

He explained that costs for the average homeowner would be about $122 a year.

Morton said in the specified sewer area 150 of the 190 lots have dwellings. He also stated: "Starboard Investments have a potential of 89 lots but are prepared to subdivide 25 or to give a legal commitment to pay on 25 lots if they are not yet in existence.

"I believe that there is a need for immediate action to try and take advantage of the present available loans. Director Jev Tothill of Cowichan Bay and the Advisory Planning Commission of his electorate area have agreed to give this board reasonable assurance that this sewer scheme is favored and wanted by enough property owners to justify the expense of placing this bylaw before the public."

Chairman of the Saltair Recreation Commission, Harry Smith, asked the regional board to impose a regular "funding" for recreational purposes and board chairman Bruce Devitt suggested a meeting between regional board officials and members of the Saltair Recreation Commission to discuss the matter further. Smith said it is the intention of his recreation commission to carry out a house to house canvass to seek support for a regular levy for recreation.

The board agreed to enter into an agreement with the department of municipal affairs to have an inventory program set up for the entire region at the cost of $2,500. Criticism to spend more money on planning after a zoning bylaw was turned down by the provincial government last July was voiced by Duncan Alderman Hamish Mutter who said "a deliberate short circuit" was created.

Nanaimo Teaching Wage Disputed

NANAIMO — Contract negotiations between the Nanaimo School district and the Nanaimo district teachers' association have been referred to binding arbitration after the two sides were unable to agree on wage increases to be granted the teachers.

And the Ladysmith District Teachers' Association has announced that its teachers are unable to reach agreement with the Ladysmith board on a contract settlement.

In Nanaimo, the teachers turned down the board's 6.2 per cent offer at a special meeting earlier in the week, and the board turned down the teachers' proposal of 8.3 per cent.

In Ladysmith, the teachers told the board it could not reach agreement when the board said it would have to limit its increases to 6.5 per cent — the figure which education minister Donald Brothers has said is the limit the provincial government will share in salary increases.

The teachers had originally asked for 8.9 per cent increase, of which .6 per cent would be in fringe benefits.

Before Brothers' announcement, the teachers said, there was a "general feeling between the board and teachers" that the increase would be between 7 and 8 per cent.

Nanaimo conciliator Ted Barsby said that in the district "both sides understood very well that there are province-wide forces in being which have in practice made a settlement on a local level not practicable."

In Victoria, the board and association are also getting ready to apply for arbitration, in case it is necessary, but direct negotiations are continuing.

Union Bay Break-In

Theft Charges Net Youth, 18, Prison Term

COURTENAY — An 18-year-old Union Bay youth, Danny Kenneth Readshaw, was sentenced to four months definite and 12 months indeterminate Friday when he appeared before Judge John Ryland.

The accused faced two counts of theft and eight counts of breaking and entry — which occurred between Sept. 1 and Oct. 23 in Union Bay.

A blood alcohol reading of .20 per cent was termed as "truly appalling" by the judge when he fined Ralph Lester Munro, 46, of Courtenay $300 and prohibited him from driving for three months.

A Cumberland man, David Perrin, 21, was told he should be grateful for "the patience and perseverance of police" when he was fined $200 after conviction on a charge of obstructing a peace officer.

He interfered with police who were arresting a man who subsequently escaped custody for a brief time.

NANAIMO — Political involvement on the part of businessmen is required to end an academic and left wing bias to government policy making said B.C. Liberal party leader Mel Couvelier at a chamber of commerce meeting in Nanaimo Wednesday.

He charged that governments are getting their policy advice from academics alone, that businessmen seldom take part in this planning.

Lobby groups are increasing at such a rate that they make less and less impact, Couvelier said.

He recommended involvement in policy making of political parties as a more effective means of getting ideas across effectively.

"Businessmen should become publicly involved," he said. It should be a source of pride to wear a party label as it is in politically sophisticated countries.

New parties are not what is needed, he said, but allegiance to established parties.

He said the cost of governing in Canada has increased by 2,100 per cent since 1939 and that no party is campaigning on the issue of reducing government costs.

Post Kept

VANCOUVER (CP) — Stuart Furk of Nanaimo has been re-elected president of the Institute of Accredited Public Accountants of British Columbia.

Funds From Three-Act Play To Aid Regional Arts Group

DUNCAN — Cowichan Valley theatre association will present the three-act play The Shop at Sly Corner to aid the Cowichan Valley regional arts council in its attempt to bring more cultural events to the Cowichan Valley area. The play will be performed during the first week next month at the Cowichan high school auditorium.

The cast will include Digby Smith, Robert MacLean, Jean Davis, Alison Evans, Norma Mole, Peggy Smith, David Proctor, Norman Flower, Allan Mole and William Abram. Director John Getgood said the play was written by Edward Percy who is also the author of the play Ladies in Retirement.

He said, "both plays created quite a theatrical sensation when they were first performed on the professional stage. The Shop at Sly Corner can truly be described as top family entertainment, ideally suited for those people who would like to see a show without any sex, sadism or coarse language."

Proceeds from the play will go to the arts council whose aim it is to stimulate and encourage the development of cultural projects and activities, giving assistance to qualified persons who may be able to raise the standards of the arts.

Getgood said "the arts council has become well-known within a short time, mainly because of the bold attempts that were, and still are, being made to establish a theatre in the Duncan area. While the attempts have not been entirely successful so far, the project has not been abandoned. However, there has not and will not be any appeal to the public for money. Instead, it is the groups within the region who, in their various ways, will be attempting to assist the objectives of the regional arts council."

Courtenay Donates $600

Chamber's Financial Woes Eased

COURTENAY — Money problems which have plagued the Courtenay-Comox Chamber of Commerce have been relieved in part by a $600 grant from the city of Courtenay.

At a meeting Wednesday — in which a 12-man board was elected to take office in January — it was announced the chamber now has cash on hand totalling $395.58.

The newly-elected board will later select a president from its ranks.

Elected to the board of directors were Al Mitchell, Mrs. Bebe Cleverly, Mrs. Ruth McKellar, Molly Johnson, Bill Reid, Doug Newson Jr., Ian Maxted, Al Seymour, John Olfert, Bill Flemming, Doug Handel and Wilf Anderton.

In other business:

- Mitchell told the meeting that proposals for operation of a Forbidden Plateau ski train should be tabled for a year. He said everyone was in favor of the idea but the general feeling was that "the ski hills needed be expanded before more people were urged to ski."
- Certificates of merit from the Park and Tilford beautification contest were presented to Stan Laver of Laver's Department Stores and Brian Hemingway of Chatelaine Developments.
- Alderman Harry Harris, representing Mayor George Hobson, said there are many things which could be promoted to bring Courtenay to the attention of the public. He pointed out that it has the largest log cabin — the Native Sons' Hall — which he felt should be open for public viewing — as well as the shortest river — only a mile in length.
- Parking problems in the city were discussed and Mrs. Cleverly was appointed to speak to council at the next meeting with a proposal on this matter.

Chemainus Mill Not Affected By Clocks Order

CHEMAINUS — The recent announcement by MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. that it intends to eliminate time clocks at its British Columbia operations did not surprise mill management or workers of the company's Chemainus sawmill divison.

There, most time clocks went out in early 1969, according to personnel supervisor Gordon Swanson.

He said at one time there were four time clocks at the mill. Only one — "Clock No. 3" — is used now by weekend and casual employees.

Second vice-president of Local 1-80, IWA, Jack Mumm said:

"We maintain that time clocks are an 18th century method. It is just another hangover from the master-servant relationship."

Duncan Crash Injures Six

DUNCAN — Six persons were treated and released from the Cowichan District Hospital following a two-car, head-on collision on Bell McKinnon Road Thursday night. Drivers of the two cars were Elfrida Seymour, 19, of Westholme and John Facey, 26, of Duncan. Police estimated damage to the two cars at about $2,000.

New Fulford Dock Nice –But Fishing Hole Gone

By BEA HAMILTON
Colonist Correspondent

FULFORD — A new B.C. Ferries dock large enough to accommodate any of the fleet's large vessels is in service on Salt Spring Island.

The opening of the new dock — to be used most regularly by the tiny Salt Spring Queen — did not rate a big celebration with flag raising and speeches by officials, but it did bring praise from the man who has to see to the raising and lowering of the ramp:

"It all went so smoothly," said Howard Horel, who now has merely to press a lever and up goes the electric ramp.

The new berth was first used Oct. 29.

A waiting room at the end of the wharf is bright and electric-heated — nice view, too.

Yet to come are chain-link fences and locks — the inevitable.

It's a little sad, too, that youngsters who once delighted in fishing rocks beneath the old dock will do so no more — the area has been filled with tons of gravel and rock and has been capped with blacktop.

Health Spa Answer to Sedentary Life Style

Good Conditioning Key to Better Health

By ELIZABETH DUNN
Colonist Correspondent

And with the assistance of a man who once did 5,500 situps, new contours are not really that surprising. "I am never amazed at the results of my clients — although they certainly are" said Johnston, owner of Duncan's newest offering to the self-conscious woman a — The Figure Beauty Health Spa.

Johnston blamed our shape — or lack of it — on a sedentary life style, and named proper exercise as the best cure-all for improving heart action, breathing, digestion, and weight — to list only a few.

"All I'm interested in are results — anyone can change the shape of any part of their body if they are willing to spend the time" he stressed.

If this all sounds like the beginning of a vigorous bout of self-denial, it shouldn't. One of the important part of an exercise program, according to Johnston, is that it be enjoyable. "This should be something that a person looks forward to and it should be taken up for the rest of their life, not just a limited period of time."

Wally Johnston . . . 5,500 situps

The club has been open over a month, and is located in the Duncan city centre on Station Street. Johnston also gives diet advice to his clients, knowledge he gained from a brief stint as a medical student before he switched into a physical education program.

The result of all this? Well, if you're like Johnston, you will stop looking at girls the way you have been. "When I see a girl now, I don't see her over-all shape as much as I notice the different parts, and whether they are exercised or flabby."

Squeeze on 'Illegal' Suites Launched in Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI — A survey of "illegal" suites in the city has been called for by the Alberni Apartment Owners Association.

In a letter to city council this week, the association also asked for enforcement of building bylaws to prevent more illegal suites from cropping up.

The landlords group also asked for a bylaw to permit collection of security deposits; guarantee of payment of rent and damage costs to landlords for tenants on welfare and for pressure to be put on the provincial government to make the homeowner grant available directly to tenants.

In addition, the association wants a breakdown of financing for Port Alberni's proposed low-cost housing project.

Alderman George McKnight moved that the requests be referred to the committee of the whole which is already in the process of considering the problem of so-called illegal suites and a security deposit bylaw.

McKnight said some of the statements made by the association's lawyer were "not exactly factual" and he felt it would be advantageous to them to meet with council and discuss the various problems from both sides.

"Illegal suites" frequently arise when members of a family are permitted to occupy basement accommodation and later, when the family members move, the illicit accommodation is frequently rented to outsiders — thus becoming an illegal suite McKnight said.

One problem, he said, is that nothing can legally be done by the city about suites that came into existence prior to zoning regulations of 1969.

Illegal suites in most cases are suites in basements of houses in areas zoned for single family occupancy.

The association's letter suggests that illigal suites that meet the necessary requirements be permitted to operate on a temporary yearly permit.

The association also suggested that since the city favors public low-cost housing, it should put pressure on the provincial government to make the homeowner grant directly available to tenants.

Strike Slows Harbor Trade

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — The United States' Pacific coast dock strike had a detrimental effect on shipping through Port Alberni on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Harbormaster Don Brooks has reported that the monthly volume of cargo at Port Alberni during September and October was about 40 per cent below average — because of a shortage of ships.

1—A PRIME COUNTRY PROPERTY
16 miles from Victoria centre. 10.4 acres situated 300 yards from, and overlooking, the sunny sheltered Saanich Inlet. This property is being operated as a bulb farm, but is actually a registered subdivision of 13 lots, averaging ¾ acre a piece. There is a comfortable older two-storey farm home with 1700 sq. ft. on the main floor, and two rented cottages. The buildings are ringed with healthy fruit trees and evergreens. It is difficult to find view property in North Saanich on a par with these Ardmore lots but a comparison of prices will show this parcel to have sound value at an asking price of $125,000. A syndicate purchase is suggested, either for holding or for an immediate prestige development.

HUGE TUDOR MANSION
ON 5 SECLUDED ACRES
Overlooking a lovely valley, on the fringe of Mt. Douglas Park, this beautiful property has space for development for horses, etc. The magnificent home has a LARGE SLATE-COVERED entrance, BIG living room, large dining area in-line, HUGE spacious kitchen with dining-room size eating area, large DEN with en-suite bathroom, there are SIX large bedrooms with the Master Bedroom having complete en suite bathroom, as well as an adjoining STUDY. There is a LARGE RUMPUS ROOM with FIREPLACE. In all there are FOUR bathrooms. Large utility room, storage rooms, etc. At present three lower rooms are rented for $150 per mo. which pays the taxes. IN ADDITION there is a HUGE sundeck with built-in barbecue and a long veranda with a lovely view. To build this lovely home today would exceed the asking price WITHOUT THE LAND. A BELIEVE-IT-OR-NOT price of $79,000. Several hours are required for appointments to VIEW. As this property lies at the end of a long, private driveway, it cannot be seen from the road, so drive-bys impossible.

IT'S AN EXPERIMENT!!
IT'S AN EXPERIMENT!!!
What is? This advertisement is, that's what is! The experiment is two-fold. ONE, to see if there's a home, or lot, or revenue property herein which will be answer to your dreams, and TWO, to see if you're REALLY INTERESTED ENOUGH IN FULFILLING YOUR DREAM TO READ ALL THE WAY THROUGH AND FIND OUT! For yourself! Ready? Set? Then let's go! How about a cosy-suite-living, plus-good-revenue, triplex ... near sea, park, and town ... spotless ... excellent condition ... full price only $24,950. Not quite right? Then try this: fine, modern, 3-bedroom, family home, on very large north Quadra lot, with ADDED BONUS of separate-entrance revenue suite renting for $100-mo! It's a have-your-cake-and-eat-it, bargain at $25,900! Call Dick Batey, 592-4607 or 386-1361, and I'll serve up a viewing! Like living-space, and super-convenience, but don't like gardening (much)? So here's a spotless, as-new, 4-bedrooms, 2-bathroom beauty on Shelbourne near shopping, university, schools ... and only $25,950! Want something better? With a spectacular view? With 5 BR's, 3 bathrooms? 30' rec room? Sundeck? And top-drawer quality and condition? No problem! Call me about a $49,500 Cordova Heights opportunity? Dick Batey, 592-4607 or 386-1361. Still better, you say? And waterfront to boot? Presto! No problem! Two lovely Landsenders ... one at $55,000; the other at $97,500; and both worth every cent! Both have a lovely-acre of land with private waterfront; the 55-er has 3 BR's, 2 bathrooms; the 97.5-er is ultimate luxury-crafted and has EVERYTHING, including, if you please, a full, lower, ground-level luxury-living suite! Call me for details! Still with me? But not yet found yours? So how about a lot? Say a superb virgin-timbered, near-sea-and-marinas, paved cul-de-sac, sewered, Sidney prime, prime, one ... V.L.A.-sized ... for $10,650? Or an unparallelled rock-headland matchless-view Landsend-acre, secluded yet convenient, and very, very, unique, for only $39,500? Remember the name and number to call? DICK BATEY, 592-4607 or 386-1361. But perhaps ... just perhaps ... and it will depend on your personal preferences ... I've saved the best twosome for the lagend! One is a virtually new, timbered, children-in-mind-designed, spacious, and distinctive, Broadmead home ... with 5 BR's, sufficient bathrooms, rec room, Inn-style L.R., separate Dr., and feed-a-family kitchen. A genuine Broadmead bargain at $44,950. 'T'other is a sort of close-in-small-ranch, acreage-with-two-homes-many trees-orchard-and-outbuildings, affair. Unbelievably close in (3½ mile circle) near University and a living-and-holding chance not to be missed if you can wangle it! Price? With almost 11 acres, less than $9600 per acre? There, see? You made it! All the way thru, that is! So call me if any, here, click; and call me if they don't ... maybe I'll find you one that will! Click, I mean! DICK BATEY, 592-4607 or 386-1361!

Sweet Season

Well, Men You Had Your Day

- Women first to be fired. Page 37

A friendly warning to the men of Victoria.

Those 77 women meeting at the University of Victoria this weekend are not discussing their knitting, nor are they exchanging recipes.

The only patterns they are interested in are the ones that will lead to the complete downfall of the dominant male.

But though infiltration wouldn't have been difficult, not one man turned up Friday night at the opening session of a conference on women's rights.

And by tonight it will be too late for a man to do anything.

They will be ready to elect women to public office, to increase the income of women — maybe they'll even be ready to ask husbands to pay their wives the going rate for the services they offer.

With wages what they are for janitors, chefs and seamstresses, that could leave a fellow well below the poverty level himself.

And Friday night there were the poor innocents staying away, neither knowing nor caring that they may soon be facing a confrontation with women as dedicated and ruthless as the old suffragettes.

Even the usually calm Oak Bay Mayor Francis Elford conceded during a discussion on ways of getting more women into public office that the Women's Liberationists who recently confronted Prime Minister Trudeau in Ottawa had a good point.

"I think they focused attention on a problem, and I wonder if we would have had the laws we got if it hadn't been for them," she said.

"We wouldn't even have the vote today if some very respectable women hadn't been prepared to act in a manner quite foreign to the way they had been brought up," she said.

Here are some of the things the UVic conference is discussing:

- They want to abolish ladies auxiliaries to men's groups.
- They want to cut out the special women's political groups and have the women join political parties as (shudder) equal members.
- There might be enough of them there to outvote men — they may even be able to nominate their own candidates and get women elected.

And the conference organizers were chuckling happily about the lack of male representation at the gathering.

"They're sure going to be surprised when they see what we're cooking up," said one.

Course First of It's Kind in Province

Retarded Child Care Aides Graduate

By BARBARA McLINTOCK
Colonist Reporter

There were a lot of firsts at a simple graduation ceremony held Friday afternoon at Glendale Hospital.

The 30 students graduating were the first in a class to train child-care aides to work specifically with the retarded.

They were members of the first class to graduate from Camosun College since it came into existence, incorporating the old Institute of Adult Studies and the B.C. Vocational School.

And the class was the first of its sort in the province, and may be used as a prototype for a future continuing class in child-care work with the retarded.

The idea for the class started when the new Glendale Hospital realized it was going to need about 60 child-care aides to work with the 300 retarded patients who will eventually occupy the hospital.

Inquiries to the provincial education department and Canada Manpower showed there was not such a course in existence in B.C., so the hospital decided to start its own.

Glendale psychologist Dr. John Higenbottam agreed to teach the training course, and the B.C. Vocational School (as it was then) agreed to allow the course to be taught under its auspices and to do the administrative work involved in it.

A total of 35 students began working in the course in the first week of September, and 30 of these received diplomas as child-care aides at the Friday ceremony.

They will provide the first 30 of the aides needed by the hospital as more and more patients move into it from other institutions around the province.

The course has been successful enough, Higenbottam said, that a second group of 35 students will begin training Monday. They will provide the second group of 30 aides needed by Glendale.

At the same time, he said, the provincial education department is doing a study to determine if there is a need for a continuing course of this type.

If a survey of B.C. institutions serving the retarded shows there is such a need, the Glendale-Camosun course may well become a prototype for this training throughout the province.

The course, Higenbottam said, involves a combination of academic and practical work. Overall the students spend about half their time in the classroom and half working on the wards under the supervision of a nursing team.

'The more you know, the better you can do.'

The academic work, he said, is given on about a first-year university level and involves a discussion of the basis of retardation, genetic factors in retardation, various syndromes, and ways of training the retarded.

On the wards, the aides are particularly concerned with the basic care of the patients — washing, dressing, feeding and so on. But emphasis is on having the patients learn to do these things themselves.

The students have improved dramatically in their ability to work with the patients and to get them to do things for themselves, Higenbottam said.

John Drysdale, principal of the trades and vocational training division of Camosun College (formerly the vocational school) said the normal academic requirement for entering the course was a complete Grade 10, but this is a few cases had been waived.

The students, he said, had been carefully screened to check their emotional stability and ability to stand the strain of the work. There is a waiting list of students who wish to take the course.

Many, he said, had previous experience working with the handicapped, often in volunteer programs.

The class ranged in age from 18 to 62, but most were in their twenties, he said. About three times as many girls as boys took part.

The students themselves said the training had been of great use to them.

The best part of it, said Arlene Morris, of 1165 Yates, was "the responsibility. We know it's up to us to get these people to do as much as they can."

Eleanor McCaffery, of 1106 Balmoral, said she wished the course had lasted longer than its 10 weeks. "There's so much more to know about retardation," she said, "and the more you know the better you can do."

"Everybody in the hospital ought to take it," said Mrs. Betty Keller, of 4144 Wilkinson Road. "Even the nurses could learn from it."

Motorist's Condition Critical

A 66-year-old Sidney man was reported in critical condition late Friday in St. Joseph's Hospital after a spectacular accident in downtown Victoria which may have come after he suffered a heart attack.

Victoria police said the man, Archibald Davies, was driving his car on Herald when it suddenly went out of control near Blanshard. It crossed Blanshard, mounted a traffic island in mid-street, crossed northbound lanes, went over a curb and hit the Morris Printing Building, 1745 Blanshard.

Davies' wife Lucy, 66, was treated at the hospital for cuts around her mouth while Mrs. Elvyn Donaldson, 640 Dallas, was treated for minor injuries received when the car hit the part of the building where she was working.

The incident was one of two which jammed downtown traffic in the hour after 12:30 noon. The other was a grease fire which started at about 12:30 in the London Fish and Chips Cafe, 723 Pandora, and caused damage estimated at $300.

Third Woman Joins Civic Race

Heynsbroek
'. . . growing concern'

Campaigning for the Dec. 11 Victoria elections continued to pick up speed Friday with a third woman entering the aldermanic race, and a citizens' group declaring its active support for a partial slate of candidates.

The candidates to be supported by the Committee of Concerned Victorians (CCV) are Ald. Peter Pollen for mayor and Mrs. Heynsbroek and Jim Beaubien for aldermen.

Declaration of support for the two remaining candidates is withheld, pending further interviews of contestants by the CCV, a spokesman for the group told the Colonist Friday.

Mrs. Heynsbroek, of 1448 Vining, said in an interview she decided to run for alderman because "I have a growing concern about the way matters are going in the city."

She said she is "totally and unalterably opposed" to any highrise development at Victoria's waterfront.

"In fact, I would like to see the city acquire all waterfront property in Victoria over the next 40 or 50 years. That's how long it will probably take," she said.

Another major problem, Mrs. Heynsbroek said, was the "great need" for amalgamation of the city's four core municipalities.

"This is probably more urgent than any of the other problems. It isn't fair that the relatively small city population must support the outlying areas in so many ways," she said.

Council, she said, should respond more to the wishes of the people. Aldermen should be willing to carry out the wishes of the voters, even if they don't agree with those wishes.

Mrs. Heynsbroek was born in England, moved to Canada 11 years ago and came to Victoria in 1965.

She worked as a registered nurse at the Veterans' Hospital and the Chinese Hospital. Because of a back injury, she has been unable to work in her profession for the past few months.

"All my life I've been involved in volunteer work in the communities where we lived. Since I'm not working anymore, I feel I can contribute substantially to the city's welfare," Mrs. Heynsbroek said.

Mrs. Heynsbroek was the third woman to announce her candidacy for the Victoria aldermanic race. The other two are Mrs. Margaret Richards and Mrs. Sally Rogers, both housewives.

The total number of candidates running for the four vacancies has now reached 10. The others are Ald. Clyde Savage, Ald. Ove Witt, Bill Tindall, Bob Ellis, Alf. Hood, Mike Young, and Beaubien.

Four candidates are competing in the mayoral race. They are incumbent Mayor Courtney Haddock, Saanich Ald. Foster Isherwood, Bill Scott and Pollen.

He said the group hasn't interviewed Haddock because "his record is there before us and we didn't think it was necessary to talk to him."

Last-Ditch Plea Planned For Troubled Campaign

The 1971 Victoria United Appeal will be lucky if it collects enough money to equal last year's total of $651,000, Appeal campaign chairman Eric Charman said Friday.

Charman told a press conference the Appeal had now reached $500,000 — about two-thirds of its objective — but projecting the totals onto last year's figures showed the most likely final result was between $625,000 and $650,000.

The Appeal's goal for this year was $758,723.

Continued failure of the Appeal to reach its goal, he said, could cause it to "fall apart" as agencies dropped out when the Appeal could not meet their financial needs.

Charman said he, co-chairman Floyd Fairclough and leaders of areas in the Appeal would try, over the weekend, to find a new approach for a "last-ditch appeal" but they were not sure one would be successful.

He believed, he said, that poor economic conditions were responsible for many of the decreases, especially in employee giving.

But, he added, he believed that a decrease in community spirit in the Victoria area was another reason the Appeal was having trouble making its goal.

Campbell River, he noted, had gone over the top, and he did not think economic conditions there were much better than in Victoria.

Report Calls for Policing Of Foreign Investment

—CP

Gray

TORONTO (CP) — A cabinet study is reported to recommend creation of a government agency with broad policing powers to control foreign investment in Canada and allow domestic industries to compete effectively.

This proposal is contained in a Canadian Forum magazine article presented as an abridged version of a report to the federal cabinet prepared by Revenue Minister Herb Gray.

The report's approach to control of foreign investment would permit the proposed agency to tailor its actions to specific situations. Its powers might range from direct prohibition of foreign investment to negotiations for manufacturing rights for a Canadian firm.

The entire December issue of the magazine, a literary journal, is devoted to the foreign-ownership report. Managing Editor Abraham Rotstein says the editors believe it is the "definitive text" of the cabinet document, which has not yet been released by the government.

Rotstein said the 75,000-word article is an edited version of the minister's 200,000-word report presented to the cabinet in May. Technical passages and areas of duplication were eliminated, but Forum editors did not add to or paraphrase the report, he said.

Rotstein would not say how the magazine obtained the report, but he said it was not received from a cabinet minister or a civil servant.

Proposals in the report revolve around creation of a "screening agency," which could be an adjudicative tribunal or an administrative agency responsible to a cabinet minister.

"In light of the government's industrial strategy, the screening authorities would seek to secure the best possible deal from foreign investment, and to block its entry where it is not beneficial," the article quotes the report as saying.

The screening agency would be concerned with takeovers by foreign firms, direct investment, licensing and franchising, expansion of existing foreign-controlled firms, Canadian multi-national companies and foreign firms now operating in Canada.

The report recommends the screening-agency approach over other alternatives, such as a "key-sector program" or majority-Canadian-control rules.

The report, in effect, provides an alternative to the proposals for majority-control legislation made by a Commons committee and the key-sector approach which the

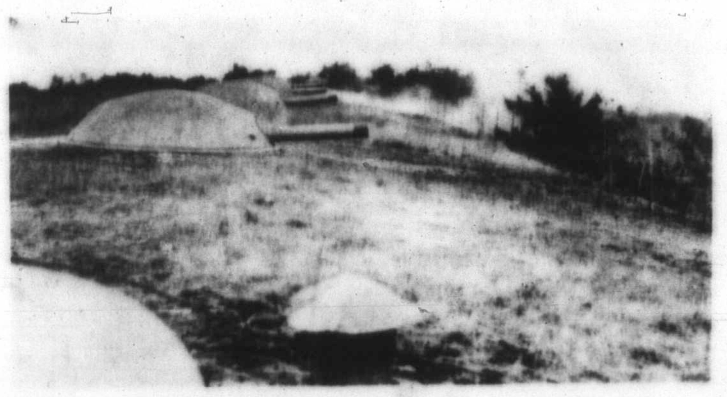
'Cabinet Pondering Policy Proposals'

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau's office said Friday night that the cabinet is still discussing policy proposals on the foreign ownership of Canadian industry.

A brief statement acknowledged that a report published earlier Friday by a magazine was based on "one draft" of a study prepared for the cabinet.



'Impregnable' bunkers of Maginot Line

French Ministry Looking For Concrete Proposals

METZ, France (Reuter) — For sale at auction: Impregnable 20th-century fortifications. Make good hunting lodges, second homes or atomic shelters. All with armored doors, six rooms, air conditioning. Need decorating.

Those are the details that defence ministry officials hope will lure Frenchmen into the bidding when the concrete bunkers of the Maginot Line are offered for sale next week.

The fortifications were named after the French defence minister who started construction along the Franco-German border in 1927. No one really knows whether they are really impregnable.

This is a second attempt to sell the bunkers. There were no takers when parts of the line were put up for auction several years ago.

'Virtual State Of War'

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — A senior official of the Pakistan government said Friday a "virtual state of war" exists on the border between India and Pakistan.

Foreign Secretary S.M. Khan said people are being killed, tanks, artillery and mortars are firing into Pakistani territory, troops are making incursions into Pakistan, and Indian officials are talking of occupying border cities and holding them.

"It is a virtual state of war," Khan said, adding that the only reason it has not expanded is the restraint — preumably Pakistani restraint — being shown.

He also accused Indian of using the millions of Pakistan refugees in her territory for "political blackmail," of helping East Pakistani guerrillas, many of whom he said are criminals and anti-social elements, and of violating the UN charter.

But he did not say that Pakistan would ask the Security Council to meet to deal with the situation, saying only that this recourse is being considered.

Plane Hijacker Knocked Out

CALGARY, Alta. (UPI) — A masked man armed with a sawed-off shotgun and dynamite hijacked an Air Canada jet with 127 persons aboard Friday night and ordered the plane back and forth between Canada and the United States before being knocked out by a crew member. The passengers were released earlier.

Just before landing the pilot of the big DC-8 four-engine jet radioed that the hijacker, who claimed he was a member of the Irish Republican Army, was unconscious, Air Canada officials said. The pilot, however, called for bomb disposal experts to stand by.

The hijacker was captured when a crew member struck him with a fire axe as the man was bending over to put on a parachute he was carrying, Air Canada said. A local hospital reported the hijacker suffered lacerations on his head.

Earlier the man had extracted $50,000 ransom for the release of the passengers and most of the crew during the second time it landed at Great Falls, Mont.

"The guy was wearing a mask and holding what appeared to be dynamite and a sawed-off shotgun," an Air Canada spokesman said in Montreal.

The plane, on a flight from Vancouver to Montreal, landed in Great Falls under orders from the hijacker, who had demanded $1.5 million. He received $50,000 and the plane took off for Regina, but then turned back to discharge the passengers.

The plane took off again and according to an Air Cana-

Beware of Wrath Of Evangelisti

FIUGGI, Italy (UPI) — Nestore Evangelisti lined his "helicopter gunship" on target, squeezed the trigger and . . . SPLAT! It was a black day for the ladies of pleasure of Figuggi.

The ink raid, followed by a heavy rainfall, drove a score of the miniskirted girls from their habitual haunt along the Asole-Fiuggi highway.

"If they come back," Evangelisti warned Friday, "I have something worse in store for them."

The construction magnate said he has ordered several boxes of ear-shattering cherry bombs from a nearby fireworks company.

Profit, as well as prudery, were the motives for Evangelisti's one-man war.

He said they are giving a bad name to a luxury apartment complex he has built nearby.

He said several serious traffic accidents were caused when motorists stopped or slowed down to ogle the girls.

"I went to speak to the women to try to persuade them to find another place," Evangelisti said. "They refused to move. Well, they wanted war and they got it."

Runaway Car Hits Pedestrians

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Six persons were killed and nine injured Friday by an automobile that jumped a curb and plowed into a crowded sidewalk in the heart of Youngstown's business district. Police were holding the driver of the car, James Anderson, 30, for questioning.

Delicate Manoeuvres

By MARVIN MILES
Colonist-Los Angeles Times Service

PASADENA, Calif. — Mariner 9 is programmed to curl around Mars at 4:32 p.m. (PST) today and become history's first spacecraft to orbit another planet.

At the time of encounter, the probe will be about 75 million miles from Earth after coasting 248 million miles through space on a journey of almost a half a year.

But before Mariner can undertake its primary 90-day exploration of the red planet, the windmill-like spacecraft must first complete a tricky sequence of manoeuvres commanded by its electronic brain.

While earlier Mariners have accomplished similar manoeuvres in course corrections enroute to brief fly-bys of Mars, no other encounter has been so complicated. It involves, among other things, a record 15-minute burn of the probe's rocket engine to achieve orbit.

So great is the distance involved, that controllers at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here will not receive confirming signals — at the 186,000-mile-per-second speed of light — until almost seven minutes after encounter events occur.

With commands already loaded into the probe's computer brain, the first event will occur at 11:14 a.m. (PST) today when Mariner will be shifted to gyroscopic control of its roll axis which heretofore has been provided by a lock on the guide star Canopus.

This is to assure that Mariner's Canopus sensor is inoperable and cannot be lured off the star at a critical time in the encounter in the same manner it was distracted recently by reflection from a speck of dust, apparently off the spacecraft itself.

Pitch and yaw gyros will be turned on at 1:44 p.m. (PST) when the probe will no longer depend on the sun for a second stabilization lock, then Mariner will start a 43-degree roll turn about an hour later.

Powered by nitrogen jets in the spacecraft's solar panels, this roll will be one of two turns required to position

As Bennett Heads for Ottawa

Guaranteed Income Still Goal

By IAN STREET
Colonist Reporter

Premier Bennett, brandishing the senate committee report on poverty, flies to Ottawa this week to renew his demands for implementation of a guaranteed annual wage in Canada.

The premier said Friday he was "very pleased" with the over-all report, adding that while his government might argue with some of the details, "it really backs up the stand British Columbia has taken at federal - provincial conferences over the past three or four years."

Although protocol at federal provincial meetings dictates the brief not be made public at this stage, Bennett said he plans to advocate once more the adoption of the negative income tax form of guaranteed annual wage and added he plans to use some new arguments to reinforce his stand.

Just what these new arguments are, Bennett told reporters, would have to wait until the brief is made public Monday morning.

However, his arguments will likely be simply that a guaranteed annual wage is needed now to assure a basic living standard "with dignity" for all Canadians and to attempt to refute federal arguments that Canada cannot afford to adopt any such program, desirable as it may be.

Dealing with the question of costs, Bennett said Friday that a guaranteed annual wage initially established at approximately $3,000 a year for a couple, with additional payments for further dependents, was definitely within Canada's means.

He disclosed no details of the amount which would be required to finance such a program, but said present equalization grants to have-not provinces plus federal and provincial social assistance payments would be sufficient.

But, the premier added, if more money is needed to finance the plan, it will have to come out of income taxes, which would mean Ottawa and the provinces sharing equally, "because it should come out of tax revenues before they are divided."

Senator David Croll, chairman of the committee which produced the poverty report, is to be congratulated for doing "a great service to the people of Canada," Bennett said.

The proposal of a guaranteed annual income would assure all Canadians a basic living standard with dignity and "do away with red tape and bureaucracy" under present welfare programs, he added.

Asked to comment on Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi's stated opposition to the senate poverty report recommendation, Bennett said there was no conflict. He added: "I heard him (Gaglardi) on the radio and he admitted the negative income tax form of guaranteed annual wage was official provincial government policy."

It's far better, Bennett said, to make it possible for people now moving to the cities and going on welfare when they can't find jobs, to stay on their small farms in rural Quebec or elsewhere.

"There they will be happier, and there it will cost them less to live," the premier said.

The negative income tax system, according to Bennett, would first of all involve establishment of a basic floor income, which he suggested might be $3,000 for a couple, rising to "$4,000 or $5,000 as we get benefits from our expanding prosperity."

Everyone would then file an

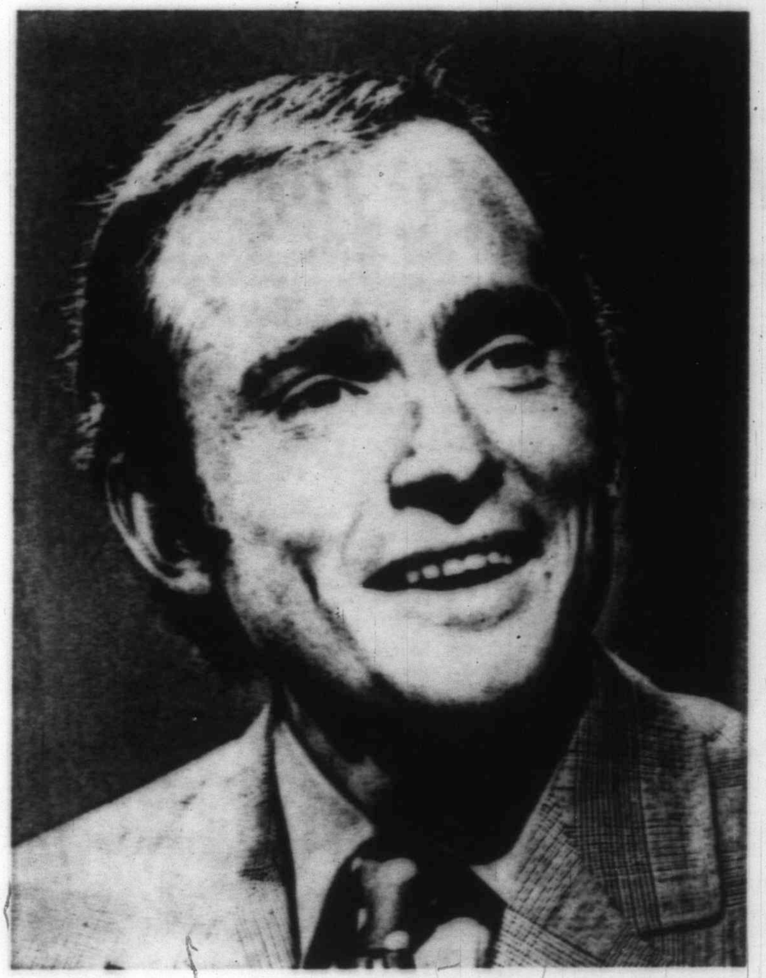
Week Commencing Saturday, November 13, 1971



In effort to save his ABC late-weeknight talk show, Dick Cavett has given in to network demand that he imitate Johnny Carson trick of keeping interest high by making trips to Hollywood. This was ABC's price for recent renewal of Cavett's contract through 1972 despite continuing low ratings well behind Carson. First Cavett shows in Tinseltown are due Dec. 7 to 17 and many will feature only one guest.

Cigarette

By BRUCE LOWTHER
Colonist Reporter

For the first time, a higher court in North America has made a ruling on the banning of cigarette advertising — and the ruling is that the ban stays.

A three-judge panel of the U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C., voted two to one that the ban on cigarette commercials on U.S. radio and television is constitutional.

In doing so, the majority rejected a claim by six eastern U.S. radio stations that the law passed in 1970 by Congress was unconstitutional.

However, the case isn't over. The fact that the court vote was split makes an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court by the radio station owners almost certain. And there's no doubt that the broadcasting industry, the U.S. government, Congress and the public want a final say from the U.S. Supreme Court.

First Court Test Split in Judgment

Cigarette Advertising Ban to Continue in U.S.

By BRUCE LOWTHER
Colonist Reporter

For the first time, a higher court in North America has made a ruling on the banning of cigarette advertising — and the ruling is that the ban stays.

A three-judge panel of the U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C., voted two to one that the ban on cigarette commercials on U.S. radio and television is constitutional.

In doing so, the majority rejected a claim by six eastern U.S. radio stations that the law passed in 1970 by Congress was unconstitutional.

However, the case isn't over. The fact that the court vote was split makes an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court by the radio station owners almost certain. And there's no doubt that the broadcasting industry, the U.S. government, Congress and the public want a final say from the U.S. Supreme Court.

The radiomen claimed the ban, which went into effect at the start of this year, violated the U.S. constitution's First Amendment dealing with freedom of speech. They said broadcast advertising qualified under the amendment's guarantee of such freedom.

But Judges Oliver Gasch and June Green replied to that claim in two ways:

- They said Congress had a "rational basis" for banning the ads on television and radio while still allowing cigarette ads in publications because broadcast commercials are the "most persuasive" form of advertising.
- And they said broadcasters still enjoy freedom of speech and freedom of the press because they can voice their opinions on the continuing controversy over smoking.

Judges Green and Gasch said radio stations "have lost no right to speak (but) have only lost an ability to collect revenue from others for broadcasting their commercial messages."

Indications that the appeal to the Supreme Court could run into trouble were seen because the third judge, Skelly Wright, toned down his vote against the constitutionality of the ban.

He said the ban "suppressed the ventilation of these issues on the country's most persuasive communications vehicle" and added the first amendment "does not only protect speech that is healthy or harmless."

Having taken that firm stand, Wright added: "It would be difficult to argue that there are many who mourn for the Marlboro Man or miss the ungrammatical Winston jingles.

"Overwhelming scientific evidence makes plain that the Salem girl was in fact a seductive merchant of death; that the real Marlboro County is a graveyard."

There was no sign when the Supreme Court might get the broadcasters' appeal but a final decision may not come for years.

The District Court defeat came only a few weeks after the U.S. Federal Communications Commission ruled anti-smoking commercials could not be banned, as some broadcasters desired.

The broadcasters said advent of the ban removed the necessity for anti-smoking ads, which were forced on TV and radio stations in the U.S. by the FCC under its fairness (equal time) doctrine.

But the FCC said anti-smoking ads could go on — it was up to each broadcaster — because the ban meant smoking was no longer a controversial issue. It might be noted Judges Gasch and Green said the controversy still existed.

For the people of Greater Victoria and the rest of Canada, the most important result of the court's ruling will be the continuing loss to U.S. television of cigarette-commercial revenue.

Until the Supreme Court decides if the ban is constitutional or the networks find alternative revenue — which means maybe never — the networks will stay with slickly-produced, inexpensive and non-controversial shows.

The expensive variety programs, specials and public affairs reports will be out and there will be a parade of imitators of the shows that are succeeding now — like Marcus Welby, All in the Family, Hawaii 5-0, Gunsmoke and situation comedies.

Those who want to watch something other than the standard run will have to tune in the CBC's Canadiana or Channel 9's Americana or the better imports like Civilisation and Elizabeth R.

The U.S. ruling does not apply to a forthcoming court test of the B.C. government's ban on cigarette and liquor advertising. Canada's courts will decide the fate of that ban on their own.

A Champa But Beer

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dick Dawson, the English con man of "Hogan's Heroes" who is now a member of "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," is divorced from actress Diana Dors and searching for a new wife. His requirements are simple but selective:

She must be a beautiful young heiress willing to be courted at hamburger stands.

"Once we're married," said Dawson, "she can take care of the little things of life — buying a jet plane, an enormous estate and give to charity."

Until he meets his ideal Dawson must content himself with a luxurious Beverly Hills home which he shares with sons Mark, 11, and Gary, 9. Their home has five bedrooms, one of which is occupied by a British nanny named Mame who has looked after the boys since infancy.

The house is commodious with a 60x23-foot living room, three sides of which are glass panels. In the centre is an enormous fireplace 18 feet in length. A bar stands at the far end with a 100-gallon tank filled with exotic tropical fish.

Successful Australian Star

Inside the Tube With Bill Mahan

One of the most talked about places throughout this country is the country of Australia. A great many Americans have already migrated there and plenty of others are thinking about making the move.

One Australian who migrated here, and made quite a success of it, is Rod Taylor, the star of CBS' new Thursday night series Bearcats. He's the only Australian since Errol Flynn who has made a solid mark in American television and feature films. As far as this country goes, Rod says it's the greatest and he has no desire to return to Australia to live. He would, however, like to return for a season or a year to do a feature or a television series, and he's got a couple of projects in the works that one day may shoot in Australia. One of them Rod describes as a sort of African Queen on a truck, the story of two opposites falling in love. (Or maybe an outback Two For The Road?) Sounds interesting. Rod is one of the few actors around today who has the ability and masculinity to play roles similar to some of the greats out of celluloid's illustrious past.

It was 102 degrees in Culver City, and the stage housing the Bearcat stars and crew was not air-conditioned. Rod and Dennis Cole, his co-star in the series, were playing a scene in a jail cell and the lights had brought the heat up to at least 107 or 108. As I stood around waiting for the scene to be finished I was amazed at the good nature and friendliness of the crew. Most people working under those undesirable conditions would have been edgy and tempers should have been flaring. Instead both stars and crew were joking around and having a genuinely good time. When the scene was finished Rod took me into his air-conditioned camper-bus and we had a beer — imported from Australia.

Rod Taylor, like many actors, went from starring in a TV series (Hong Kong) to starring in feature films (Hotel) and back to television. Unlike most actors, he says he's excited about re-entering television — the fast pace agrees with him more. In features too much time is spent sitting around, and TV of course, can't afford the time. While we were talking several other people came into the trailer and Bearcats became the topic of discussion. Rod asked one of the men why there weren't any promos or spot announcements on television to help publicize the series. The fellow answered that he was sure there were. Rod turned to me and asked if I'd seen any. No, none that I could remember. The other man said he was certain there had been, and decided to call someone at the network to confirm or deny.

The man at the network confirmed that there hadn't been many, if any, and that there had been considerable static about it already. So much static that this man — a fairly high-up executive — had been given notice because of it.

No one seemed to be able to give any answers as to why a series costing in the range of $250,000 per episode didn't have nationwide TV spots and promos. The only reason that was brought up was that the production company, not the network, wouldn't put out the extra money to make the short promos. If this is the case, then the production company will have only themselves to blame if a colorful series with a dedicated star doesn't get picked up for another season.

Ex-PM Praises CBC's Decade

Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker says the television series The Tenth Decade could make Canadians more aware of the political history of their country than any other event.

The CBC series, which started two weeks ago, is about the 1957-1968 period when Mr. Diefenbaker and Lester Pearson were the prime ministers of Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters Monday that, based on the letters he is receiving, the program has "tremendous interest." If the series continues in the manner of the first two instalments it would do more than any other event to make Canadians aware of their political history.

He said there should be more Canadian historical programs, about Canada's great explorers, pioneers and Indian fighters. There had been too much emphasis on foreign heroes — "Davey Crockett and all that nonsense."

Second Chance For Quarterback

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York Jets quarterback Joe Namath, who presided over one syndicated sports-talk show that failed, is going to get another chance. Stadium Productions is producing a weekly half-hour series of interviews and the guests are from both inside and outside the sports world.

Glenda Jackson

Glenda to Star In Elizabeth R

Elizabeth R, the eagerly-awaited BBC television series which is said to be even better than The Six Wives of Henry VIII, starts its six-week run at 9 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 5, on Channels 2 and 6.

Announcement of the starting date has been made by CBC officials in Toronto, who said each episode is 90 minutes long. The hour-long Weekend program is expected to be cut to 30 minutes to make up the difference.

Starring as the queen of England from 1558, when Elizabeth was 24, to her death at 69 in 1603, is Glenda Jackson, an English actress best known for her role in the 1970 movie Women in Love.

The six episodes deal, in order, with her youth and accession to the throne, her romance with Robert Dudley, her refusal of political courtships, her relationship with Mary Queen of Scots, the Spanish Armada and the deaths of both herself and Essex.

A CBC press release on the series says Miss Jackson went through up to 4½ hours of facial makeup each day for the role — after allowing her head to be shaved. She also learned to ride sidesaddle and to play the virginal.

Buried in the press release is a more interesting fact — the six-part series is sponsored by General Foods. This is believed to be a result of the fact the Henry VIII series drew some of the biggest audiences in CBC history, bigger even than NHL hockey.

New York Unbearable

Henry Morgan Picks Toronto as New Home

TORONTO (CP) — Henry Morgan, American television and radio personality, is settling down in Toronto, and says he plans to stay.

Mr. Morgan, 56, who made $250,000 a year at his radio peak in 1950, said in a recent interview that New York is becoming less and less bearable.

"I looked at San Francisco but it was very insular," he said. "I looked at Vancouver but there's not much radio or TV work there.

"I looked at Toronto and thought it was pretty nice so here I am: And I mean to stay."

He started broadcasting a weekday opinion show in Toronto radio station CKFM and will work once a week on Peter Gzowski's CBC morning radio show.

But he says he'll refrain for the time being from making Toronto a target for his celebrated verbal barbs.

"It's one thing for a city to laugh at itself," he said. "It's entirely different for someone to come up from New York and laugh at you. I'm going to be cautious until I get to know the place better."

HOLLYWOOD — The first night Ray Milland set professional foot on a stage, he was fired for lack of promise.

"No," he says now, 165 motion pictures and an Oscar later, "I didn't think of quitting acting just because I was fired.

"I couldn't quit, because I'd never really started. I was only 22 or 23 years old.

"The first time I was hired for a movie, I was hired as an expert marksman, not as an actor, to do some trick shooting for the picture. I only got to act because somebody else got sick."

Milland looked back toward his beginnings from a portable dressing room on Columbia's San Fernando Valley ranch where he was working in Black Noon, a new CBS Friday Night Movie.

He didn't feel well because he had been shot full of serums the day before in preparation for a trip to Lebanon within the month to make a feature film.

The weather was hot, the smog oppressive, and the Academy Award winner (for The Lost Weekend in 1946) looked ill. He said he thought his fever stood at 103 degrees.

Yet he was handsome and trying hard to be gracious.

When Milland played Ryan O'Neal's unsympathetic father in Love Story, he shocked some of his fans because he was bald and heavier than the glamorous screen lover they remembered.

However, for Black Noon, Milland was trim again, and sporting a thick, grey toupee which he said he wore to please his wife.

He touched his forehead at the hairline.

A CBC press release on the series says Miss Jackson went through up to 4½ hours of facial makeup each day for the role — after allowing her head to be shaved. She also learned to ride sidesaddle and to play the virginal.

Buried in the press release is a more interesting fact — the six-part series is sponsored by General Foods. This is believed to be a result of the fact the Henry VIII series drew some of the biggest audiences in CBC history, bigger even than NHL hockey.

HOLLYWOOD — The first night Ray Milland set professional foot on a stage, he was fired for lack of promise.

"No," he says now, 165 motion pictures and an Oscar later. "I didn't think of quitting acting just because I was fired.

"I couldn't quit, because I'd never really started. I was only 22 or 23 years old.

He didn't feel well because he had been shot full of serums the day before in preparation for a trip to Lebanon within the month to make a feature film.

The weather was hot, the smog oppressive, and the Academy Award winner (for The Lost Weekend in 1946) looked ill. He said he thought his fever stood at 103 degrees.

Yet he was handsome and trying hard to be gracious.

When Milland played Ryan O'Neal's unsympathetic father in Love Story, he shocked some of his fans because he was bald and heavier than the glamorous screen lover they remembered.

However, for Black Noon, Milland was trim again, and sporting a thick, grey toupee which he said he wore to please his wife.

"I didn't give a damn whether I was bald or not in Love Story," he avowed.

He touched his forehead at the hairline.

Black Noon is an offshoot from the current infatuation with the occult, specifically witchcraft, and in it Milland plays a warlock.

The star is Welch, scion of the race of Merlin, a people reputed to be other worldly; however, if the Welch reputation is deserved, Milland is an anomaly.

"The only people who believe in witches, ghosts and the like are those who are very impressionable," he says. Thus, his performance as a warlock is more an intellectual exercise than method acting.

Because Milland first came to Hollywood in 1931 and was promptly placed under contract to MGM, he made much of his bundle before income taxes became a serious threat to saving, so he surely doesn't need to work to eat.

He admits as much without being specific about his financial affairs but says, "I'd go out of my mind just sitting at home. That's all right for a couple of weeks, but I have to be doing something."

Born Reginald Truscott-Jones in northern Wales, he attended King's College, University of Wales, and Cambridge.

Since he was an expert horseman of commanding physique (6 feet 2), and because he couldn't think of anything in particular he'd rather do, young Reggie joined the Household Cavalry, an elite and smartly disciplined unit assigned to guard royalty.

He stayed with the troop four years and might have been there until retirement except that his father could no longer afford the expenses incident to a youthful officer's career.

That was in 1930.

A year later he was in Hollywood, under contract to MGM, and embarked upon a professional climb to stardom which he gained in 1935 when he appeared opposite Dorothy Lamour in Jungle Princess.

Soon he was one of moviedom's most popular leading men. Meanwhile, before he had acquired star billing, he had acquired a wife, a nonprofessional named Muriel Frances Weber, to whom he's still happily married.

"I've been married 40 years next week," he said with satisfaction. "I can't give a formula for making marriage work, except to say, 'Pick somebody you like.' I only know my wife has let me rant and rave all these years without losing her own good humor.

"I've been an American citizen for 38 years," he continues, "because, in the first place, my father-in-law made me promise to be naturalized as a condition of marrying his daughter. He was very adamant about that.

"Anyway, I wanted to become an American citizen for many reasons, including the very practical one that, as an American, it would be easier for me to travel.

"In those days, it was very difficult for a British subject to return to Britain for a visit. All sorts of red tape was involved. And I liked to go home every year.

"In fact, I've travelled all my life, I enjoy it."

When Milland isn't travelling, he devotes his free time to golf and boating. A member of the Bel-Air Country Club, he's an avid golfer with a handicap of 10, while two of his boats have been Honolulu Race winners.

Had Milland's father been able to subsidize further his son's military career, the handsome Oscar winner might have been enjoying the quiet life of a retired cavalry officer in a charming cottage in Wales rather than sitting in a cramped portable dressing room in hot, smoggy San Fernando Valley, ill from overseas shots.

Besides, if he hadn't turned actor, he probably wouldn't have come to Hollywood and met "Mal."

All-Star Cast Set For TV Picture

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lynn Fontanne of the famous Broadway team of (Alfred) Lunt and Fontanne will star in a two-hour Universal Pictures TV version of the 1927 Broadway hit The Royal Family.

The show will be filmed in Hollywood early next year, with an all-star cast. The play, by George Kaufman and Edna Ferber, is about a theatrical dynasty which bears a close resemblance to the Barrymores — Ethel, Lionel and John.

NEW YORK — "I took the stuffiness out of radio," said Arthur Godfrey, and that says it all. He is sitting at his desk at CBS Radio, a guitar perched across his lap, and he looks in booming good health with that shock of red hair and the Huckleberry Finn impudence and the distinctively familiar voice and the earthy vocabulary of an old salt who has remained, through the years, irrepressibly his own man.

Retirement? It seems preposterous. Arthur Godfrey retire? He's altogether too vital, too full of bounce and vinegar and the inhale and exhale of life. And wasn't it only yesterday, or the day before, that Arthur Godfrey was all over the dial, this man who was born for the microphone?

Edith Efron has worked for TV Guide for 10 years. As a result, she watches a lot of television. She watched even more during the presidential campaign of 1968, and she taped a lot of what she watched.

The results of all this watching, taping and an evaluation thereof add up to a stinging indictment of network television insofar as fairness and objectivity are concerned.

For instance: In the primary areas of her study she confined herself to the 7 to 7:30 p.m. half hour that is supposed to represent "news." She narrowed her tape-recorded critique even further — the last 60 days of the 90-day campaign. She taped about 100,000 words per network and isolated the "for" and "against" opinion on the top issues. In this case the "for" and "against" was applied against not only those making the news but also the TV people reporting the news.

The results of this particular phase of her long look at TV: News reporting on television is biased, with the evidence crystal clear. There is bias strongly in favor of liberal to left thought. The 1968 reporting was massively

After 27 Years, Arthur Godfrey Packs It In

By DON FREEMAN

NEW YORK — "I took the stuffiness out of radio," said Arthur Godfrey, and that says it all. He is sitting at his desk at CBS Radio, a guitar perched across his lap, and he looks in booming good health with that shock of red hair and the Huckleberry Finn impudence and the distinctively familiar voice and the earthy vocabulary of an old salt who has remained, through the years, irrepressibly his own man.

Retirement? It seems preposterous. Arthur Godfrey retire? He's altogether too vital, too full of bounce and vinegar and the inhale and exhale of life. And wasn't it only yesterday, or the day before, that Arthur Godfrey was all over the dial, this man who was born for the microphone?

Not long ago, Godfrey announced that he is leaving radio next April 30, on the 27th anniversary of Arthur Godfrey Time. Meanwhile, he'll be visible in commercials and he's planning several TV specials and he'll be spreading the word on such pet projects as ecology. He'll keep busy.

"I just said to hell with it," Godfrey was saying. "I said what's the use of busting my butt when some of these CBS Radio stations are switching me around to crazy hours like 5 in the morning or 11 at night? I got disgusted with that kind of treatment. Who wants to be booted all over hell?

"These stations have their rock 'n' roll formats, and I didn't fit in. And it wasn't my ratings, either.

"In most cases, I'd go on with my show and the ratings went up. But — get this — these guys with their rock programming said it took 'em two hours for them to get their regular gum-chewing audience back.

"Well, nuts to them," said Godfrey. Or something similar. Then he grinned. "If they don't need me, I sure don't need them."

He plunked a chord on his guitar, letting his fingers ease off on a note of finality. "In Chicago," he said, "some guy at a station said, 'Godfrey? He's just some legend' and he took a survey and our show overpowered the ratings. He wanted to switch me to some ridiculous hour but he didn't have a leg to stand on. I'm still big in a lot of places, like Detroit, and in St. Louis the station builds the whole day's schedule around me."

"Arthur," I said, "won't you miss radio?"

He nodded. "I'll miss it," he said softly. "After all these years, sure, I'll miss it."

Then he shook his head and the tone of vituperation returned. "Talk about loyalty," he said. "My old station in Washington, where I started out, went to straight news and I got chopped.

"Look," he said, "they just don't want powerful figures in radio anymore. What they want is Muzak in an outhouse. I turn on the radio and I hear these guys doing their jokes and telling you the temperature and screaming away and it turns my stomach.

"Who can believe what these people say on the air? Credibility — that's one scarce commodity and I'm proud that I've always had it. I'm proud of what we accomplished in ecology, in waking the people up, and we did it by putting out some entertainment and then slipping in the messages."

Godfrey talked, with a wistful edge, about his beginnings in radio. "It was back in the '30s and announcers talked like this-" here he mimicked the lofty, pear-shaped, stuffed-shirt sounds of the day. "I had that bad automobile accident and I'm lying in the hospital bed listening to the radio.

'Hey,' I said to myself. 'These guys are all wrong. They act like they're talking to an audience. That's nonsense. Radio is one or two persons sitting at home. Radio is an intimate medium.' "

When Godfrey returned to the air, he tested his theories and they worked, "at first," says Godfrey. "the manager said to me, 'There's no future for you in front of a mike.' But you can work somewhere in the control room.' But I stuck to my guns. I visualized just one listener out there and when other people started imitating me I knew I was on to something. I think I was right because I was able to last. The imitators didn't.

Arthur Godfrey

"It was just about then," said Arthur, grinning, "that I deliberately fluffed a line on the air. At a station break, I was supposed to say, 'This is the National Farm and Home Hour.' Instead I said, 'This is the National Foam and Harm hour.' The brass at the station trembled. They waited for a big reverberation. But nothing happened. People just laughed and enjoyed it.

"It was a whole new thing, having fun when the medium was so full of solemnity. And that's what I did — I took the stuffiness out of radio."

He sure did. And he'll be missed.

A Critical View

The News Twisters

THE NEWS TWISTERS: by Edith Efron; Nash Publishing; 355 pages; $7.95.

By JOHN PINKERMAN
Copley News Service

Edith Efron has worked for TV Guide for 10 years. As a result, she watches a lot of television. She watched even more during the presidential campaign of 1968, and she taped a lot of what she watched.

The results of all this watching, taping and an evaluation thereof add up to a stinging indictment of network television insofar as fairness and objectivity are concerned.

For instance: In the primary areas of her study she confined herself to the 7 to 7:30 p.m. half hour that is supposed to represent "news." She narrowed her tape-recorded critique even further — the last 60 days of the 90-day campaign. She taped about 100,000 words per network and isolated the "for" and "against" opinion on the top issues. In this case the "for" and "against" was applied against not only those making the news but also the TV people reporting the news.

The results of this particular phase of her long look at TV: News reporting on television is biased, with the evidence crystal clear. There is bias strongly in favor of liberal to left thought. The 1968 reporting was massively slanted against President Nixon. The networks systematically rationalized violence by black militants and new leftist. TV consistently attacked the middle class as "racist," "ignorant," and "authoritarian." And, from Miss Efron's research, she concludes that the charges of Vice President Spiro Agnew against the networks are valid.

On the bias against Nixon in '68: In the critical period Miss Efron covered, emerging from the tube via American Broadcasting Co. "news" reports were 869 words favorable to Nixon and 7,493 words that were unfavorable. Columbia Broadcasting System's count showed 320 words favorable and 5,300 unfavorable; National Broadcasting Co., 431 words favorable and 4,234 unfavorable. Vice-President Hubert Humphrey did a little better — 4,218 to 3,569 favorable trend on ABC, 2,388 to 2,083 on CBS and an unfavorable mix of 1,852 to 2,635 on NBC.

The conservative vs. the liberal count was amusing, too — with CBS having nothing good to say about either, while the NBC count was 101 for to 474 words against liberals; 88 for and 312 against conservatives.

On black militants vs. the white middle class, NBC went completely off the scale, with 3,666 words in favor of the militants and 1,383 against. On the whites, NBC had nothing good to say — not a single word, but voiced 1,068 words of criticism.

Miss Efron deplores what she calls close TV attention to the "lunatic right." But, what is missing, she says, is "journalistic candor (in TV) about the left." Her tests showed that, on the other hand, TV networks are giving "more than equal time to the minority of Americans who specialize in attacking the United States, its institutions, its citizens."

There is something in "TNT" for everybody and it even is acclaimed by Dr. George Weinberg, a leftist who, despite the fact that the networks are claimed to favor his side, deplores what he calls TV lies and warns his colleagues against (TV) 'pseudo-allies.'"

Mr. and Mrs. Schneedly, a pair of fecund hamsters with 23 offspring and more in prospect.

"We thought we'd breed hamsters for profit," says Dawson, "because they reproduce so rapidly. But we can't find anyone who will buy them at $400 each."

Dawson has both a pool table and a swimming pool. Each is outsized and constantly in use.

Gary has become a superb pool shooter in addition to playing the piano and organ. Mark is the best swimmer in the family and plays guitar.

Every other summer the boys travel to England to spend the school holiday with their mother. On alternate years they visit their mother during the Christmas season.

Miss Dors, incidently, has remarried and has a new baby.

Their father spends three days a week at NBC's Burbank studios rehearsing for four hours. On the two days when the show is taped he must spend 14 hours on call.

On free weekends Dawson loads his sons into the car and they are off to the marina and a 23-foot motorboat. They enjoy hours of fishing and cruising up and down the coast with frequent trips to Catalina Island.

"Why not?" he asks. "We three men like it that way."

Suspected Felon . . . . . . Establishment Fuzz

Former Fugitive Switches To Law

David Janssen

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — David Janssen spent four successful years fleeing the clutches of the law in his defunct Fugitive series, but now he's doing the chasing in a new television show as a T-man.

As a suspected felon Janssen won the support of those viewers who cheer for the fox in a fox-hunt or cry for the bull at a bullfight.

After all, Janssen was innocent.

Whether he will garner as great a following now that he is part of the establishment fuzz is another matter.

All the same, Janssen has his own following, as do Raymond Burr and Mike Connors. Individually or in concert these three television-spawned stars could play bird-watchers or the diety and still place in Nielsen's top ten.

Janssen doesn't think so: "I don't believe an audience will tune in unless the show is good and the stories well done. That's why my primary concern always has been the people behind the cameras."

Despite a top-flight production team, Janssen must work 15 hours a day, five days a week to complete episodes of O'Hara, U.S. Treasury for CBS.

He lives in his spacious dressing room on the universal lot. It has a bedroom, living room, kitchen and bath. He's furnished it much as the character he played in Richard Diamond might have. It's a bachelor pad that should happen to all bachelors.

"I live here because I don't want a house," he said. "That's a bother. I'm single. No kids. And I work until 11 p.m. So I come in here, have a couple of drinks with the crew members and go to sleep.

"I stay here on weekends reading scripts. I read a script three times and never look at it again. Thank God I'm a quick study.

"But it's not luck. I've trained my mind over the years to improve my memory. This allows me the freedom to walk off the set and never have to worry about the script or my lines."

Unlike The Fugitive, Janssen talks his head off in the new series. He's in almost every scene and the dialogue is a drumfire of question and answers. So far Janssen appears to thrive on it.

He is amused that Universal was his first professional home in Hollywood. He was under contract to the studio playing bit parts back in 1950s.

"My first dressing room was a nail to hang my coat on," he said, grinning. "I did 32 feature movies on this lot and dubbed a lot of voices for other actors. The big stars here in those days were Jeff Chandler, Tony Curtis, Rock Hudson and that bunch."

Today there's hardly a bigger star on the lot than Janssen himself — with the possible exception of the aforementioned Burr.

Pot Party Furore Ended

There was a brief national furor in the U.S. after Jack Missett, then 22 and a TV news reporter from Chicago station WBBM, led a crew which filmed a marijuana party near the university campus.

The furore was over the issue of whether Missett and his crew staged the party to make a more sensational news report. The U.S. Federal Communications Commission and some congressmen demanded non-used film taken by the crew but WBBM said it had been destroyed and the furore died down without any action ever being taken.

Now, Missett has been fired by WBBM over another, non-related matter. He will go down in the books as the central figure in the first incident of a TV station being subpoenaed for "out-takes" — non-used film.

America

Another day another panic. Today's menace is American "super-children," who are about to succeed in conquering Canada by sheer brain-power, where previous incursions of multi-coporations, international unions, comic books, pornography, Barbie dolls and the Frisbee have failed.

Ian Fife, a Toronto school principal, warned the Ontario Teachers Federation that the Americans' new secret weapon, pre-school education, threatens to wipe out what little remains of Canadian sovereignty, unless we do something about it!

America's Newest Secret Weapon Threatens to Wipe Out Identity

By DENNIS BRAITHWAITE
Colonist - Telegram Service

Today's menace is American "super-children," who are about to succeed in conquering Canada by sheer brain-power, where previous incursions of multi-coporations, international unions, comic books, pornography, Barbie dolls and the Frisbee have failed.

Ian Fife, a Toronto school principal, warned the Ontario Teachers Federation that the Americans' new secret weapon, pre-school education, threatens to wipe out what little remains of Canadian sovereignty, unless we do something about it!

"It is such a frightening thing," he quavered. "If we are dominated now, wait until there is a wave of super-children who can read or understand in the way that seems to be indicated in this experiment."

The experiment he means is one involving the TV program Sesame Street. Studies apparently show that kiddies who watch it improve their learning abilities 100 per cent (don't ask me how learning ability can be measured so precisely).

If the U.S. project is successful, warned Fife, Canadian children could find themselves "a long way back." In the midst of his lamentation, Fife managed to drop the figure $75 million. That amount it seems, is what the U.S. government is spending on a reading-problem program inspired by the success of Sesame Street. Canadian educators can relax; if TV means more public money to play around with, then maybe TV is not the enemy after all.

That children learn best from TV or films and worse from lectures has been well-known, at least since the Second World War when the government was confronted with the task of instructing thousands of servicemen and women in the shortest possible time. After the war, the educational establishment went right back to reliance on talking heads in classroom.

The youngsters, however, chose vision as their means of learning things; the more they watched TV, the greater their alienation from the tired old learning-by-rote routine in the schools. What they didn't pick up on the tube, they absorbed from their transistors and at Friday night flicks in the plaza. School became and remains for them utterly irrelevant.

The schools fought back, with higher so-called standards, expanded curricula, permissiveness (alternating with draconic discipline), parent involvement, field trips, projects, driving courses, marriage counselling, birth-control pills. But none of it worked; when you become irrelevant nothing works.

In the end, the schools and the adult society they represent simply gave up the fight and conceded victory to the kids, in fact, if not in name. Youth culture now is the universal culture; their values, our values. We whistle their tunes and solicit their advice.

There's something pitiful about the Toronto principal's warning that the schools must now "adapt" themselves to television or suffer final engulfment by the Yanks.

I have a better idea. Convert all the post-elementary schools, colleges and universities into youth hostels and give up this mad idea of trying to "educate" unwilling youngsters by methods that were obsolete a generation ago.

Let's resign ourselves to a population of permanently floating youth who already know more than those who want to educate them. Education in conventional terms and beyond the demands of basic literacy is obsolete.

There are lots of other places we can use all that money.

Snowbird Girl vs. Snowball

It's love at first bite as Snowball the ox takes a nip at singer Anne Murray's poncho during the filming of a CBC television special at Black Creek Pioneer Village in Toronto. Livestock man Jack Cowan tries to pull Snowball and companion Whitey as the damage is done.

Michener Presents Award

OTTAWA (CP) — Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener has presented the 1970 Michener award for meritorious public service in journalism jointly to the CBC and the Financial Post in a ceremony at Government House.

The award was given for a joint investigation of the air charter business. The selection, announced last April, was made by a four-man jury that also gave honorable mentions to Vancouver radio station CKLG and Windsor Star.

The Governor-General thanked them all for "this particular extension of your normal activities of journalism into the field of public service."

Clive Baxter of the Financial Post and Alan Erlich of the CBC in Toronto, a director, accepted bronze plaques for their organizations.
